CHARLESTON (W. Va.) Sept. 24.—A general strike involving 120,000 organized workers of West Virginia will be called "if Federal troops are to be used as a strike-breaking agency instead of for the protection of the constitutional rights of citizens of State and nation," said C. F. Keeney, president of district No. 17, United Mine Workers of America, in a statement tonight.

Mr. Keeney added that "before this drastic action is taken, however, the associations of coal miners in Northern and Southern West Virginia will be requested to use their influence to have Federal soldiers removed from that State in order that tranquility may prevail."

COX PAINS DEMOCRATS.

rieans Preparing for Worst Beating in History of the Party.

BY HARRY CARR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

, Sept. 24.—After one of the most stupidly managed campaigns in modern political history, Brother Cox is hanging on the ropes and will soon yell for help.

month of the campaign it was revealed that the Democrats are in for the worst licking they have had since the election of Mr. The betting odds are against Cox. Rhinelander Waldo, president of the Harding League, says that Democrats all over the country are flocking to the Harding. He compares the desertion of Bryan Democrats in 1896. Mr. says that the movement is strongest in the rural districts. In New York City even Democrats are jumping the fence and are openly enlisting in the Harding ranks.

HARDING PLAN FAILS.

The plan of pandering to union labor openly and miserably has failed. In spite of all the indorsements he will not get the union vote. There is a very strong anti-Harding sentiment among workingmen which has turned them bitterly against the Wilson League of Nations and all other foreign policies of the Wilson administration. Mr. Wilson, besides, is the Democratic safeguard. The United States by kowtowing to Europe, now is being treated by his own party in the same place bitter blame is being heaped upon him. They say he has ruined the Presidential campaign. The league, hicktown politicians are mud throwing. They tell me frankly that Cox has proven himself a rube and his own grocery store associates themselves are the ones who are afraid of turning over the affairs of the United States to a man of such caliber.

OPPOSITION.

It must be admitted, however, that the opposition against a tough proposition. Neither he nor Hardin have the stuff from which Presidents are made. The attitude of the public toward the

Killed in Auto Crash

Fred Maujeks of 110 West Washington street was fatally injured early today when the automobile he was driving crashed into the rear end of a truck driven by P. Salusso, a rancher of Newhall, on the State Highway two miles south of Newhall. He died on his way to the hospital in San Fernando, where he was being taken in a private machine. His body was then taken to the Scovins undertaking parlors in Glendale. Deputy Sheriffs Sweesy and Johnson are investigating the accident.

Street Car Held Up

Two highwaymen held up car No. 190 of the East First-street-and-Brooklyn-avenue line of the Los Angeles Railway early today at Wabash and Indiana streets and, at the points of their revolvers, robbed Conductor Hatfield and Motorman Drubb of $40. They then fled in a fast automobile. A police machine filled with detectives of the flying squad is hunting for them.

SUPREME COURT GETS APPEAL OF NEWBERRY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The appeals of Senator Newberry of Michigan and sixteen other defendents convicted last March at Grand Rapids, Mich., on charges of corruption in the 1918 Michigan Senatorial election, were filed today in the Supreme Court.

The applicants attacked the validity of the Federal Corrupt Practice Act and also asked the court to pass on the authority of Congress to fix the amount that candidates may expend for campaign purposes.

MORE BUNGLING CHARGED.

MARION (O.) Sept. 24.—The administration's merchant marine policy was assailed by Senator Harding today in a front-porch speech in which he declared that this and other issues of the campaign were too big to be "obscured by any sort of a vaudeville performance on the part of anyone."

Charging that the Shipping Board had been "a continual fiasco," he said that with efficient management the nation's marine resources should have permitted the establishment of shipping lines to all parts of the world as soon as the war was over. One of his first acts as Chief Executive, he said, would be to inaugurate a policy that would "unfurl the flag again on every sea."

He also reiterated charges of extravagance and blundering by the Democrats and declared his purpose to establish economical and efficient business administration. Touching on the high cost of living, he said that while no cure-all had been found, governmental and individual thrift and a protective tariff would go a long way to lower prices.

The speech was made to a gathering of West Virginians, who cheered the candidate's thrusts at Democratic rule and his pledges of reform. The delegation came overland in more than three hundred automobiles. Judge J. W. Vandervort of Parkersburg promised a Republican victory in West Virginia.

Tomorrow the Senator will speak to a delegation of several thousand members of the Harding and Coolidge Traveling Men's League, who will be brought here by more than thirty special trains.

It was revealed tonight that although the candidate is to make numerous out-of-town speeches after this week, tomorrow's meeting will not mark the end of the front-porch program. A delegation of women from many parts of the country is to be addressed here on October 1 on social welfare subjects and on October 15, the nominee will speak to a gathering of first voters.

DENTON'S HEIRESS HERE.

Pretty Daughter Can Throw No Light on Tragedy That Cost Her Father.

Frances A. Denton, the 16-year-old daughter and heiress of Jacob C. Denton, the wealthy mining man murdered and buried in the basement of his home at 675 South Catalina street, and Mrs. Sarah Denton, her mother and the divorced first wife of the victim, arrived in Los Angeles last night from Phoenix, Ariz., where the young woman was to meet her father on June 3, the day after he was killed.

The strain of the past few days plainly showing in her attractive face, Miss Denton walked up the runway from the tracks tunnel at the Southern Pacific Station, assisting her mother as they walked. Mother and daughter were met by Ruah M. Blodget, attorney representing Miss Denton's interests here. Detective A. J. Cody, who made the investigation for him, and Dwight Dale, of 206 South Rampart Boulevard, Denton's close associate in his mining operations. Later the party was met by relatives of Mrs. Denton, and the girl and her mother taken to the home of the former.

"I don't know anything that would shed any light on the terrible thing that happened to my father," the girl said. "Everything I knew I gave to my Phoenix attorneys, and they in turn sent it to Los Angeles to Judge Avery. Father was to meet me in Phoenix, but did not come. We waited and waited, without hearing anything from him. He was always so prompt in his letters, and he never failed to come when he said he would. I am sure that if he was alive at that time he would have come to see me, as he wrote he would."

The young woman who was to get three-fourths of the estate mentioned in Denton's will, is well developed for her age. She bears a strong resemblance to her father's pictures, taken when he was some years younger. The trip to Los Angeles was made at the advice of the attorneys.

LIGHT FROM PARTNER.

The manner in which Denton met Mrs. R. C. Peete and rented to her the palatial home at 675 South Catalina street, where his body was found four months later buried in the basement, was made known last night by Mr. Dale.

Denton did not know Mrs. Peete in the East or anywhere else, Mr. Dale declared. He met her when she answered an advertisement which Dale published at the request of Denton, when the latter decided to rent the big house and retain one room for himself, if possible.

"As I recall it the first time Denton ever saw Mrs. Peete was early in May. I saw Denton a few weeks before that, after my arrival from the East, where I was representing the Grand Pacific Copper Company of Superior, Ariz., a corporation in which Denton had a large block of stock, and for which he was the general manager.

"When I located Denton, he was at the Hayward Hotel. Mrs. Denton died about a week before. Then it was I learned that Denton bought the house for Mrs. Denton, planning to make a home for her and settle down in Los Angeles.

"Some time after his wife's death, Denton moved into the Catalina-street house. At first he and a few of his friends and business associates, including myself, planned to start a club, to be known as the Ambassador Club, in the house. A lease was drawn up, but never signed. Then the plan was abandoned, and the ad placed in the paper. Mrs. Peete answered it and rented the house at $300 a month. I never heard Denton say that the arrangement was ever changed. Two other women, a mother and daughter, from Denver were in the house. Mr. Denton intended to go East on a business trip, and often talked about it."

It was shortly after he rented the house to Mrs. Peete that Denton grew up the hill, Dale said, but there was nothing unusual about that. Denton mentioned it to him, saying he left one-fourth of his estate to charity. During the discussion of the will Denton did not say anything or act as if he had any fear of the future. He considered it a business thing to do, Mr. Dale declared.

Some time between the renting of the house and the first part of June, Dale said, Denton called at his house. Mrs. Peete, her daughter, and a few others were in the party. Mrs. Peete made a very good impression on everyone. Dale de-

Curious Explanation is Given to Account for One-Armed Man

Mrs. Ida L. Gregory, assistant to Juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, who was with Mrs. R. C. Peete during the time James W. Crowhurst was doing plumbing work at the home of Jacob C. Denton, whose body was found in the basement of the Wilshire-district residence on Wednesday, yesterday corroborated, at Denver, Mrs. Peete's statement that the man was there to repair a water heater and that the work had been ordered done by Denton. She also confirmed Mrs. Peete's assertion that the clothes the latter is said to have given the man were left by Denton to be turned over to the Salvation Army. Both women declare that Crowhurst was "unduly desirous of obtaining the suit."

"The plumber was extremely anxious to obtain that suit of clothes," said Mrs. Gregory. "I also am confident that the man spent several unnecessary days in doing the work. How he put in the time in that basement is more than I know. It is certain that if he had been constructing a closet or erecting a partition our attention would have been attracted by the noise. We heard no such sounds."

Mrs. R. C. Peete, central figure in the investigation into the murder of Jacob C. Denton, made the extraordinary statement in Denver last night that she now believes the one-armed man who has figured largely as Denton in her previous statements was not Denton at all, but a double of the slain capitalist.

This theory was advanced by Mrs. Peete when she was questioned regarding the discrepancy between her statements of Denton's having lost an arm as a result of a wound and the fact that the corpse dug up in Denton's cellar has both arms intact.

"Shortly before Mr. Denton's disappearance," said Mrs. Peete, "he returned from a trip downtown and told me he had quarreled with a Mexican or Spanish woman. His arm was in a sling and wrapped in bandages. I do not know the extent of the wounds because of the bandages.

"As I recall it all now, Mr. Denton must have had a double and I am almost sure his double's right arm was missing. This is the man I referred to in my statement during the investigation as having met in July.

"As my association with Mr. Denton was brief, I could easily have taken the other man for Mr. Denton. The two men were very similar in build and general appearance and wore the same kind of clothing. The supposed double, however, always wore dark blue glasses. He was always very nervous."

In this connection the local police direct attention to the reported statement of Mrs. Peete to Judge Avery regarding the $450 check in her favor drawn on Denton's account and dated since his disappearance but which was apparently not in Denton's handwriting. This statement, according to Judge Avery, was that she, Mrs. Peete, met Denton at the Hayward and helped him write the check with his left hand because his right arm was missing. George F. Neil, a chauffeur, who received some of Denton's clothes from Mrs. Peete to be sold, told the District Attorney yesterday that Mrs. Peete told him Denton had given her the clothes to give away because he had lost his right arm and would have to have a new outfit.

ABOUT CROWHURST.

Informed that James W. Crowhurst, a plumber, had told the police who did not want anyone to go into the cellar and wished to have him board up the entrances to it, Mrs. Peete declared she had nothing to say. She said Crowhurst had been hired at the bidding of Denton to do some repairing about the house. Crowhurst's statement is that he was hired by Mrs. Peete early in June. Denton disappeared June 3, according to the investigators. Mrs. Gregory was with Mrs. Peete in the Denton house at the time, and Mrs. Peete said she introduced Crowhurst to her Denver friends.

Friends of Mrs. Peete and some of the independent investigators yesterday expressed some belief in the theory that the body found in the cellar is not that of Denton, although so identified by his nephew. The face is unrecognizable and the identification is based mainly on the size of the corpse, dimensions characteristic of Denton, and the clothing, especially the silver belt-buckle bearing his monogram which he always wore. The police, however, declare that the objections to this theory are well-nigh insurmountable and that the evidence in favor of its being Denton's body is overwhelming.

F. C. Baxter and Paul R. Aumont, the two nephews of the mining man, paid another visit to the undertaking parlors, and again identified the body as that of their uncle. The clothing on the body, the belt buckle and the ring on his hand were identified as belonging to Denton. His hair, also, was identified by both men. Another link added to the identification by the statement of Crowhurst, the plumber, who says he was given Denton's clothes by Mrs. Peete. The man says that the trousers found on the body, of dark cloth with a thin blue stripe—match the coat and vest given him by Mrs. Peete, as Denton's. Detectives Hickey, Cassin, Jessup and Patrolman Leons spent a part of the afternoon in assisting Crowhurst to locate the coat and vest in a second-hand store where he sold them.

SLAIN BY POISON.

That the victim came to his death from a powerful poison administered to him while he was in his own house is the belief of the police, based on the official report of the acting autopsy surgeon, Dr. Frank Wood, made to the Coroner's office following the post-mortem examination over the body.

Dr. Wood's autopsy, performed after his preliminary examination on the advance of the body was discovered, failed to disclose any external or internal signs of violence, or lead to the finding of any visible cause of death, the Coroner's office was formally notified yesterday. The autopsy surgeon made a thorough examination of the heart, lungs and all other vital organs, but secured few marks from possible blows and also carefully went over every part of the body without finding anything that would establish the cause of death. His report gives the cause of Denton's death as unknown.

As the possibility of Denton dying from natural causes and then being buried in the sandy tomb in his own home by a person or persons unknown was discarded by the police, the only logical conclusion for the investigating officers is that poison was used. The lines of investigation followed by the detectives indicate that they are expecting that poison will be found in the man's viscera.

The official announcement of the poison death theory is not expected to be made until some time next week, as it was learned yesterday that the chemical analysis now being made by Prof. Arthur R. Maas, the Coroner's expert, cannot be completed in time for an inquest today—the date tentatively set by Acting Coroner Williams, Thursday.

Although the autopsy surgeon's report is ready, the chemical report is needed before the Coroner can go on with the inquest, it was said at the Coroner's office yesterday. The inquest will probably be held Monday or Tuesday.

Prof. Maas said yesterday that he is examining every organ in Denton's body for every possible kind of poison. The man's body is in a fair state of preservation in spite of the fact that it is believed to have been buried in the earth for nearly ninety days, and the autopsy surgeon and the chemist are not experiencing much difficulty in their work. Monday or Tuesday is the earliest the chemical report can be expected, Prof. Maas said yesterday.

GAVE AWAY CLOTHES.

Evidence purporting to show that Mrs. Peete, who has been ordered held under police surveillance, disposed of a large quantity of the slain capitalist's clothing and personal effects shortly after his disappearance on June 3 was gathered yesterday by the authorities.

STATEMENT BY CROWHURST

Plumber's Affidavit Throws New Light on Denton Murder Case.

Following is the complete affidavit of James W. Crowhurst in the Denton murder case:

Early in the month of June, 1920, I was passing the house at 675 South Catalina street and being engaged in a repair business of automatic water heaters and noticing ladies on the porch of this house I solicited repairs on heaters on that place. With very little consideration of the matter the lady, who later came to my knowledge to be Mrs. R. C. Peete, told me to go downstairs into the cellar of the house and examine the heater for repairs. I did so and within a few minutes Mrs. Peete followed me into the cellar in company with another lady, who later introduced herself to me as Mrs. Gregory, who had been connected

212 North Virgil street, stated that on or about June 15 Mrs. Peete gave him some of Denton's underwear, shirts and two suits of clothes, one practically new, saying that Denton "would have no further use for them."

James W. Crowhurst, a plumber, of 1031 South Hobart Boulevard, made an affidavit to the effect that Mrs. Peete gave him a quantity of Denton's clothing, saying that Denton had lost his right arm and would have to have a new outfit. Some of this clothing he says he sold under Mrs. Peete's orders.

Crowhurst declared in his statement that Mrs. Peete appeared anxious that no one should enter the cellar and asked him about boarding up all entrances to it. She particularly referred to the cellar closet in which the body of Denton was later found buried under earth.

Mrs. M. Tilton of 210 South Alvarado street, a dressmaker, turned over to the police the bank books, personal notebooks, etc., of Denton, which she says Mrs. Peete asked her to keep. Among the articles is a pawn ticket for a man's diamond ring which she says she pawned at Mrs. Peete's request.

Mrs. Wallace Rimpau of 661 South Bonnie Brae street, a friend of Mrs. Peete, told investigators that Mrs. Peete seemed afraid to stay in the Denton house alone.

On the other hand, Mrs. Peete in Denver yesterday stoutly denied any knowledge of the manner in which Denton came to his end, reiterated her suspicions of a "Spanish woman" and declared she will return here to assist the police in the inquiry.

After a consultation with the District Attorney the detectives announced that they have not yet evidence sufficient to ask for a warrant for the arrest of anyone.

CROWHURST'S STORY.

Crowhurst was interrogated by Detectives Lyon and Box after it was learned, the police say, that he had listed for sale with local real estate men the Denton house; that he had in his possession a dress suit belonging to Denton; that he had sold some of Denton's clothing and that he had had in his possession the coat and vest which matched the trousers in which Denton's body was clothed when it was stuffed into the closet.

Points to which detectives attach significance were made in his statement, briefly, as follows:

Crowhurst met a woman who he says is Mrs. R. C. Peete by doing plumbing work for her.

On his first visit to the cellar of the Denton home, early in June, he noticed the room in which the body was found. Fresh earth was there then. Only one nail had been driven to keep the door shut. Mrs. Peete told him, he says, that the room "is some affairs of Mr. Denton" and not to disturb it.

He noticed on his second visit to the cellar that three or four nails had been driven into the door instead of one, he said.

On this occasion he declares Mrs. Peete wanted him to fix a water heater that she said made a noise that "sounded as though a graveyard were awakening up."

Mrs. Peete told Crowhurst, he says, that she was in touch regularly with Denton and knew of his whereabouts, but at his request his relatives were kept in ignorance of this.

"CRITICISED RELATIVES."

"She then described those relatives as a rough and vulgar lot, who may attempt some dirty work around the place, even going so far as to do her personal injury."

Crowhurst says she told him that Denton wanted some one to be intrusted with his affairs while "he went off on what may be termed a clandestine trip."

Just before August 12, Crowhurst says, Mrs. Peete told him that she had received word from Denton saying that Denton was married again, but that Mrs. Peete thought he was in company with some woman, but not married.

Mrs. Peete said Denton told her to give his clothing away because he had lost his right arm and intended getting an entire new outfit. Instead of giving them away, Crowhurst declares, she asked him to sell them for her and this accounts for his having possession of the murdered man's apparel.

At one time Mrs. Peete told him, the statement says, "Why his (Denton's) relatives have even stated that I and some other woman may have had Mr. Denton up in the mountains of Colorado and murdered him."

He listed the property for sale, he asserted, at the request of Mrs. Peete, who said the figure of $25,000 given was set by Mr. Denton.

An overcoat said to have been Denton's property was found at a gasoline station at Ninth street and Vermont avenue, where it was declared Crowhurst had sold it. Other clothing was traced to local second-hand stores, the detectives say.

WHAT NEIL SAYS.

Happenings at the house of Denton at 675 South Catalina street, shortly after Denton's disappearance, were related to Chief Deputy District Attorney Doran yesterday by George E. Neil, a chauffeur, who formerly was employed by a tenant in the house.

In a statement made to Mr. Doran, Neil, who is held in the County Jail in connection with burglary of telephone pay stations at Venice, said that he and his wife went to the Denton home about June 15. He said Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Prough of Bakersfield, employed him as a chauffeur and his wife as a cook. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Prough were at the Clark Hotel, and moved to the Denton home a few days before June 15. Mr. Prough is an automobile dealer of Bakersfield. They rented the place from Mrs. Peete, said Neil and his wife, Mrs. Helen Neil, of 313 North Virgil street. After two or three weeks in the Denton house the Proughs complained that Mrs. Peete, who was still in the house, had brought other people in and they moved to St. Andrews Place and Pico Boulevard.

Mrs. Neil yesterday called on Mr. Doran regarding her husband's case and informed the official of the fact that she and her husband had lived in the house. She also made a statement in writing.

Neil said on two occasions he was in the cellar, once to take down an empty barrel, in which Mrs. Prough's silverware was, and once to carry a beer there for them. He said he noticed the peculiarly built room in which Denton's body was buried, but attached no importance to it. He said he did not notice any door to the room. This was about three days after he arrived there.

GIVEN CLOTHES.

After Neil left the house, while working for the Proughs, Mrs. Peete called him on the telephone, he said, and asked him to help her move some boxes. He went to the house and she gave him some underwear, shirts and two suits of clothes, one a practically new Palm Beach suit, and one a worn hunting suit. Neil asserts that Mrs. Peete said Denton would have no more use for the clothes, that she expected to hear from him soon and that she might have more clothes to give him later. This, Neil said, was early in July.

While there he carried two wardrobe trunks upstairs for Mrs. Peete and helped her with her packing. One of the trunks contained a rifle and shotgun and other hunting things.

Neil asserts in his statement that he often saw a tall, slender woman, about 45 years old, at the house. She was a particular friend of Mrs. Peete, he said, but he did not remember her name.

On one occasion, he said, he saw a man in the den of the house, but did not learn his name. He remembered an elderly woman at the house, but did not know her name.

A haunting fear of remaining alone in the big Catalina-street house was nursed for many days by Mrs. Peete, according to a statement issued yesterday by Mrs. Wallace Rimpau, of 661 South Bonnie Brae avenue and a friend of Mrs. Peete.

"I first met Mrs. Peete," she said, "when she came into my shop near Westlake Park to purchase dresses for her little girl. Mrs. Peete said she and Mrs. Gregory were looking for a house and asked my assistance. Later, she came in my shop and happily told me she had found a place. Quite often she visited me as she said she had grown very fond of me.

"I had met her only in a business way until on July 2, she called me on the telephone and abruptly asked me if my husband drove a car. I told her my friend, Mrs. Woods was coming over and that Mrs. Woods would lend her any assistance with the car. Her explanation was that Mr. Denton, whom I have never seen, had gone away and had left the car for her to use. Mrs. Peete could drive it, but could not back it out of the garage. In answer to her questions, I informed her that Mrs. Woods was all right and so Mrs. Woods and my husband and myself went to her house.

"That evening she asked us if we would not remain in the house with her during the night. She said Mrs. Gregory had gone back East and that she and her little girl were alone, that she feared to remain alone in the big house. We stayed that night and remained with her the following day, which was Sunday. After a drive in the afternoon she asked us to remain again that night in the house with her, which we did. During our stay with her she told us that Denton, whom she said she rented the house from, seemed to be in some kind of trouble. She also told us of the quarrel between Denton and the Spanish woman and the wound which he had evidently received in a quarrel. At no time had she told me she had seen Denton with his right arm missing.

"She also told me of trouble that had existed between Denton and certain relatives of his and on the morning of July 4 two women came to the house inquiring for Mr. Denton."

EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT.

Detective Charles Jones, who had been working on the Denton disappearance for three months prior to the date when Detective A. J. Cody found the man's body in the basement, announced late yesterday afternoon that he did not feel he has enough evidence on which to ask for warrants for the arrest of any suspect. This statement was made after he and Detective Sergeants Sidney Hickok and Canto left the office of Chief Deputy District Attorney Doran, following a consultation regarding the story of Crowhurst.

"I'll admit that there are some very suspicious circumstances pointing at some persons, but there are many angles to this case and some of them have not been made public thus far. There are many things that need explanation, but also many things we have to learn before we can act," he said.

Earlier in the day Captain of Detectives Moffat, who is assisting the District Attorney's office in the investigation, said that witnesses examined by Mr. Doran during the day made statements strongly corroborative of evidence already at hand, but that to date the investigators have not sufficient facts to warrant immediate arrests.

None of the officers working on the case have asked for a warrant for anyone's arrest in the murder mystery up to the time the District Attorney's office was closed last night. Chief Deputy Doran also stated that the grand jury did not take up the case and that so far he had not even considered such a course of action.

A bill for fertilizer, thought to have been purchased in Denton's name, was found in the Denton house. The fertilizer is believed to have been the same rich soil under which the body was found. The man who sold the fertilizer is said to have called at the Denton house to collect the money and Mrs. Peete is said to have told him that Denton had gone to Seattle. Contradictory to this statement, Mrs. Miller stated yesterday she had overheard Mrs. Peete tell another man, inquiring for Denton, that he had gone to Missouri to visit his brother.

MRS. PEETE TO ASSIST POLICE.

Leaving Denver Today With Denton Case Evidence.

Mystery Hinted in Telegram May Furnish New Clew.

Woman Reiterates She Has No Knowledge of Killing.

Mrs. R. C. Peete of Denver, the woman friend of Jacob C. Denton, the murdered wealthy mining man, whose body was discovered Thursday in the basement of his mansion at 625 South Catalina street, will leave Denver today for Los Angeles, she announced yesterday to the authorities in the Colorado city, and will do everything in her power to help the officials here solve the mystery of the ghastly crime.

One of the things that Mrs. Peete is bringing with her that may furnish a clew is a telegram from a Los Angeles real estate firm containing an offer to sell the Denton home. In it the assertion is made that her immediate acceptance of the offer is desired because "something has arisen to make the prospective purchaser nervous."

This telegram was exhibited yesterday to Denver authorities in connection with Mrs. Peete's assertion that Denton had agreed to give her power of attorney to sell the South Catalina-street mansion, and had arranged to give her a commission if she could conclude a transfer.

MYSTERIOUS MAN.

A few days after June 6, Mrs. Peete says, a man entered the Denton home, which she was then occupying. He wore a patch over one eye and another on his left cheek, and she thought he was Denton. This man, whoever he was, never returned, and later she instituted the search of the house which resulted in the discovery of the will.

The visit of the man with the patches on his face was made a few days after Mrs. Peete saw Denton on the street here, in an automobile with four strange men, she says.

The little room under the basement stairs in which the body was found Thursday was never opened while she was in the house, Mrs. Peete declares, and her occupancy of the premises began on May 24, nine days before the date on which persons other than herself last saw Denton alive.

Mrs. Peete says she left Denver last May to come to Los Angeles and recuperate after undermining her health by constant nursing of her invalid husband, Mr. Peete, who is now undergoing treatment for tuberculosis in a private sanitarium at Denver, went to Singapore several years ago as a representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. While he was in the Orient he contracted influenza, which permanently impaired his health. From the middle of May until Wednesday of this week, Mr. Peete stayed at the residence of Mrs. Ida B. Gregory, assistant of Judge Ben Lindsay of the Denver Juvenile Court.

NAMES GUESTS.

Mrs. Gregory and her daughter, Miss Maude Gregory, were Mrs. Peete's guests in the Denton home here, she says, on the day early in June when Denton returned to the house with his arm in a sling and asked her to help him pack a few belongings in a suit case.

Denton had trouble with a Mexican over a mine, which he owned in Mexico, Mrs. Peete recalled yesterday, and she also reiterated her statements about a young Spanish woman with whom Mr. Denton quarreled at the house and who, she says, frequently telephoned to see if he was there. It was the voice of this Spanish woman, she is certain, she says, that warned her to keep people out of the basement of the Denton house because valuable liquors were hid there. Mrs. Peete also reiterates her charges that there was constant trouble between Denton and his relatives here—two nephews.

Almost in tears, Mrs. Peete frequently yesterday declared that she is innocent of any complicity in the affair. Beyond being a tenant of the Denton house, she asserted, she knew nothing of Denton, of his affairs or of his friends. She described him as a man who remained much to himself, while he occupied one room in the house after she had rented it. He surrounded his activities with an air of mystery, she said.

Mrs. Peete states, however, that twice before his disappearance in June Denton had disappeared, remaining away for five years in one instance and the second time for ten.

LIQUOR CACHE GONE FROM DENTON HOUSE.

ONLY EMPTY BOTTLES FOUND; DETECTIVES SEEK TAKER AS POSSIBLE CLEW.

What became of Denton's ample supply of high-grade liquors?

The solution of this problem may assist in locating a possible clew to the slayer of the mining man, according to Detective Sergeants Canto and Hickok. Further investigation of the cellar of the South Catalina-street house revealed that a large supply of liquor had been stored beneath the basement stairs.

The only entrance to the stairway vault is through a small door between the stairway and the death chamber and with the crudely constructed death closet closed and barred this entrance was hidden from view and inaccessable. In the small hidden vault were a few empty liquor bottles. Other empty liquor bottles were found in the garage in the rear of the house.

Though Mrs. Peete had previously stated she had been informed Denton kept a big supply of liquor in the basement, no liquor was evident. It had all disappeared. Denton was known by his friends to have been a man who liked his liquor now and then, but who was not an inveterate drinker.

MARSHAL NABS BELLBOYS.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Sept. 24.—"Front," commanded Ellis Workman, United States Deputy Marshal, in the lobby of the Louisville Old Inn Hotel. A bellboy answered, then another and another, until six were there. All were arrested charged with selling liquor.

STORY TOLD BY J. W. CROWHURST

with the juvenile department under Judge Ben D. Lindsay in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Peete then ordered the repairs that I suggested on the water heater.

Then after a few minutes' time had elapsed and while the ladies were both still in the basement with me, Mrs. Peete said to me: "Now, it will not be necessary for you to go into that little room, will it?" indicating by gesture a little room crudely constructed under the cellar stairs. At that time I noticed in the cellar a large amount of loose earth lying on the cellar floor, estimated to be a little over a full wheelbarrow load. The earth smelled as though it had been freshly turned over. There was one other lady apparently residing in the house with these two ladies at the time, however, she did not hear the foregoing statement of Mrs. Peete. Mrs. Peete also said while indicating the room mentioned "that is some affairs of Mr. Denton's."

I repaired the heater and attended to some other house repairs and collected $14 for my services when I finished on that day. On leaving the premises I supplied Mrs. Peete with a card whereby she could reach me by telephone. Later on after a week or two Mrs. Peete left word over the telephone for me to call at 675 South Catalina street. On arriving at that place she told me that as she had not been able to get in touch with me she had called some other heater company to eliminate a peculiar groaning sound that emits occasionally from the water valve when automatic heaters are not in perfect adjustment. She also told me that the person she had called had removed the old pilot light from the heater and replaced it with a new one and charged her $4.50. A little later Mrs. Peete asked again if I could not make the necessary repairs on the heater to eliminate that noise. She said it sounded as though a graveyard were awakening up.

MORE NAILS IN DOOR.

At that time I went down into the cellar and noticed that whereas there had only been one nail supporting a hasp on the door of the little aforementioned room there were now three or four nails supporting the hasp, otherwise the cellar appearing as it had before. Mrs. Peete then asked me if I could not do some repairs for her that were aside from the line I was following. She told me that a Mr. Denton owned the premises and that he had just dropped out of sight and, while she was in touch with him regularly and knew of his whereabouts, at his request his relatives were kept in ignorance of these things. She then described these relatives as a rough and vulgar lot, who may attempt some dirty work around the place, even going so far as to do her personal injury. She asked me if I would board up the entrance from the back yard into the cellar, as it should remain closed permanently. Then she asked me what a person might do to injure her. I told her that gas may be turned loose in the cellar in order to flood the house with gas and thereby asphyxiate the occupants of the house. She then canceled the proposition of boarding up the doorway. She asked me to examine the door closely which leads from the cellar into the basement of the house. I did and showed her evidence of the door having been attacked by burglars' tools or by some persons attempting to force an entrance.

She suggested that I board up all of the space giving access to the cellar to the house, but did not eventually order any of that work done, however, she told me that she was going to rent the house for some amount between $200 or $300 and that she would soon want me to help her to build or arrange a room that was already built adjacent to the garage. This room she intended using as a kitchen and also intended sleeping in a room in the house in company with her daughter Betty, a child of 4 years or so. This room having been set apart as she described it and held for Mr. Denton's occupancy and then she was to rent the remainder of the premises. She eventually found a tenant consisting of a family of six persons including a chauffeur and his wife. She told me she was receiving $200 a month rent from these people. They owned a brand new Pierce-Arrow touring car and said they had just come from Bakersfield. About ten days later or less she called me to the house again and asked me to prepare the kitchen for her. At that time I noticed a filled-out form of a lease for the premises at 675 South Catalina street, naming Mrs. R. C. Peete and Mrs. Gregory as lessees and Mrs. J. C. Denton as lessor at a monthly consideration of $250. I noticed this discrepancy at the time, but Mrs. Peete had told me that her husband was a tuberculosis patient in Denver and as it appeared he was supplying her with living expenses, so I paid little attention to the fact. She told me in regards to her husband that he had been a salesman in high favor with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and had been sent by them on a special mission to China a few years ago. Mrs. Peete told me of her ambition at the time, stating that she intended joining her husband in China there to reside, but that her husband had contracted tuberculosis while in China and had been ordered to Denver by his doctor. She told me of the manner in which she met and became acquainted with Mr. Denton. She said that Mr. Denton was in search of some person to intrust his affairs to while he went off on what might be termed a clandestine trip. She also told me that Mr. Denton's relatives were quite antagonistic to her and jealous of her occupancy of the premises at 675 South Catalina street, and may try to remove the automobile of Mr. Denton, stating that Mr. Denton had given her permission to drive the machine. I repaired the room, or kitchen, and arranged it for her as she had desired and put several curtain rods up in the house at her request for all of the services she paid several times by checks.

GIVEN CLOTHING.

Later on, just prior to August 12, she called me to the house and told me she had just received word from Mr. Denton and that he said that he had been married again; but that she did not believe it, however, that she did believe him to be in company with some other woman and that he had told her or instructed her to donate what clothing he had in the house, consisting of several suits of clothes and a couple of overcoats to some charitable institution as he intended to supply himself with an entirely new outfit. She offered as an excuse that he had lost an arm in some manner. She said that she did not like the idea of giving away those clothes, as it offended her principles of economy. She also said that she did not like to be involved in the actual transaction of selling the clothes, but that she would like to convert them into cash. She asked me if I would dispose of the clothes for what money I could get for them, promising to then pay me for my trouble. I took the clothes home with me and gave her on her demand an itemized receipt for all of the articles taken from the house. I disposed of the clothes at a couple of second-hand stores in this city, with the exception of an overcoat and two pairs of leather leggins, which I sold to private individuals. I noticed among the clothing one coat and vest in particular that seemed so clean and new that it may be a large advantage in the selling of the clothing if I had the pants to the suit, which were not among the things given me. I then went to her house for the pants to the suit, but she said that she had looked high and low for those pants, but could not find them anywhere. I remember thinking at the time that it was strange in her to make that statement that she had looked high and low for the pants as that was the first I had informed her that they did not accompany the coat and vest. On reading the accounts of the finding of Mr. Denton's body, I noticed that his was dressed with one pair of pants and some other clothing, but without a coat and vest and I believe that the coat and vest in question belonged to the pants as the suit.

At one time, in relating the antagonism toward her shown by the relatives of Mr. Denton she said to me, "Why his relatives had even stated that I and some other women may have had Mr. Denton up in the mountains of Colorado and murdered him."

One day she told me she would pay me for my time if I would go down to Sixth and Alvarado and collect a refund on some clothing she had purchased and returned near there, and take the money into town and pay her phone bill for her. This I did and received the composition in money. About the day that I last saw her she called me into the room that had been reserved for Mr. Denton and showing me a little closet in the corner of the room, asked me to try the keys of the other doors of the room, to see if it would be an easy matter for people to gain an entrance to that closet after she had locked it up. She did not seem to attach a great deal of importance to this matter. Mrs. Peete, one time, asked me to let the house with some reliable party or in some way to help bring about a sale of the place, promising me the considerable of some small amount of money if I could effect this. I did list the house for sale with two real estate men of the city at a price that she had made, stating that it was Mr. Denton's price of $25,000. I estimated the place to be worth considerable more than this amount, but thought nothing more of it than I expressed to the real estate men with whom I listed the house, that Mr. Denton was not a resident at the present time of Los Angeles, and not knowing of the construction of the New Ambassador Hotel adjacent to the property and underestimated the value of his holdings. One of the agents of the Mabery Realty Company listed the property at my request. At that Mrs. Peete asked me to or not I must enter the under the stairway to the house. In order to the repairs on the thought that the room contained liquors. I never noticed any odor to a passing thought at the never noticed any odor to that I paid attention to the door of Peete's room. my first entrance I was never or knew of Denton. I first met Mrs. in June of 1920 and during the middle of have seen her occasional times during the two months. Everything Mrs. Peete she told me the exception of the against her which was not any this to me because I got in touch with her on the morning of her from this city, but she day before she left, that I not pay me, before she left would be back some time make settlement. Denton of my first work for her, confidence in her, and I meddle in her affairs, to trust me to a large degree.

Adobe

the Building Material that Endures —as Permanent as Brick or Tile and Costs Less than Half as Much!

In its modernized form, adobe is by far the most practical and economical building material available. It is practically impervious to time, is immune to changing weather conditions and is splendidly adapted to California's climate and traditions.

And the beauty of Walnut Park's "Modernized Adobe" homes! Just take a look at the one shown above! Notice the classic lines, the harmonious beauty of the whole structure! No photograph can do these beautiful homes justice. The interior is a masterpiece of the decorator's art and a model of efficient arrangement. It occupies a 60-foot frontage in Walnut Park and is priced at only $12,000.

Go out to Walnut Park—see these adobes with your own eyes.

Bus leaves 522½ S. Hill street today at 10:30 a. m. (First door north of B. & M. Cafeteria, opposite Pershing Square.) Free luncheon specially prepared. Delicious home cooking. Other excursions Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The beauty of these homes is greatly enhanced by their charming surroundings—they're situated in the heart of a veritable forest of friendly, shady walnut trees, vast expanses of green lawn, and a myriad of lovely flowers. The boulevards in Walnut Park are wide and paved. You have all city conveniences but you don't pay city taxes! You can get a homesite in this "home of real homes" for as little as $900, paying for it on convenient terms. LEYGUES APPOINTED PREMIER OF FRANCE.

FORMER MINISTER OF MARINE DURING WAR MILLERAND'S SUCCESSOR.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Georges Leygues, Minister of Marine in the Clemenceau Cabinet, has accepted a call to the first Premiership under President Millerand's administration, it was announced this afternoon. He will likewise act as Foreign Minister.

It is understood the other ministers of the Millerand Cabinet will retain their posts.

Georges Leygues, who became Minister of Marine, when Premier Clemenceau formed his Cabinet in November, 1917, a few months after the entry of the United States in the war, served in that post throughout the remainder of the world conflict, contributing, notably to the success of the Allies in the long struggle they waged toward the curbing of German submarine warfare. He retired from Ministerial office last January, with the resignation of M. Clemenceau.

M. Leygues began his political career as a member of the Chamber, which he entered in 1884. Subsequently, he held posts in the Cabinets of Dupuy, Ribot, Waldeck-Rosseau, and Sarrien. He is a lawyer by profession and a writer of considerable prominence on historical, political, economic and literary subjects.

GAS CONSUMERS WILL FIGHT RATE INCREASE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 24.—Customers of the Utah Gas and Coke Company are aroused at the announced purpose of the company to ask the Utilities Commission for the right to make another increase in the price of gas, the fourth increase in thirty months. Civic and other organizations are combining to fight the raise and indignation meetings are being arranged. The proposal is certain to be strongly resisted at the commission hearing.

The company pleads inability to make ends meet at present rates for gas. One suggestion is that consumers organize a co-operative company.

MISS WEBB BRIDE OF ERNEST S. CROASDALE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) Sept. 24.—The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Pegram Webb, daughter of Commander U. R. Webb, U.S.N., and Mrs. Webb, and Ernest Shaw Croasdale of Los Angeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Croasdale, took place this afternoon at the home of the commander and Mrs. Webb on Kay street. The wedding ceremony was performed by Chaplain John D. McNair of this naval training station. The bride had but one attendant, Miss Louise Hubbard of Baltimore, while a brother of the bride, Robert Pegram Webb, acted as best man.

Bandits Get Seventy Thousand.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 24.—The Liberty Bonds taken in the robbery of safe deposit boxes of the Bank of Durham last week amounted to $50,000, while the jewelry loss totaled $20,000, it was announced today by detectives. The robbers have not been found.

MRS. ROBINSON TO MAKE TOUR.

Col. Roosevelt's Sister Will Stump Middle West.

Trip Will be Short Because of Ill Health.

Hopes to Rally ex-Progressives to Republicanism.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—"As the sister of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, there is a special reason which caused me to take this trip to the Middle West," said Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson of New York at Republican national headquarters today.

"That reason is to impress upon former members of the Progressive party in the Middle West that I am absolutely convinced that the colonel would wish them to get in behind the Republican nominee (as he did in 1916) and put an end to what he considered the most sinister influence that had ever enmeshed in its clutches the people of the United States; namely, the influence of the Democratic party during the last seven years.

"By the frequent use of the name of Theodore Roosevelt," continued Mrs. Robinson, "the Democratic nominees are trying to confuse the minds of former Progressives. I speak as one with authority and would clarify the situation for the followers of Theodore Roosevelt."

HER TOUR SHORT.

Mrs. Robinson, who seconded the nomination of Gen. Wood in one of the most impressive speeches of the Republican National Convention, has thrown her whole soul into the Harding and Coolidge campaign. Her only regret is that ill health prevents her from participating in more extended speech-making.

The itinerary in the Middle West includes Indianapolis, St. Joseph, Omaha, Minneapolis and Duluth, and then Mrs. Robinson joins in Chicago the delegation of women who are to visit Senator and Mrs. Harding October 3.

"The great asset to politics in suffrage for women," said Mrs. Robinson, "is sincerity, conscientiousness and order. The danger in connection with women in politics is a certain kind of sentimentality which only experience will correct.

LEAGUE INTERESTS.

"In my public addresses thus far I have found that my audiences are most interested in the Wilson League of Nations. The people are beginning to realise that without Americanisation reservations, the Wilson League would be a detriment not only to America, but to the whole world. I think that really studious women have already come to the conclusion that 'America first' is not the selfish slogan, which they originally seemed to feel it was, but it is a promise to the whole world that by cleaning our own house thoroughly we can most effectively help clean house in other nations of the world.

"I find people are against Wilsonism and against Article X. Although I have always given my audiences an opportunity to ask questions, I have had no one ask me about the Wilson League of Nations further than I explain in my address. They have their minds made up."

Mrs. Robinson speaks in Indianapolis Saturday at a noon meeting. She leaves Sunday evening for St. Joseph, where she speaks before a mass meeting of women Monday afternoon, and speaks for ten minutes just before former Gov. Frank A. Willis of Ohio at a night meeting there. After the Omaha meeting, Tuesday, Mrs. Robinson will go to Minneapolis, where she speaks at noon Wednesday, then goes on to Duluth for another address, before returning to Chicago.

BERGDOLL ON STAND; WOULD SAVE MOTHER.

DRAFT EVADER DENIES HE WAS GIVEN AID IN ELUDING FEDERAL AGENTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—All testimony was in today when court adjourned until Monday in the trial of Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, Charles A. Braun, her son; James E. Romig, a former magistrate; Albert S. Mitchell, automobile salesman, and Harry Schuh, charged with conspiracy to aid Grover and Erwin Bergdoll to evade the draft.

Erwin Bergdoll, who is serving a four-year sentence in Fort Leavenworth, took the stand today in an effort to secure the acquittal of the defendants. Erwin wore the brown denim uniform of an army prisoner, and two armed guards stood beside him while he testified. He denied anyone had aided him in his flight.

"No one induced me to run off," he declared. While the United States was at war with Germany, Erwin testified, he and Grover fished many days near Hagerstown, Md.

Under cross-examination, he detailed his flight across the country, part of the time with his brother, Grover, also a convicted draft evader, who recently escaped from army guards in Philadelphia and is now a fugitive.

He also told how he had spent long stretches at his home at Broomall, Delaware county, sleeping in a barn to foil raiders who might appear at the house.

Following the escape of Grover, on May 21, Erwin said, he had remained away from his home until he decided to surrender last July 20.

The Federal agents, he said, not only were visible to him as they raided his home and that of his brother, Charles, Braun, which adjoins, but they also went through the barn without finding him.

The raid on his home, the witness said, was on the morning of January 7, the same day that his brother Grover was captured at his mother's suburban residence.

PREDICT GOOD PRICES FOR STATE BEAN CROP.

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 24.—Fifty per cent advance payment will be made on the Northern California bean crop this year by the California Bean Growers' Association on delivery of the crop, was the announcement today by R. L. Morehead, district manager. He said the crop would be only 30 per cent of normal and prices would be good.

The national bean crop will be about half of the usual consumption, according to Morehead.

INVOLVE COX IN A NEW TANGLE.

Alleged Contribution of 1918 is Brought Out.

Investigating Senators Have Prolific Day.

Soldier Papers Controlled by Political Parties.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—An implied charge that Gov. Cox had received, in 1918, a concealed campaign contribution of $5000 from the Dayton (O.) Metal Products Company, today sent the Senate campaign investigating committee off on a wholly new track.

On demand of Democratic members of the committee immediate inquiry was ordered, although the Ohio State campaign, it was agreed, was outside the committee's jurisdiction. Officials of the Metal Products Company and of the City National Bank of Dayton were called to appear tomorrow with any papers relating to the transaction involved.

No direct charge was made. Citing as his authority an examiner for a House Aircraft Investigation Committee, however, George B. Lockwood, editor of the National Republican, volunteered the statement as a lead which the committee might follow that a certain check drawn by the Metal Products Company, June 29, 1918, was to pay a personal note of James M. Cox.

ALLEGED CONTRIBUTION.

"The effort was to make it appear that this was an obligation that Mr. Cox had entered into with the City National Bank of Dayton some time before," Lockwood said. "But it appears to me, from all the circumstances, that it must have been a contribution from this corporation to Mr. Cox's campaign fund."

Lockwood named E. L. Talbot, who, he said, was in 1918 president of the Metal Products Company and of the bank, as the witness who should be called and a message to Talbot was sent immediately.

"It does not come within the purview of this committee's business," Senator Reed said, "but I am going to insist that this matter be immediately investigated and that we get out of the realm of deduction into that of fact."

The committee ranged over a wide field of inquiry today. It heard volunteered statements from assistants to Atty.-Gen. Palmer, who were in San Francisco, during the Democratic convention, that they had traveled on official business which they said, justified the expense accounts submitted and approved.

SOLDIER PUBLICATIONS.

It explored the financing of the soldier publication, "Stars and Stripes," developing a possible connection between the paper and the Democratic National Committee.

It heard the charge made that the "American Legion Weekly" was controlled by the Republican National Committee.

It heard in detail from Lockwood of the financing of the National Republican and of the "bulk" circulation methods, by which the paper reached employees at the expense of employers, but without knowledge of the recipients of the employers' share in the matter.

The committee heard, also from Lockwood, that the documents presented by Senator Reed, which prompted his investigation of the National Republican, were stolen from the files of his office in Ohio. An employee told him, he added, that "he had been offered a large sum to sell out certain material" and asked for "a certain amount of money" not to do it.

"I sent word to him that he was a blackmailer and to go to hell—or to go to this committee," Lockwood added.

The committee's inquiry into the New York City Republican campaign organization closed its day. L. E. Pearson, general chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for the State, said that $370,000 had so far been turned into national funds from its work.

"We have never made up a quota, or discussed the amount we expect to get," he said, explaining that the work was still going on.

J. P. Stevens, chairman of the committee, raising money in the Borough of Manhattan, explained the group organization.

"We have organized thirty groups, each representing an industry or business, on the principle worked out for Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives," he said. "Each chairman makes up his own list of prospective contributors. We've never mentioned any limit, except that we are to meet the National Committee requirements and not to take over $1000 from any individual."

Albert G. Towers, in charge of the Maryland Financing for the Republican National Committee said that he, with the assistance of a "paper committee," had collected $9055 towards a $25,000 total.

LEAGUE CONTRIBUTIONS.

Contributions to the League to Enforce Peace during the past five years have totaled $851,000, Herbert G. Houston, the league's treasurer, today told the committee.

Large contributors were said by Mr. Houston to be B. M. Baruch, $25,000; Charles M. Schwab, $10,000, and former President Taft, J. P. Morgan and Edsel B. Ford, $5000 each.

D'OLIER DENIES CHARGE.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—Franklin, d'Olier, national commander of the American Legion, tonight denied testimony of Joseph L. Heffernan before the Senate investigating committee today that the American Legion Weekly publication is controlled by the Republican party.

"The sole owner and controller of the American Legion Weekly is the American Legion, a nonpartisan and nonpolitical organization and chartered by the Federal government as such.

of the American Legion Weekly is the official publication of the American Legion. It is published by the Legion Publishing Corporation. The by-laws provide that the national commander shall be president, the national treasurer shall be treasurer and that the adjutant of the Legion shall be secretary. Every share of capital stock is owned by the American Legion subject to the direction of the national executive officers, which is composed of one member from each of the forty-eight State departments, elected by the State membership. The American Legion has been entirely financed and supported from its inception by the American Legion and from no other source."

DRYS OPPOSE COX, HARDING.

Neither Candidate Satisfies Prohibition Forces.

Decide Watkins Will Not Withdraw from Race.

Negotiations With G.O.P. Are Broken Off.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Senator Harding's position on the prohibition question is not satisfactory to the Prohibition party and negotiations between it and Republican leaders which might have led to the withdrawal of Aaron S. Watkins as a Presidential candidate have been broken off, according to a statement tonight by the Prohibition National Committee.

The committee made public a letter from George Christian, Jr., Senator Harding's secretary, to Mrs. Elsie Giles, a Prohibitionist, of Redlands, Cal., outlining the Senator's position. It said that if senator Harding is elected and the Volstead Act repealed, he would "act in accordance with his best judgment, but would not, as President, impose his will on Congress in consideration of this or any other legislation."

The statement said that after the Prohibition party offered its support to the candidate, who would pledge himself against weakening of the Volstead Act, neither Senator Harding nor Gov. Cox replied personally, but Republican leaders opened negotiations with the Prohibitionists. The letter from Mr. Christian, however, has put an end to these negotiations, according to the statement.

The letter, dated Aug. 12, 1920, follows:

"Senator Harding directs me to acknowledge your letter of August 4, and to say that he has been the owner of two shares of brewery stock since the organization of a brewery in this town some twenty-five years ago. It was a local enterprise started to keep within the town money which was being sent to outside cities, and the Senator subscribed to the enterprise, which was designed to promote the prosperity and growth of his town. He never received any dividends from this stock, which is now worthless and the brewery defunct and this position did not prevent his voting in the Legislature for local option laws.

"He voted for the Volstead Act and is in favor of its enforcement, as long as it is upon the statute books. Should he be elected, and Congress passes a law amending, modifying or repealing the Volstead law, he would consider it carefully and act in accordance with his best judgment in connection with it and with the circumstances of its passage. He would not, as President, improperly impose his will on Congress in consideration of this or any other legislation."

FARMER-LABORITES FAIL TO QUALIFY.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24.—The Farmer-Labor party will have no Presidential electors on the California ballot in November, the Secretary of State's office announced today.

The Presidential nomination came too late for electors to qualify under a party designation, but petitions were circulated that would have named an independent ticket if sufficient signatures were secured.

Yesterday was the final date for filing these petitions with county clerks and advices to the Secretary of State's office from San Francisco and Alameda counties, where petitions were circulated, said the number of names did not reach 7140, the total required under the election law.

Gives to Plastered Walls the Surety of Durability

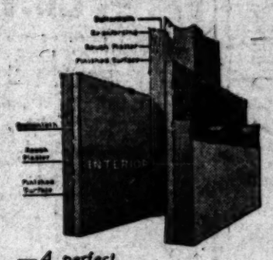
The qualities of durability and economy in Buttonlath are so indelibly impressed upon the minds of many builders that, no matter what the type of structure—wherever a plaster base is required—they demand this superior lathing.

They feel this confidence in Buttonlath because, through constant use, its consistent quality and efficiency has proven its practicability and worth.

In spite of the shortage and high prices of raw material we have maintained the same high standard of quality that has earned for Buttonlath this enviable reputation—at the same time keeping prices at a minimum.

Buttonlath has exclusive advantages that no other plaster base can offer—fire retardent, sound deadener, weather proof; it speeds up construction, saves time, labor and plaster—and when in addition you can build better buildings, it pays to use this perfect plaster base.

The success of Buttonlath has encouraged imitators—be sure of the genuine—ask for Buttonlath—for sale by building material dealers.



—A perfect bond for plaster.

Denton's Partner Calls Mrs. Peete's Story of Spanish Woman Bunk.

SAY WOMAN GAVE AWAY DEAD MAN'S PROPERTY.

Appeared Anxious That No One Should Enter the Cellar Graveyard, Says Plumber; New Evidence.

312 North Virgil street, stated that on or about June 15 Mrs. Peete gave him some of Denton's underwear, shirts and two suits of clothes, one practically new, saying that Denton "would have no further use for them."

James W. Crowhurst, a plumber, of 1021 South Hobart Boulevard, made an affidavit to the effect that Mrs. Peete gave him a quantity of Denton's clothing, saying that Denton had lost his right arm and would have to have a new outfit. Some of this clothing he says he sold under Mrs. Peete's orders.

Crowhurst declared in his statement that Mrs. Peete appeared anxious that no one should enter the cellar and asked him about boarding up all entrances to it. She particularly referred to the cellar closet in which the body of Denton was later found buried under earth.

Mrs. M. Tilton of 210 South Alvarado street, a dressmaker, turned over to the police the bank books, personal notebooks, etc., of Denton, which she says Mrs. Peete asked her to keep. Among the articles is a pawn ticket for a man's diamond ring which she says she pawned at Mrs. Peete's request.

Mrs. Wallace Rimpau of 641 South Bonnie Brae street, a friend of Mrs. Peete, told investigators that Mrs. Peete seemed afraid to stay in the Denton house alone.

On the other hand, Mrs. Peete in Denver yesterday stoutly denied any knowledge of the manner in which Denton came to his end, reiterated her suspicions of a "Spanish woman" and declared she will return here to assist the police in the inquiry.

After a consultation with the District Attorney the detectives announced that they have not yet evidence sufficient to ask for a warrant for the arrest of anyone.

CROWHURST'S STORY.

Crowhurst was interrogated by Detectives Lyon and Box after it was learned, the police say, that he had listed for sale with local real estate men the Denton house; that he had lost his right arm and that he had in his possession a dress suit belonging to Denton; that he had sold some of Denton's clothing and that he had had in his possession the coat and vest which matched the trousers in which Denton's body was clothed when it was stuffed into the closet.

Points to which detectives attach significance were made in his statement, briefly, as follows:

Crowhurst met a woman who he says is Mrs. R. C. Peete by doing plumbing work for her.

On his first visit to the cellar of the Denton home, early in June, he noticed the room in which the body was found. Fresh earth was there then. Only one nail had been driven to keep the door shut. Mrs. Peete told him, he says, that the room "is some affairs of Mr. Denton" and not to disturb it.

He noticed on his second visit to the cellar that three or four nails had been driven into the door instead of one, he said.

On this occasion he declares Mrs. Peete wanted him to fix a water heater that she said made a noise that "sounded as though a graveyard were awakening up."

Mrs. Peete told Crowhurst, he says, that she was in touch regularly with Denton and knew of his whereabouts, but at his request his relatives were kept in ignorance of this.

"CRITICISED RELATIVES."

"She then described those relatives as a rough and vulgar lot, who may attempt some dirty work around the place, even going so far as to do her personal injury."

Crowhurst says she told him that Denton wanted some one to be intrusted with his affairs while "he went off on what may be termed a clandestine trip."

Just before August 12, Crowhurst says, Mrs. Peete told him that she had received word from Denton saying that Denton was married again, but that Mrs. Peete thought he was in company with some woman, but not married.

Mrs. Peete said Denton told her to give his clothing away because he had lost his right arm and intended getting an entire new outfit. Instead of giving them away, Crowhurst declares, she asked him to sell them for her and this accounts for his having possession of the murdered man's apparel.

At one time Mrs. Peete told him, the statement says, "Why his (Denton's) relatives have even stated that I and some other woman may have had Mr. Denton up in the mountains of Colorado and murdered him."

He listed the property for sale, he asserted, at the request of Mrs. Peete, who said the figure of $25,000 given was set by Mr. Denton.

An overcoat said to have been Denton's property was found at a gasoline station at Ninth street and Vermont avenue, where it was declared Crowhurst had sold it. Other clothing was traced to local secondhand stores, the detectives say.

WHAT NEIL SAYS.

Happenings at the house of Denton at 675 South Catalina street, shortly after Denton's disappearance, were related to Chief Deputy District Attorney Doran yesterday by George E. Neil, a chauffeur, who formerly was employed by a tenant in the house.

In a statement made to Mr. Doran, Neil, who is held in the County Jail in connection with burglary of telephone pay stations at Venice, said that he and his wife went to the Denton home about June 15. He said Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Prough of Bakersfield, employed him as a chauffeur and his wife as a cook. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Prough were at the Clark Hotel, and moved to the Denton home a few days before June 15. Mr. Prough is an automobile dealer of Bakersfield. They rented the place from Mrs. Peete, said Neil and his wife, Mrs. Helen Neil, of 312 North Virgil street. After two or three weeks in the Denton house the Proughs complained that Mrs. Peete, who was still in the house, had brought other people in and they moved to St. Andrews Place and Pico Boulevard.

Mrs. Neil yesterday called on Mr. Doran regarding her husband's case and informed the official of the fact that she and her husband had lived in the house. She also made a statement in writing.

Neil said on two occasions he was in the cellar, once to take down an empty barrel, in which Mrs. Prough's silverware was, and once to carry a box there for them. He said he noticed the peculiarly built room in which Denton's body was buried, but attached no importance to it. He said he did not notice any door to the room. This was about three days after he arrived there.

GIVEN CLOTHES.

After Neil left the house, while working for the Proughs, Mrs. Peete called him on the telephone, he said, and asked him to help her move some boxes. He went to the house and she gave him some underwear, shirts and two suits of clothes, one a practically new Palm Beach suit, and one a worn hunting suit. Neil asserts that Mrs. Peete said Denton would have no more use for the clothes, that she expected to hear from him soon and that she might have more clothes to give him later. This, Neil said, was early in July.

While there he carried two wardrobe trunks upstairs for Mrs. Peete and helped her with her packing. One of the trunks contained a rifle and shotgun and other hunting things.

Neil asserts in his statement that he often saw a tall, slender woman, about 45 years old, at the house. She was a particular friend of Mrs. Peete, he said, but he did not remember her name.

On one occasion, he said, he saw a man in the den of the house, but did not learn his name. He remembered an elderly woman at the house, but did not know her name.

A haunting fear of remaining alone in the big Catalina street house was nursed for many days by Mrs. Peete, according to a statement issued yesterday by Mrs. Wallace Rimpau, of 641 South Bonnie Brae avenue and a friend of Mrs. Peete.

"I first met Mrs. Peete," she said, "when she came into my shop near Westlake Park to purchase dresses for her little girl. Mrs. Peete said she and Mrs. Gregory were looking for a house and asked my assistance. Later, she came in my shop and happily told me she had found a place. Quite often she visited me as she said she had grown very fond of me.

"I had met her only in a business way until on July 2, she called me on the telephone and abruptly asked me if my husband drove a car. I told her my friend, Mrs. Woods was coming over and that Mrs. Woods would lend her any assistance with the car. Her explanation was that Mr. Denton, whom I have never seen, had gone away and had left the car for her to use. Mrs. Peete could drive it, but could not back it out of the garage. In answer to her questions, I informed her that Mrs. Woods was all right and so Mrs. Woods and my husband and myself went to her house.

"That evening she asked us if we would not remain in the house with her during the night. She said Mrs. Gregory had gone back East and that she and her little girl were alone, that she feared to remain alone in the big house. We stayed that night and remained with her the following day, which was Sunday. After a drive in the afternoon she asked us to remain again that night in the house with her, which we did. During our stay with her she told us that Denton, whom she said she rented the house from, seemed to be in some kind of trouble. She also told us of the quarrel between Denton and the Spanish woman and the wound which he had evidently received in a quarrel. At no time had she told me she had seen Denton with his right arm missing.

"She also told me of trouble that had existed between Denton and certain relatives of his and on the morning of July 4 two women came to the house inquiring for Mr. Denton."

EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT.

Detective Charles Jones, who had been working on the Denton disappearance for three months prior to the date when Detective A. J. Cody found the man's body in the basement, announced late yesterday afternoon that he did not feel he has enough evidence on which to ask for warrants for the arrest of any suspect. This statement was made after he and Detective Sergeants Sidney Hickok and Canto left the office of Chief Deputy District Attorney Doran, following a consultation regarding the story of Crowhurst.

"I'll admit that there are some very suspicious circumstances pointing at some persons, but there are many angles to this case and some of them have not been made public thus far. There are many things that need explanation, but also many things we have to learn before we can act," he said.

Earlier in the day Captain of Detectives Moffat, who is assisting the District Attorney's office in the investigation, said that witnesses examined by Mr. Doran during the day made statements strongly corroborative of evidence already at hand, but that to date the investigators have not sufficient facts to warrant immediate arrests.

None of the officers working on the case have asked for a warrant for anyone's arrest in the murder mystery up to the time the District Attorney's office was closed last night. Chief Deputy Doran also stated that the grand jury did not take up the case and that so far he had not even considered such a course of action.

A bill for fertilizer, thought to have been purchased in Denton's name, was found in the Denton house. The fertilizer is believed to have been the same rich soil under which the body was found. The man who sold the fertilizer is said to have called at the Denton house to collect the money and Mrs. Peete is said to have told him that Denton had gone to Seattle. Contradictory to this statement, Mrs. Miller stated yesterday she had overheard Mrs. Peete tell another man, inquiring for Denton, that he had gone to Missouri to visit his brother.

MRS. PEETE TO ASSIST POLICE.

Leaving Denver Today With Denton Case Evidence.

Mystery Hinted in Telegram May Furnish New Clew.

Woman Reiterates She Has No Knowledge of Killing.

Mrs. R. C. Peete of Denver, the woman friend of Jacob C. Denton, the murdered wealthy mining man, whose body was discovered Thursday in the basement of his mansion at 625 South Catalina street, will leave Denver today for Los Angeles, she announced yesterday to the authorities in the Colorado city, and will do everything in her power to help the officials here solve the mystery of the ghastly crime.

One of the things that Mrs. Peete is bringing with her that may furnish a clew is a telegram from a Los Angeles real estate firm containing an offer to sell the Denton home. In it the assertion is made that her immediate acceptance of the offer is desired because "something has arisen to make the prospective purchaser nervous."

This telegram was exhibited yesterday to Denver authorities in connection with Mrs. Peete's assertion that Denton had agreed to give her power of attorney to sell the South Catalina-street mansion, and had arranged to give her a commission if she could conclude a transfer.

MYSTERIOUS MAN.

A few days after June 6, Mrs. Peete says, a man entered the Denton home, which she was then occupying. He wore a patch over one eye and another on his left cheek, and she thought he was Denton. This man, whoever he was, never returned, and later she instituted the search of the house which resulted in the discovery of the will.

The visit of the man with the patches on his face was made a few days after Mrs. Peete saw Denton on the street here, in an automobile with four strange men, she says.

The little room under the basement stairs in which the body was found Thursday was never opened while she was in the house, Mrs. Peete declares, and her occupancy of the premises began on May 24, nine days before the date on which persons other than herself last saw Denton alive.

Mrs. Peete says she left Denver last May to come to Los Angeles and recuperate after undermining her health by constant nursing of her invalid husband, Mr. Peete, who is now undergoing treatment for tuberculosis in a private sanatorium at Denver, went to Singapore several years ago as a representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. While he was in the Orient he contracted influenza, which permanently impaired his health. From the middle of May until Wednesday of this week, Mr. Peete stayed at the residence of Mrs. Ida B. Gregory, assistant of Judge Ben Lindsay of the Denver Juvenile Court.

NAMES GUESTS.

Mrs. Gregory and her daughter, Miss Maude Gregory, were Mrs. Peete's guests in the Denton home here, she says, on the day early in June when Denton returned to the house with his arm in a sling and asked her to help him pack a few belongings in a suit case.

Denton had trouble with a Mexican over a mine, which he owned in Mexico, Mrs. Peete recalled yesterday, and she also reiterated her statements about a young Spanish woman with whom Mr. Denton quarreled at the house and who, she says frequently telephoned to see if he was there. It was the voice of this Spanish woman, she is certain, she says, that warned her to keep people out of the basement of the Denton house because valuable liquors were hid there. Mrs. Peete also reiterates her charges that there was constant trouble between Denton and his relatives here—two nephews.

Almost in tears, Mrs. Peete frequently yesterday declared that she is innocent of any complicity in the affair. Beyond being a tenant of the Denton house, she asserted, she knew nothing of Denton, of his affairs or of his friends. She described him as a man who remained much to himself, while he occupied one room in the house after she had rented it. He surrounded his activities with an air of mystery, she said.

Mrs. Peete states, however, that twice before his disappearance in June Denton had disappeared, remaining away for five years in one instance and the second time for ten.

LIQUOR CACHE GONE FROM DENTON HOUSE.

ONLY EMPTY BOTTLES FOUND; DETECTIVES SEEK TAKER AS POSSIBLE CLEW.

What became of Denton's ample supply of high-grade liquors?

The solution of this problem may assist in locating a possible clew to the slayer of the mining man, according to Detective Sergeants Canto and Hickok. Further investigation of the cellar of the South Catalina-street house revealed that a large supply of liquor had been stored beneath the basement stairs.

The only entrance to the stairway vault is through a small door between the stairway and the death chamber and with the crudely constructed death closet closed and barred this entrance was hidden from view and inaccessable. In the small hidden vault were a few empty liquor bottles. Other empty liquor bottles were found in the garage in the rear of the house.

Though Mrs. Peete had previously stated she had been informed Denton kept a big supply of liquor in the basement, no liquor was evident. It had all disappeared. Denton was known by his friends to have been a man who liked his liquor now and then, but who was not an inveterate drinker.

MARSHAL NABS BELLBOYS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Sept. 24.—"Front," commanded Ellis Workman, United States Deputy Marshal, in the lobby of the Louisville Old Inn Hotel. A bellboy answered, then another and another, until six were there. All were arrested charged with selling liquor.

with the juvenile department under Judge Ben D. Lindsay in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Peete then ordered the repairs that I suggested on the water heater.

Then after a few minutes' time had elapsed and while the ladies were both still in the basement with me, Mrs. Peete said to me: "Now, it will not be necessary for you to go into that little room, will it?" indicating by gesture a little room crudely constructed under the cellar stairs. At that time I noticed in the cellar a large amount of loose earth lying on the cellar floor, estimated to be a little over a full wheelbarrow load. The earth smelled as though it had been freshly turned over. There was one other lady apparently residing in the house with these two ladies at the time, however, she did not hear the foregoing statement of Mrs. Peete. Mrs. Peete also said while indicating the room mentioned "that is some affairs of Mr. Denton's."

I repaired the heater and attended to some other house repairs and collected $14 for my services when I finished on that day. On leaving the premises I supplied Mrs. Peete with a card whereby she could reach me by telephone. Later on after a week or two Mrs. Peete left word over the telephone for me to call at 675 South Catalina street. On arriving at that place she told me that as she had not been able to get in touch with me she had called some other heater company to eliminate a peculiar groaning sound that emits occasionally from the water valve when automatic heaters are not in perfect adjustment. She also told me that the person she had called had removed the old pilot light from the heater and replaced it with a new one and charged her $4.50. A little later Mrs. Peete asked again if I could not make the necessary repairs on the heater to eliminate that noise. She said it sounded as though a graveyard were awakening up.

MORE NAILS IN DOOR.

At that time I went down into the cellar and noticed that whereas there had only been one nail supporting a hasp on the door of the little aforementioned room there were now three or four nails supporting the hasp, otherwise the cellar appearing as it had before. Mrs. Peete then asked me if I could not do some repairs for her that were aside from the line I was following. She told me that a Mr. Denton owned the premises and that he had just dropped out of sight and, while she was in touch with him regularly and knew of his whereabouts, at his request his relatives were kept in ignorance of these things. She then described these relatives as a rough and vulgar lot, who may attempt some dirty work around the place, even going so far as to do her personal injury. She asked me if I would board up the entrance from the back yard into the cellar, as it should remain closed permanently. Then she asked me what a person might do to injure her. I told her that gas may be turned loose in the cellar in order to flood the house with gas and thereby asphyxiate the occupants of the house. She then canceled the proposition of boarding up the doorway. She asked me to examine the door closely which leads from the cellar into the kitchen of the house. I did and showed her evidence of the door having been attacked by burglars' tools or by some persons attempting to force an entrance.

She suggested that I board up all of the space giving access to the cellar to the house, but did not eventually order any of that work done, however, she told me that she was going to rent the house for some amount between $200 or $300 and that she would soon want me to help her to build or arrange a room that was already built adjacent to the garage. This room she intended using as a kitchen and also intended sleeping in a room in the house in company with her daughter Betty, a child of 4 years or so. This room having been set apart as she described it and held for Mr. Denton's occupancy and then she was to rent the remainder of the premises. She eventually found a tenant consisting of a family of six persons including a chauffeur and his wife. She told me she was receiving $200 a month rent from these people. They owned a brand new Pierce-Arrow touring car and said they had just come from Bakersfield. About ten days later or less she called me to the house again and asked me to prepare the kitchen for her. At that time I noticed a filled-out form of a lease for the premises at 675 South Catalina street, naming Mrs. R. C. Peete and Mrs. Gregory as lessees and Mrs. J. C. Denton as lessor at a monthly consideration of $250. I noticed this discrepancy at the time, but Mrs. Peete had told me that her husband was a tuberculosis patient in Denver and as it appeared he was supplying her with living expenses, so I paid little attention to the fact. She told me in regards to her husband that he had been a salesman in high favor with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and had been sent by them on a special mission to China a few years ago. Mrs. Peete told me of her ambition at the time, stating that she intended joining her husband in China there to reside, but that her husband had contracted tuberculosis while in China and had been ordered to Denver by his doctor. She told me of the manner in which she met and became acquainted with Mr. Denton. She said that Mr. Denton was in search of some person to intrust his affairs to while he went off on what might be termed a clandestine trip. She also told me that Mr. Denton's relatives were quite antagonistic to her and jealous of her occupancy of the premises at 675 South Catalina street, and may try to remove the automobile of Mr. Denton, stating that Mr. Denton had given her permission to drive the machine. I repaired the room, or kitchen, and arranged it for her as she had desired and put several curtain rods up in the house at her request for all of the services she paid several times by checks.

GIVEN CLOTHING.

Later on, just prior to August 12, she called me to the house and told me she had just received word from Mr. Denton and that he said that he had been married again; but that she did not believe it, however, that she did believe him to be in company with some other woman and that he had told her or instructed her to donate what clothing he had in the house, consisting of several suits of clothes and a couple of overcoats, to some charitable institution as he intended to supply himself with an entirely new outfit. She offered as an excuse that he had lost an arm in some manner. She said that she did not like the idea of giving away those clothes, as it offended her principles of economy. She also said that she did not like to be involved in the actual transaction of selling the clothes, but that she would like to convert them into cash. She asked me if I would dispose of the clothes for what money I could get for them, promising to then pay me for my trouble. I took the clothes home with me and gave her on her demand an itemized receipt for all of the articles taken from the house. I disposed of the clothes at a couple of second-hand stores in this city, with the exception of an overcoat and two pairs of leather leggins, which I sold to private individuals. I noticed among the clothing one coat and vest in particular that seemed as Mrs. Peete told me to be almost new that it may be a large advantage in the selling of the clothing if I had the pants to the suit, which were not among the things given me. I then went to her house for the pants to the suit, but she said that she had looked high and low for those pants, but could not find them anywhere. I remember thinking at the time that it was strange in her to make that statement that she had looked high and low for the pants as that was the first I had informed her that they did not accompany the coat and vest. On reading the accounts of the finding of Mr. Denton's body, I noticed that his was dressed with one pair of pants and some other clothing, but without a coat and vest and I believe that the coat and vest in question belonged to the pants as the suit.

At one time, in relating the antagonism toward her shown by the relatives of Mr. Denton she said to me, "Why his relatives had even stated that I and some other women might have had Mr. Denton up in the mountains of Colorado and murdered him."

One day she told me she would pay me for my time if I would go down to Sixth and Alvarado and collect a refund on some clothing she had purchased and returned near there, and take the money into town and pay her phone bill for her. This I did and received the compensation in money. About the day that I last saw her she called me into the room that had been reserved for Mr. Denton and showing me a little closet in the corner of the room, asked me to try the keys of the other doors of the room, to see if it would be an easy matter for people to gain an entrance to that closet after she had locked it up. She did not seem to attach a great deal of importance to this matter. Mrs. Peete, one time, asked me to list the house with some reliable agents or in some way, to help bring about a sale of the place, promising me the consideration of some small amount of money if I could effect this. I did list the house for sale with two real estate men of the city, at the price that she had made, stating that it was Mr. Denton's price of $25,000. I estimated the place to be worth considerable more than this amount, but thought nothing more of it than I expressed to the real estate men with whom I listed the house, that Mr. Denton was not a resident at the present time, of Los Angeles, and not knowing of the construction of the New Ambassador Hotel adjacent to the property and underestimated the value of his holdings. One of the agents of the Mabery Realty Company listed the property at my request. At the time that Mrs. Peete asked me to or not I must enter the room under the stairway in the house. In order to the repairs on the water thought that the room contained liquors. Not of intoxicants I don't a passing thought at never noticed any that I paid attention the odor of freshly my first entrance have never seen or Denton. I first in June of 1920 during the middle have seen her times, during the months. Everything Mrs. Peete told me the exception of the against her which was not pay this to me get in touch with on the morning from this city. day before she would be back not pay me, would be back some make settlement. of my first confidence meddled in her to trust me to on.

One of the New Adobe Homes in Walnut Park

the Building Material that Endures —as Permanent as Brick or Tile and Costs Less than Half as Much!

In its modernized form, adobe is by far the most practical and economical building material available. It is practically impervious to time, is immune to changing weather conditions and is splendidly adapted to California's climate and traditions.

And the beauty of Walnut Park's "Modernized Adobe" homes! Just take a look at the one shown above! Notice the classic lines, the harmonious beauty of the whole structure! No photograph can do these beautiful homes justice. The interior is a masterpiece of the decorator's art and a model of efficient arrangement. It occupies a 60-foot frontage in Walnut Park and is priced at only $12,000.

Go out to Walnut Park—see these adobes with your own eyes.

Bus leaves 522½ S. Hill street today at 10:30 a. m. (First door north of B. & M. Cafeteria, opposite Pershing Square.) Free luncheon specially prepared. Delicious home cooking. Other excursions Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The beauty of these homes is greatly enhanced by their charming surroundings—they're situated in the heart of a veritable forest of friendly, shady walnut trees, vast expanses of green lawn, and a myriad of lovely flowers. The boulevards in Walnut Park are wide and paved. You have all city conveniences but you don't pay city taxes! You can get a homesite in this "home of real homes" for as little as $900, paying for it on convenient terms. If you can't join us on our trip, come out by yourself. Take Huntington Park yellow car (5c fare) going East on Sevent street, or drive south to Slauson ave., east to Long Beach blvd., then south to the Park, which is backed by such men as

STATE PRINTER TELFER RESIGNS.

Action Will Halt Hearing on Charges of Employees.

Reiterates Denial of Loose Methods in Department.

Alleges Vicious Campaign is Waged by Enemies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24.—Robert Telfer, State printer, resigned today and at the Governor's office it was said the resignation would be accepted.

The resignation brought to a halt preparations for a hearing before the State Board of Control Monday of charges that Telfer had allowed loose methods to prevail at the State printing department. These charges included allegations that during the last session of the State Legislature women employees willing to "entertain" members of the Legislature were given preference over others in the printing department.

Carleton Johnson, head of the proofroom of the State printing department, who signed on behalf of other employees the charges against Telfer, is awaiting hearing October 4 before the State Civil Service Commission. Telfer charged Johnson was insubordinate and inefficient. It was said today this hearing probably would proceed.

REITERATES DENIAL.

In his letter of resignation to the Governor Telfer reiterated his denial of all the charges against him and said his resignation was prompted out of "loyalty to the State, to you and to your administration."

"The fine friendship and unswerving support which you have always accorded me in my conduct of the State printing office deter me from placing on your shoulders the burden of reviewing and acting upon a situation so complicated with inspired and vicious malice and double-dealing."

DIFFER OVER HOLIDAYS.

A "small but unscrupulous group" in the State printing department "declined to recognize that I owed any duty to the State and to the public generally and insisted that I support and enforce their demands blindly," Telfer's letter continued, and added that a "vicious campaign of misrepresentation" was started against him.

The first important differences between Telfer and the printing department employees were said to have arisen over demands for Saturday half-holidays with pay. These demands were not allowed.

Telfer was appointed State printer by Gov. Hiram Johnson in 1914. He was deputy printer at the time of his appointment and succeeded Friend W. Richardson, who was elected State Treasurer.

SHELL COMPANY YIELDS TO NAVY.

cording to Lewin, the Martinez seizures were undertaken to compel the company to make up a 10 per cent quota of the total supply to the Navy, whereas, the amount demanded actually was not available.

"The Navy took no cognizance of the fact that we were supplying virtually one-fourth of the total Navy demand up to July 30," Lewin said.

Executives of the Navy Department contended that approximately 70,000 barrels were forthcoming from the company and but 50,000 had been obtained. They said that our exports during the recent shortage remained the same as in normal times, and that in addition two Japanese tankers were believed to be on the way to take a supply from the Shell company.

TO FILE NO SUIT.

No suit to collect the differential between the Navy's price and the company's price is contemplated, Lewin said. He asserted the Navy had refused to negotiate further.

The Navy Department said that no effort had been made to seize any plant of the Shell company, but Lewin said he feared that if the controversy was continued the plants might be taken over by the government.

The Navy supply ship Kanawha was at Martinez today waiting for a supply of 35,000 barrels from the company, Navy officials said. The oil was wanted for destroyers and other vessels at San Pedro.

"We cannot give the Navy the 35,000 barrels it demands," Lewin said, "because we have not got it. If the Navy had been satisfied with the occasional order of 3500 barrels or so, we might have been able to supply it. But this is simply an attempt on the part of the Navy to compel us to live up to an arrangement of its own."

Marines remained on duty at Martinez all of last night to prevent disposal of oil to any other person.

The announcement followed seizures by the Navy from the company's plant at Martinez, extending over two weeks' time.

"CONSPIRACY" IS COX LATEST CRY

Alleges Hays Scouts Foster Campaign of Silence.

Suppress and Minimize News, Candidate Declares.

Avers G.O.P. Editors Asked to Divert Public.

DENVER, Sept. 24. — Attacks upon Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee and Republican newspapers charged with "a conspiracy of silence" against the Democratic cause featured today's Colorado campaign of Gov. Cox of Ohio.

The new line of assault of the Democratic Presidential candidate, who charged that Mr. Hays, acting for the Republican National Committee, and Republican newspaper editors were conspiring to suppress news and divert issues of the Cox campaign, was made in three Colorado speeches today, at Trinidad, Pueblo and at a large meeting here tonight.

Charging that Mr. Hays was sending agents to the Republican editors of Colorado, as well as New Mexico, and urging suppression of news and embarrassment of the Cox campaign, in a speech at Pueblo today Gov. Cox said:

"He is afraid to have both sides heard, to have the case presented to the jury. He's afraid of the facts and is attempting to poison the wells of public information."

CHARGES "SCOUTS" SENT OUT.

Following up his charge in his speech last night at Albuquerque, N. M., that Mr. Hays had sent "scouts" ahead there to have Republican editors suppress and minimize news of the Governor's meeting, the Democratic candidate today declared that similar practices on a larger scale had been discovered in Colorado. Last Monday at Denver, Gov. Cox asserted, editors of Colorado Republican newspapers assembled for a conference with a Mr. Stephens, said to have been an agent of Chairman Hays.

"The editors were asked to divert the public mind from the League and other paramount issues," said the Governor, "to minor affairs. They were told to ask questions thought to be embarrassing and to give unfavorable reports on my receptions.

"The Republican National Committee is maintaining a large organization for this purpose. It has men traveling all over the country and the funds of the Republican organization are being used to make this kind of a campaign at a time when humanity is to pass on the great question involving more interests and more people than at any time in the history of the world.

HITS "BIG BUSINESS."

"The rich men of America, who are living in comfort," the Governor continued, reiterating charges of "big business" contributions to the Republicans, "certainly ought to be proud of the fact that they have made it possible for Hays to conduct this kind of a campaign. The reason is that it is apparent to any unprejudiced person that the West is overwhelmingly for the League of Nations, and that the majority of the West will so record themselves."

Other subjects featured here by Gov. Cox were the League, progressivism, reclamation and highway extension.

To a rear platform crowd at Walsenburg, a mining town, en route here, the Governor told of mine reform legislation in Ohio. He also threw a jibe at the Marion front-porch campaign, declaring that it was ending about October 1, because "the people disapprove that style of campaigning in a democracy."

HAYS DECLINES COMMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, declined today to "take any notice" of charges of Gov. Cox, that Mr. Hays's scouts were preceding Gov. Cox on his tour of the West and attempting to influence the press against him.

POLES AND RUSSIANS SPARRING FOR TIME.

PEACE MEET LIKELY TO BE LENGTHY, MILITARY SITUATION THE CAUSE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIGA, Sept. 24.—There seems every likelihood that the Russo-Polish peace negotiations may drag on for weeks. The opening session, which disposed of the mere formalities was adjourned without any definite date for the next meeting, and since then the two secretaries have made no announcement.

Predictions that the negotiations would develop into a diplomatic sparring contest seem justified. While the Poles are spreading reports of a threatened new Bolshevik offensive near Grodno for their own purposes, the Russians are circulating the same report with a view to frightening the Poles. Both sides, apparently, are awaiting clarification of the military situation before expressing any desire to talk business.

The situation here is complicated further by a three-cornered split in the Polish delegation which will probably result in the removal of M. Dombski as president. Prince Sapieha, the Polish Foreign Minister, is expected to arrive within the next forty-eight hours and if he comes M. Tchitcherin probably will start from Moscow for Riga.

SUE TO GAIN UNPAID INHERITANCE TAXES.

GOVERNMENT BRINGS SUIT AGAINST MILLER ESTATE FOR $1,700,145.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Suit for $1,700,145 inheritance tax, interest and penalties alleged to be unpaid was filed in the United States District Court here today by the government against the estate of the late Henry Miller, wealthy California cattleman.

The value of the estate held by Miller's daughter, Mrs. Nellie M. Nichol, and her husband, J. Leroy Nichol, as executors, is stated by the government to be $39,774,576, represented by 119,871 shares of Miller and Lux, Inc.

The Miller estate was assessed in 1918 for $3,814,405 inheritance tax by the government. Of this $2,500,000 was paid and the estate sued to have the remainder cancelled, which now is pending.

THREAT OF BOMB IS BANDIT RUSE.

Used to Lure Salt Lake Police from Scene of Robbery.

Thugs Secure Over $6000 from Sugar Bank.

Believe Same Men Robbed Bank at Morgan, Utah.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 24.—Belief that the warning, threatening to destroy the Vermont building here, in which is located the offices of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company and the Beneficial Life Insurance Company, received by Chief of Police Joseph E. Burbidge, was a plot to draw police attention from Sugar House while the Sugar House bank there was robbed, was expressed tonight by authorities.

The letter to Chief Burbidge, stating the Vermont building would be blown up or burned, caused police reserves to be sent to that section of the city. The letter, written in an unsteady hand, was signed "Red." It made mention of the Wall-street explosion in New York last week and threatened death to those who interfered with the destruction of the building. The police stationed at the Vermont building, which is directly opposite the Mormon Temple grounds, will be kept on duty, Chief Burbidge stated.

The Sugar bank robbers obtained between $6000 and $7000 when they looted that institution, located in the southeastern part of the city. They pulled up in front in an automobile, entered the bank, forced four clerks, two men and two women, against a wall, and proceeded to ransack the vault. They overlooked $15,000 in currency in a drawer next to the one from which the money was taken. They fired no shots and threatened the bank employees with death if they made an outcry.

Bystanders at Sugar House were unable to determine the license number of the automobile used by the bandits, as the plates had been smeared with mud.

The bank of Morgan, at Morgan, Utah, near Ogden, also was robbed today. Three robbers entered that place early this morning, obtaining between $5000 and $6000 from safety deposit boxes. Police are working on the theory that the Morgan robbers and the trio which held up the Sugar bank are the same, for they used the same make of automobile. The Morgan bandits were seen coming toward Salt Lake, before daylight this morning.

A report that the Sugar bank bandits were seen near Provo, thirty miles south of Salt Lake, has proved unfounded.

FIND DISMEMBERED BODY.

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Sept. 24.—The dismembered body of Martin Schwab, 55, of Payson, Utah, a traveling salesman for a Cleveland (O.) firm, was found in an abandoned dry well one mile west of this city. Schwab had been missing since April 15, last.

A small boy herding cattle came upon a typewriter near the well, about a mile off the main highway. Further investigation disclosed belongings. Schwab's skull was found buried a few inches under the ground. Other portions of the body were found near by.

Schwab was last seen alive here when he left in a new touring car. A post mortem examination showed the skull had been fractured, probably by a bullet. The motor car, which he drove was not found.

FREE WOMAN.

PORTLAND (O.) Sept. 24.—Mrs. Franklin Hart Bjorklund was acquitted by a jury after eight minutes' deliberation here today of a charge of having slain her husband, August Bjorklund, in their apartments on May 21, last.

Persons who heard the shot which took Bjorklund's life rushed in to find him lying on the floor, a revolver near and his wife near by in hysterics. Mrs. Bjorklund admitted they had quarreled and that she had intended to kill herself, but denied having shot her husband.

WALL STREET BLAST REMAINS A MYSTERY.

ACCIDENT THEORY SET ASIDE BY GRAND JURY IN ITS INVESTIGATION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The cause of the Wall-street explosion was as unknown tonight to the authorities as when it occurred nine days ago. The theory that an accident—probably a collision—caused the explosion, was reported today to have been cast aside by the September grand jury.

Hereafter the jurors will concentrate on the bomb plot theory, it was said. They will follow the lead of William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation, Department of Justice.

Late today Edwin P. Fischer, tennis player, who sent warnings of the explosion, was recommitted to Bellevue Hospital for further psychopathic examination.

The three suspicious looking men said to have been seen running from the scene of the explosion shortly before it occurred have been traced and found to be three peddlers, it was announced.

Plans Heavy Antiliquor Fight.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Congress probably will be asked for more funds for the enforcement of prohibition, Secretary Houston said today. He gave no indication of the amount. More men are needed than there is money available to pay for, the Secretary said.

Cleveland Gains One-and-Half-Game Lead.

WALTER MAILS VILLAGE HERO.

Ex-Coast Leaguer Tames Great White Sox Team.

Making Six Straight Wins in Neat Succession.

Shuts 'Em Out and Strikes Out Half a Dozen.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 24.—Walter Mails, Cleveland's left-handed recruit pitcher, was too much for the Chicago White Sox today and they lost their opportunity to take the lead in the American League race in this series, by losing, 2 to 0. The Chicago players are one and one-half games behind the leaders and if they win tomorrow, they would still be one-half game behind Cleveland.

SIX STRAIGHT.

Mails had the White Sox batters badly puzzled and won his sixth consecutive victory since joining Cleveland. He allowed only three hits and struck out six men. Jackson hit a single in the first with two men out. In the fourth, Eddie Collins and Felsch got one each.

The local southpaw was in danger only in the fifth inning, when by phenomenal pitching he extricated himself. After striking out Risberg, Mails lost control long enough to issue three of his five bases on balls, filling the sacks.

FANS TWO MORE.

He then steadied himself and retired the side, by fanning Weaver and Eddie Collins in succession. With this exception, only two men reached second—Eddie Collins in the first and fourth. The side was retired in order in five of the nine innings.

BUNCH HITS.

The Indians bunched six of their nine hits in the first two innings and scored the only runs of the game. From then on, Faber pitched air-tight ball and only four Cleveland players reached first base. Smith got as far as second in the eighth, when he and Gardner singled.

Spectacular fielding by Weaver, Johnson, Smith, Sewell and Wambsganss cut down several hits. Approximately 20,000 fans saw the contest.

First inning, Chicago—Strunk was out Johnston to Mails. Weaver fouled to Gardner. E. Collins walked. Jackson singled to left. Felsch forced Jackson at second, Johnston to Wambsganss. No runs, one hit, no error.

Cleveland—Jamieson beat out a hard bounder to E. Collins. Wambs sacrificed Weaver to F. Collins. Risberg grounded out Breaker to Felsch, Jamieson taking second. Gardner dropped a Texas Leaguer between E. Collins and Felsch, filling the bases. Smith struck out. No runs, one hit.

Chicago—E. Collins popped to Johnston. It was raining slightly. Mails threw out Richard. Schalk popped to Sewell. No runs, no hits.

Cleveland—Sewell started through the box, walking Felsch. Felsch stopped to argue with Sewell. Mails sacrificed Weaver to J. Collins. Jamieson singled to right, O'Neill taking third. Jamieson stole second. Wambsganss hit a fast one down. O'Neill ran to third too far and was run down. Strunk to Faber to J. Collins to Weaver, Jamieson taking second. Weaver scored on Collins' long run. Two runs, two hits.

Third inning, Chicago—Faber fanned. Schalk made a pretty running catch of Strunk's line drive to the wall in right center. Sewell threw out Weaver to first. No runs, no hits.

Cleveland—Speaker out J. Collins to Faber. Schalk fanned. Weaver's fancy pick-up beat Gardner out of a double. No runs, no hits.

Fourth inning, Chicago—Eddie Collins singled to left. Jackson fouled to Wambsganss. Felsch singled to center, Jackson stopping at second. Sewell took J. Collins's low drive or his shoe top and nipped Jackson at second. No runs, two hits.

Cleveland—Johnston flied to Strunk. Sewell was safe on Weaver's high throw. O'Neill flied to Felsch. Weaver threw out Mails. No runs, no hits, one error.

Fifth inning, Chicago—Risberg fanned. Schalk walked. Faber waited Strunk up walked, filling the bases. Weaver struck out. Eddie Collins fanned. No runs, no hits.

Cleveland—Jamieson flied to Risberg. Risberg threw out Wambs. Speaker flied to Weaver. No runs, no hits.

Sixth inning, Chicago—Jackson flied high to Speaker. Felsch walked. Gardner threw out J. Collins. Risberg fanned. No runs, no hits.

Cleveland—Smith forced Schalk. Gardner bounded to J. Collins. Johnston led to Jackson. No runs, no hits.

Seventh inning, Chicago—Gardner threw out Schalk. Faber flied to rusher in deep right center. Strunk flied to Smith. No runs, no hits.

Cleveland—Sewell singled to right. Jackson went back to the left field stand for O'Neill's line drive. Felsch to J. Collins. Collins's throw out J. Collins to Faber. No runs, one hit.

Eighth inning, Chicago—Weaver fouled to Johnston. Johnston's fair play retired F. Collins. Sewell threw out Jackson. No runs, no hits.

Cleveland—Wambs lined to Jackson. Risberg threw out Speaker. Smith started to left, Gardner singled to right, Smith stopping at second, Johnston bounded to J. Collins. No runs, two hits.

Ninth inning, Chicago—Sewell threw out Felsch. J. Collins died to Speaker. Risberg died to Smith. No runs, no hits.

RUTH SOLO'S HOMERS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Babe Ruth's two home runs, today, bringing his season's total to fifty-one, failed to aid the New York Americans in their almost hopeless chase after Cleveland and Chicago. The Yankees broke even with Washington, losing the first game, 3 to 1, and taking the second, 3 to 1.

Ruth's double in the ninth inning of the last game was his fourth hit of the game and he reached third on an error and scored the winning run on Pratt's single. Ruth and Pratt were the only Yankees able to hit Shaw, who struck out eight men.

OH, WELL, RUTH GETS TWO HOMERS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — Babe Ruth, heavy hitter of the New York Americans, made his fiftieth home run of the season in the first inning of today's game with the Washington club at the Polo Grounds.

Ruth made another home run — his fifty-first — in the first inning of the second game. The ball went into deep right-field bleachers. Shaw of Washington was pitching against him.

WHEEZER DELL IS SOFT FOR OAKLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Oakland found Dell easy today and defeated Vernon, 4 to 1. Krause was a puzzle when the Tigers had men on bases. The Oaks bunched three singles and a walk in the third inning for their first two tallies, while two doubles brought in another run two frames later. Hits and a sacrifice resulted in the final score. TED THYE PULLS HIS FREIGHT FOR SPOKANE.

Ted Thye, with a roll of bills clutched in one hand and a railroad ticket in the other, pulled his freight for the old home burg of Spokane last night. Thye was well satisfied with the outcome of his match with Sam Clapham on Thursday night, and hopes to return here next month to wrestle Bull Montana.

The middleweight champ claims Bull has run out on a couple of matches with him in the north, the most recent date being October 2. After Thye had caused a hall to be rented and ordered a lot of bill posting, Sig. Montana, according to Thye, wired that he could not come north. For that reason Thye threatens to do the peerless movie actor a lot of damage when they get together. Thye has three matches scheduled in the north next month.

IRISH MEUSEL HAS EYES ON A RECORD.

Irish Meusel hopes to lead the home-run swatters of the National League this season, he says in a letter received here yesterday by Joe Pirrone, the booker. Irish has fourteen over-the-fence smashes to his credit already, and expects to garner more before the season ends. He expects to winter at Laguna Beach and has promised the services of himself and his brother Bob to Pirrone on the latter's all-star club. Irish will lead a barnstorming team out of the East for a tour to the Coast, following the close of the eastern circuit, which will disband at El Paso October 24 unless Coast cities care to see the big leaguers in action.

SAN PEDRO DEFEATS HOLLYWOOD 9 TO 6.

The San Pedro High School football team defeated Hollywood, 9 to 6, in a game played at the harbor yesterday afternoon. Kirchner and Murdock starred for San Pedro and Louis Davis for Hollywood. The Foothillers scored in the first quarter when Davis packed the ball over on a ten-yard plunge through the line. San Pedro went scoreless until the third quarter, when Murdock drop-kicked for three points and Kirchner ran sixty yards for a touchdown.

WHITTIER HIGH RAPS COVINA GRIDIRONERS.

Whittier High School opened the football season in the Quaker town yesterday by defeating Covina High in a practice game, 18 to 0. Whittier made three touchdowns, failing to kick any of the goals. There were many substitutions throughout the fray.

SANDLOTTERS IN TOWN.

The sandlotters are beginning to flock into the city in droves, yesterday seeing the arrival of such estimable young men as Ernest Vache, Western Canadian League; Red Smith, Texas League; Nick DeMaggio and Pete Schneider, back from a successful season with Beaumont, in the Texas League. Most of these men will play on the Winter League teams.

What about the clothier who does the right thing?

YOU hear a lot about profiteering in clothing Wherever it exists it can't be condemned too severely

Something ought to be said, however, for the merchants who have been taking only a fair profit; merchants who have tried to help their customers meet high costs

There are many such merchants

They are meeting the situation fairly and squarely with nothing but good quality because they know it is economy

When they couldn't get enough fine goods, they turned down sales rather than sell "cheap" stuff

They cut their margins of profit in order to help relieve the strain of high prices

They say to their customers, "Come back and get your money if you aren't satisfied"

We believe that the merchants who sell our clothes are doing everything they can to reduce costs for you We think you ought to know it

CLEVELAND TO ENTERTAIN VETS

Large Crowd Expected for American Legion Meet.

Three-Day Convention Opens With Parade Monday.

Presidential Aspirants Send Messages of Greeting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 24.—First steps to transfer the national memorial activities of the G.A.R. to the younger generation of soldiers will be taken at the second annual convention of the American Legion, which opens here Monday, Franklin D'Olier, National Commander, announced today.

Proposal of this movement came from the veterans of the Civil War, who realize that because of their fast-dwindling ranks, their work must be carried on by a newer organization. The plan will be carried out through a liaison with the G.A.R., the American Legion, the Spanish War Veterans and other organizations of veterans.

Two of the four leading candidates for nomination to the office of national commander, F. W. Galbraith, Past Commander of the Department of Ohio, and Milton J. Foreman, State Commander of Illinois, arrived today.

Gen. John J. Pershing wired a message of greeting. It read in part:

"On this occasion of your second annual convention I wish to congratulate you on the splendid work you have accomplished during the past year.

"The times have changed little since a year ago; the world remains disturbed and men are restless and impatient. I ask you to keep one thought clearly in your minds: You men fought the war and saved our country from disaster. Now face each problem with a resolute, unwavering determination that the fruits of our victory shall not have been in vain."

DEMOCRATS SEE DEFEAT AHEAD.

campaign was apathetic. Cox realized that in a dull campaign without any burning issues the Republican candidate is sure to win, for the simple reason that there are more Republicans than Democrats in the country, and he simply had to stir up some kind of interest or perish of slow decay.

At the first touch he realized that the prohibition question was poison. It is a matter of fact, the feeling against prohibition even in New York and other big cities is passing. Prohibition has boomed the theater business and helped other businesses. Brother Cox may have to discover that prohibition is not an issue. The League of Nations was worse as a campaign topic and when Cox got onto the topic of the League he found himself dazzling between Wilson and the anti-Wilson Democrats, with destruction at both ends.

He fell back to his bush league training and began to wallop the Republicans for trying to buy the White House, and it proved to be a fatal mistake. He could not prove his reckless assertions, and he effectually scared away all the Democrats who might have been induced to contribute to his campaign expenses. Most disastrous of all, he brought the voting public down to a settled conviction that he was a cheap bush league politician, in no way big enough for such a job.

As a result the Cox campaign is now empty of hope and empty of pockets. Through Cox, Mr. Wilson is due for one of the most stinging rebukes ever handed out to an administration. One of the surprises of the campaign is the attitude of the women voters toward Wilson. The other day I attended a political luncheon at the Biltmore which was given for women. The most popular speaker was young Senator Wadsworth, who had been marked for slaughter by the Democrats because he opposed woman suffrage. He showed his political sagacity, by dropping all the cheap sentimental hunk with which politicians usually address women and drove right to financial matters. He showed them how the high prices they are paying are the direct result of the appalling Wilson business methods and the staggering wave of talk by the Southern orators now in command at Washington. The women listened with the most marked attention and I saw them taking notes of his figures all over the big banquet room. National housekeeping is of absorbing interest to women voters.

HARDING GAINS SUPPORT.

Harding, on the other hand, has gained a great deal of support by keeping off the Cox method of personal abuse.

I should think the Democrats would have learned a lesson from their Liberty Bond campaigns. One of the managers of that great national movement told us that it had opened the eyes of the big array of high-priced men, who worked on it as "dollar a year" men. It was, of course, the greatest selling campaign ever undertaken in the history of the world.

My friend told me that it had shown the experts that the method of attack is a business mistake. He said that the four-minute speakers who spouted at the movie theaters in behalf of the bonds did far more harm than good. They were too abusive in their speeches, he said, and the attempts made to threaten the public into buying bonds did harm. Even the posters which abused the foe were harmful. He said that all the good done was by local committees.

POSTERS OF VALUE.

The posters were of value only in giving the local committees official standing. He said it had taught every advertising man and every politician on the board a great lesson—that the American public is constitutionally opposed to knocking in any form and that they resent oratory from any one except proven "big leaguers." This may have taught the advertising men something, but it didn't teach Cox anything. He has killed himself by unjust knocking.

The Democrats have resigned themselves to a dreadful licking. They are already trimming their sails for the election four years from now, when their calculations are that McAdoo will be a candidate against Hiram Johnson.

words of President Hayes are significant. He said:

"'As the power of modifying an existing treaty, whether by adding or striking out provisions, is a part of the treaty-making power under the Constitution, its exercise is not competent for Congress nor would the consent of China to this partial abrogation of the treaty make the action of Congress in thus procuring an amendment of a treaty a competent exercise of authority under the Constitution. The importance, however, of this special consideration seemed superseded by the principle that a denunciation of a part of a treaty, not made by the terms of the treaty itself separable from the rest, is a denunciation of the whole treaty. As the other high contracting party has entered into no treaty obligations except such as include the part denounced, the denunciation by one party of the part necessarily liberates the other party from the whole treaty.'

"The Merchant Marine Act was approved June 5 in the final rush of the session's close, with no opportunity to suggest, much less secure, its revision in any particular. If we have vetoed the act would have sacrificed the great number of sound and enlightened provisions which it undoubtedly contains. Furthermore, the fact that one section of the law involves elements of illegality rendering the section inoperative, need not affect the validity and operation of the act as a whole."

FLOUR DROPS, ALSO LUMBER.

in retail lumber prices. Company officials admitted that Henry Ford's action in reducing the prices of automobiles instigated the decrease in lumber.

FLOUR TAKES TUMBLE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Flour fell into step with the general decline in prices today with a drop of $2 a barrel. This follows a decrease in the price of wheat, which declined 11 cents on December and 12½ cents on March. This is a drop of 17½ cents and 22½ cents in a week and 27 to 31 cents in the last month.

All the Chicago mail order houses announce reductions of 10 to 30 per cent from their July prices, covering a wide range of goods. The largest of these houses states that it has already refunded $5,000,000, the difference between the July catalogue prices and reductions that have been made since then.

Corn, hogs, cattle and sheep are all lower. There are reports in steel trade circles that buyers are obtaining concessions over prices breaking a few weeks ago, and that there is less difficulty in getting quick delivery.

In Chicago the drive against high prices just now is centered upon the restaurants and hotels. Alderman Adamowski, who is leading this fight, says he has been promised evidence of an organization of restaurant men which has for its chief object the regulation of prices—always upward.

Several of the restaurants today announced a scaling of prices. One restaurant, evidently not in the combine, is showing up the others by serving box lunches for 50 cents, containing precisely the same food that the others charge from 50 to 75 cents for.

Representatives of leading hotels and restaurants have been cited to appear before the Council committee and explain their high prices in the face of cheaper flour, sugar, lard, meats and vegetables. One of the large hotel proprietors stated he is required by the unions to employ a hundred cooks, who only work a few hours daily, in one or two specialties only, and that his cafes are operated at a loss, even with present high prices.

City officials are also investigating the dumping into the lake of nearly 100 carloads of Michigan peaches last Sunday and Monday nights. Members of the piers denied the fruit was rotting and intimate it was destroyed by speculators in order to keep up prices. Inferior peaches are selling here at $2.50 a bushel. In the Michigan fruit belt four hours distant by rail and motor, much better fruit can be had at 75 cents a bushel.

BREAKS IN WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Big breaks in the price of wheat took place today largely as a result of agitation of a general cut in food costs. The smash of values in wheat amounted to as much as 12¾ cents a bushel, and the market closed in a semi-demoralized condition. December delivery at 2.25 to 2.25½ and March 2.15 to 2.16.

Heretofore, wheat has been advancing despite setbacks in the price of other grain. The chief reason ascribed for such strength was huge sales of wheat for export to Europe. Today, however, the stimulus of export business appeared to have lost its influence, and especially near the end of the day the wheat market tumbled wildly downward.

In sympathy with the weakness of wheat, other grain markets also gave way, and both corn and oats fell to the lowest price levels yet for the 1920 crop.

HOUSTON (Tex.) Sept. 24.—The Dixie Co-operative Mail Order Company today announced reductions of 15 to 33 per cent in all goods except foodstuffs.

CLOTHING TO DROP.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—A slow but steady decrease in retail prices and a 10 to 20 per cent slash in the consumers' price on men's clothing with a gradual general return to normal prices was predicted today by a leading department store and clothing manufacturer.

Immediate reductions in retail prices on men's clothing, following the cuts in raw materials announced this week, are not to be expected, the manufacturer said, because the stocks of present fall and winter suits were purchased last spring.

"An orderly, progressive reorganization of commerce" is under way. Marshall Field & Co., one of the largest department stores in the country, said in a statement. The company warns against a period of reaction which set in after the initial price decline in prices.

"The mill prices for the spring of 1921 show reductions of from 10 to 20 per cent," Alfred Decker and Cohn, manufacturers of men's clothing, said, "but as the cost of labor is not apt to be reduced, too much must not be expected for the next spring. The reduction to the consumer will probably be from 10 to 20 per cent."

Rival Firms Concede That They Must Follow Ford.

"Back to Normal" Issue to be Forced by Cuts.

Industrial Detroit One Vast Council of War.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—Industrial Detroit was one vast war council today, with the next big step in the general slashing of high prices the subject of violent debate. The question of what is going to happen when the conference doors are thrown open is still a matter of conjecture. It is conceded by manufacturers and economic experts alike that the entire automobile industry is preparing to take up Ford's challenge and force the "back to normal" issue by announcing general and substantial price reductions.

MARKING TIME.

Heads of practically every motor manufacturing plant in the Detroit section buried themselves in plant conferences throughout the day and steadfastly refused to discuss their immediate plans. Factory organizations hummed about closed doors anxiously marking time as one sales manager put it for the final orders in what they now consider their own particular battle in the lower cost of living campaign.

Officials of the General Motors Corporation, the automotive power which is expected to make the next public step downward, were still tied up in the New York conferences called hurriedly to decide the company's policy following the Ford reductions. Executives who consented to comment on the situation at all repeated rumors concerning the immediate reduction of prices of rivals and admitted that every automobile maker with the exception of their own factory would probably be forced to come down in price lists.

ALL AT SEA.

"You certainly do not desire first hand information on what is going to happen any more than we do right in our own plant," declared a harried advertising manager employed by a popular, medium-priced car concern. "We have been suspended for two days waiting orders with the result that advertising copy is waiting, too. I'd be a happy man if I knew just what is to come in the next few days."

PRODUCTION SPEEDED.

Two organizations took an entirely opposite view of the matter. Executives in the Ford plant were too busy raking in the increased orders to speculate in economic problems. Preliminary reports from every section of the country indicate the initial price reduction announcement is going to continue. Factory production has been speeded up to meet the increased demand, a maximum force is at work at the old wage scale and fall production records are being broken daily.

E. J. Noughton is another enthusiastic booster for price reduction. He is representative of the Franklin company.

ESSENTIALITY PROVED.

"The government may have seen fit to list automobiles as non-essential in the matter of trade loans," he remarked, "but the industry has surely proved that it is most essential. Ford simply forced the industry to take the initiative in this great return to normal times. If other manufacturers will make up their minds quick enough to get in and push even though the decision does mean a temporary loss, there will certainly be a big and immediate drop in the costs of practically everything we have to use."

MEN LAID OFF.

As a basis for their prediction that every manufacturer of both small and medium-priced type of cars is making ready to announce price cuts. Detroit experts point to the fact that between 75,000 and 100,000 men have already been laid off in the local industries alone. They declare that not only accessory and used car dealers, but also the big agencies have felt the slump in buying keenly and that the price reduction movement is an industrial necessity for the smaller and less comfortably financed factories.

DUN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

"With more general recognition of the fact that commercial revival waits mainly on lower prices, the way is being gradually shaped for subsequent improvement in conditions. Months of curtailed demand have weakened the position of many sellers, and downward revisions of prices, if belated in certain quarters, are now of frequent occurrence. The reluctance of some interests to operate on a closer margin of profit after the abnormal gains of the late boom period, still tends to delay a seasonal development of business in various lines, but the effects of banking restrictions and consumers' waiting attitude are forcing the inevitable readjustment. WANT-AD SUPREMACY.

The Times regularly prints practically all of the "Want Ads" published in the other Los Angeles newspapers in addition to thousands of exclusive ads not printed in any other newspaper.

The circulations of all the newspapers in Los Angeles are audited by A. B. C., which reads TIMES Want Ads. Whatever newspaper an individual may become a reader of, he INVARIABLY BECOMES A TIMES WHEN HE SEEKS WANT-AD INFORMATION.

By using THE TIMES ALONE, classified advertisers can cover Los Angeles and Southern California at one low rate.

MADE NEW APPEARANCE

THE DAY WHEN AN AUTOMOBILE WAS LOOKED UPON AS A "LUXURIOUS VEHICLE" HAS PASSED. THE MODERN PURCHASER CAN SEE A LIVELY TIMES DEVICE IMMEDIATELY INTERESTED AND IN INDIVIDUAL THE INCREASED PRODUCTION MADE POSSIBLE BY THE GREAT WAR IS SO APPARENT THAT IT IS NOTICED THE DAY BY THE DAY. THE UNPARALLELED DEMAND FOR AUTOMOBILES IS SO HAPHAZARD PASSING THAT IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO SATISFY IMMEDIATELY THE DEMAND FOR AUTOMOTIVE EFFICIENCY. OUR FACTORIES HAVE BEEN "MADE OVER" AND ENLARGED AND WAR INSTALLED NEARLY 10 YEARS AHEAD OF TIME. WE ARE NOW BUILDING OUR 1921 MODEL WHICH IS ALREADY OVER 27 YEARS AGO AND CONTINUOUSLY BUILDING AN AUTOMOBILE THAT HAS "MADE NEW" APPEARANCE EVERY YEAR. THE 1921 MODEL WILL SURPRISE EVERY ONE. WOULD KEEP ARMS.

Penitentiary Guards Rebel at Order to Surrender Guns.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRANKFORT (Ky.) Sept. 24.—While a lot of Warden W. H. Moyer's reform suggestions have met with the approval of the State employees of the Frankfort penitentiary the guards have rebelled against going unarmed. "What good is a prison guard who can't shoot?" they ask.

Moyer, with a former record at Sing Sing and Atlanta, upon arrival at Frankfort did away with the whipping post, blood stains on which told their story of punishments inflicted. The old chamber of torture where men were chained to the walls was also torn out.

But the guards threaten to strike at the order to give up their guns. "Kentucky is not New York," say the guards; "when a prisoner runs to escape here you'll have to have something to stop him."

SALLIE AT THE MARKETS

HOUSEHOLD NEEDS AND SALLIE'S HELPFUL HINTS FOR SATURDAY SHOPPERS

For desert tomorrow let me make a suggestion. First order Hughes Ice Cream, and just before serving, pour over it some thick chocolate sauce to which has been added a few marshmallows cut in small pieces. It's perfectly delicious and so very easily prepared. Hughes Ice Cream is so rich in flavor and is made of very fine materials, I know, because I have seen it being made and am, therefore, enthusiastic about it.

I was simply carried away with the beauty of the wall papers in the United Wholesale Paint Company's store on Main street, between Sixth and Seventh, when I visited their shop this week. Mere words couldn't convey an adequate description of the hundreds of newest designs of ultra shades which I saw. You must go there yourself and see these new papers just received. Here, too, is a bit of news. You will find them remarkably reasonable in price.

In making gravy for meat use the water the vegetables have been cooked in and the flavor will be delicious.

Pass the good word along! Tell your new neighbor about our Young's Markets and the booths they have in many sections of the city. You and I both know that when we insist upon quality, though the price we pay appears to be more, in the long run it is worth it. It is possible that all dwellers in our city of sunshine are not aware of the care and pride taken by Young's in the raising of milk-fed chickens, nor know that their beef comes from only the finest steers. No other will they accept for Young's always have stood for a high standard and all of us housewives know that in their booths you find everything your heart could wish for, and you need never feel the least concern once your basket is filled at Young's.

Do you know that I think were it possible to find one thing better than another at the Elite Catering and Confectionery Shop on Flower street (641, remember, is the number) that one thing would be their luscious white cake with the most really and truly heavenly icing. Every one who once tastes this cake goes into ecstacies over it, so if you are "a stranger in our midst," seek out the Elite house of confection and forever after you, too, will sing the praises of good things you buy there.

In roasting meats heat the oven very hot before putting in, that the outside of the meat may sear and return the juice.

Fame Spreads quickly. A salad dressing as truly delicious and satisfying as that made by Jevne's cannot hide its light under a bushel basket, but I knew all this would come to pass from the moment I visited the light, airy, immaculately clean kitchen in which this mayonnaise is made. The housekeeper is showing her appreciation of this truly excellent Jevne product by using it in greater quantities as its goodness is revealed to her. Perhaps you were not cognizant of its existence. Then, no later than today, order a bottle. The grocer carries three sizes for every one's convenience. Ask him to include a trial jar in your order; a real treat is in store for you, I know.

Gasoline will remove rust from nickel. Kerosene will take the soot off woodwork.

If you could see me in my quest for hidden treasures in the form of bargains for all my good readers, and not alone bargains, but household necessities which they haven't the time to look for, well, this week comes some news which is going to mean much to you. The Standard Paint and Products Company, 221 E. 9th st., I find makes a strictly pure paint which they absolutely guarantee to be lead, zinc and linseed oil, dryer, for $3.50 a gallon. Think of it! It is said to be the most expensive house paint that can be manufactured and from them you are able to secure it at $3.50. Furthermore, the Standard Paint Co. claims that no other paint could look or last better, and its ability to cover a surface is truly remarkable. You must try their $2 paint, by the way; this they guarantee also to be extremely durable.

If you need linseed oil their price is $1.52 a gallon and certainly that is reasonable, and they will deliver your order anywhere in the city, to the depot if you live out of town, or your mail order for paint is accepted and given prompt attention. Telephone them today, Main 9421 and let them send you what you need at once for the coming season. You cannot help being pleased with their paints.

To clean white paint boil two or three onions well, and the water they are boiled in will cleanse painted woodwork effectively. No soap will be needed and the dirt will disappear, leaving the paint clean and glossy.

Good shoe polish is a real necessity to the well-dressed man or woman. By your shoes you are judged. White shoes when not cared for are a reflection on your character. My elation over the finding of a shoe cleaner for white shoes made by the Omego Shoe Polish Company is unbounded. It is truly a wonder. They have a preparation for white canvas slippers which is absolutely wonderful and remember this. The Omego Shoe Polish Company is a Los Angeles product. Show your loyalty to home products and buy their polishes hereafter.

SALLIE'S SISTER'S MENU.

Cold roast beef Creamed potatoes
(cooked deliciously tender in a steam cooker)
Sister's special salad.
(Chopped oranges, apples and bananas frozen in strawberry jello in individual molds. Served on lettuce with mayonnaise over the top, and a plentiful sprinkling of nuts)
Hot rolls Jelly
Ice cream Pineapple cake
Coffee.

Add a few sprigs of mint to fresh peas and new potatoes when they are boiling. It greatly improves their flavor.

Did you ever use a Sechrist cooker? If you have you know how indispensable they are in your kitchen. If you haven't, ask your neighbor what they can do. Never again a tough chicken or piece of meat, once a Sechrist cooker is used. Vegetables never tasted so good when cooked in the old way for the steam then carried away all the real flavor and nutrition. These Sechrist cookers pay for themselves for the gas used is really inexistent. Lyon-McKinney-Smith is where you must buy them. Their address is 737 S. Hill st.

Tonight is the night! Meet me at the truly wonderful auction sale, W. Dwight Hammond, the auctioneer, is to have at his studio, 1053 S. Main st., this very evening. There is something thrilling and fascinating about attending an auction, don't you think? Always something to be found in the sale that you want. Indeed have needed perhaps for ever so long. Let's buy at auction! In the sale tonight will be a tea wagon, an almost indispensable article of furniture in this day of servantless homes. And bedroom and dressing tables, also chairs. Lamp shades and standards, a chaise longue and day bed. You know you can at ways use one more? I saw a cheval mirror which I know I shall bid on, for my bedroom lacks just that and they amount to almost a necessity, I think. Don't you need a living-room desk? Have supper over early so you may get there in plenty of time, the sale starts at 7:30 p.m. I can't wait to see what good fortune awaits me, can you? W. Dwight Hammond, auctioneer.

An effective way of removing the skin of ripe tomatoes is to rub the tomato with the back edge of a silver knife.

Every one is making home beverage! In fact, if you haven't tried your hand at it you are considered a bit of an outsider. It is really a very easy task when you use the Peerless Malt concentrate which may be bought from the California Wholesale Beverage Co., their number, be sure and take it down, is 103 N. Spring st. Their excellent product takes only ten short minutes boiling, think of it, and is the best some friends of mine said they had ever used. Containing as it does malt hops and clearing powder, the beverage which is made from it is, oh, so good. Better call them today and make ready for a big party next week. What do you think?

In stuffing green peppers for baking if they are oiled first they will not turn brown in the oven.

It doesn't take long for a new product like the Del Sur jellied fruits to grow famous. The moment I tasted their "nutty fruits put up in orange jelly" with the apricot predominating, I knew that Del Sur would grace my pantry shelves for ever and ever. These Del Sur fruits are put up by the Santa Ana Preserving Co., in attractive glasses or in eight-pound cans and are of the highest standard and quality. They are a real necessity in the home, being ideal for a spread on the kiddies' bread. Served with afternoon tea on toast you will love it. If your grocer doesn't carry this Del Sur brand, insist upon his getting it for you and in the mean time call 63247 for what you need.

Funny, isn't it how quickly we all become creatures of habit? I have used no water for drinking but Arrowhead since living here and now no other satisfies me; no, not even quenches the thirst I have. It is knowing how carefully this pure mountain water is bottled by the Arrowhead Springs Co., that prompts my loyalty and enthusiasm. Then I am ever so confident that health is benefited and improved by drinking Arrowhead. Each week drink more of it because physicians everywhere claim we don't consume enough. Why not begin to increase the amount this coming week? Call South 381 for a demijohn.

Coddled eggs are more beautiful then boiled, as they cannot be cooked too much. To coddle them put them in a pan and pour boiling water over them, and let stand about ten or fifteen minutes.

Do hurry, hurry, hurry! Sunday morning clip out of The Times the coupon offered by Parmelee-Dohrmann Co., (436-444 the number on Broadway) which, when signed and presented at their store—this month only—pays your first month's installment on a One-Minute Washer, which you know is a remarkable machine—and not only are you saving $5, but $10 besides, for Parmelee-Dohrmann's next stock of One-Minute Washers will have advanced that much in price and the supply is running short and from every part of the city orders are coming in thick and fast. Parmelee-Dohrmann's have a free demonstration of the One-Minute Washer on the balcony floor. Why not stop to see its marvelous ability to wash? Remember the address, Broadway, between Third and Fourth.

STREET CAR IS LOST IN RAIN.

Bewildered Crew Takes Vote of Passengers on Route; Arrives Somewhere

This is the story of a Los Angeles Railway car that got lost in the rain.

During the day separate service is maintained on the Western-avenue and Heliotrope-drive lines. But one owl car serves for both.

At 1 a.m. yesterday numerous passengers fared forth on this owl trip. Rain was falling and the curtains were drawn. The crew seemed to know where it was going. Everybody accordingly took matters serenely until a wayfarer suddenly discovered the car was wandering along Sixth street when it should have been on Rampart Boulevard. Conductor and motorman, new on the run, couldn't dispute the passenger's geographical assertions. They hunted a telephone. But nobody answered at the railroad dispatcher's office.

So a viva voce vote of the passengers was taken. It was decreed that the car should back up and turn on to Rampart Boulevard.

As no missing coaches have been reported, it probably arrived somewhere.

and left it unlocked when he went away, taking this precaution, the police think, so that he might escape quickly if taken by surprise.

Patrons of a grocery store near the house say that a young man stopped there shortly after the Handleys went to the funeral and asked where Mrs. Handley lived. When told that she was at the funeral the young man said:

"I know, but her sister is there, isn't she?"

Neighbors described the intruder as about 22 years old, with a straw hat, leather puttees, gray coat and khaki trousers.

MANY PAY RESPECTS.

Many of the leading people of the city attended the funeral services, which were conducted at the Highland Park Presbyterian Church. Men who had been associated with Mr. Handley in politics for years mingled with his former students and numerous other old-time friends, for Mr. Handley belonged to that group which brought Los Angeles out of the small-town class into recognition as a metropolis.

He served in various capacities in the Los Angeles city government and when recently appointed State prohibition director was the president of the Board of Public Works.

The services were in charge of

EXTRADITION OF BARRETT ASKED.

Attorney States Removal to England Will be Fought.

Theft of Pearls Worth Huge Sum Formally Charged.

Mrs. Spreckels is Accuser of Drexel's Son-in-Law.

Extradition of Capt. William N. Barrett, until two days ago under police surveillance in this city, was asked of British police authorities yesterday by London solicitors representing Mrs. John D. Spreckels, Jr., of California, according to Associated Press dispatches. A warrant charging Barrett with the theft of a pearl necklace valued at £16,500 was issued, the message stated, on the application of Mrs. Spreckels in the Marlborough Police Court, the 17th inst. Capt. Barrett's attorney in this city said last evening that he believes his client will undoubtedly fight any effort to return him to England to face the accusation.

Capt. Barrett, the husband of Alice Gordon Drexel of Philadelphia, New York and Newport, remained in the company of a police officer here overnight after press reports brought word from London that he was wanted there. He denied he had done anything wrong. Then, day before yesterday, he was set scot-free when his attorney, H. L. Giesler, threatened to begin habeas corpus proceedings unless a formal warrant was issued or official word was received from England that afternoon.

Mr. Giesler stated yesterday that he did not know Capt. Barrett's whereabouts or plans, but from his knowledge of his client's attitude in the matter, felt certain that extradition proceedings would be vigorously contested.

Mrs. Spreckels is at the West End Hotel, London. She has canceled her passage on a liner sailing today for New York and will wait in the British capital for her husband, who is in Norway, to join her.

Her secretary said yesterday, according to the Associated Press advices, that Mrs. Spreckels met Capt. Parrett, whom she had known several years, at the Sandown race course, some months ago and as she was not acquainted in London, he offered to introduce her to his friends.

The secretary declared Mrs. Spreckels requested him to attend to some dealings for her with jewelers and gave him the necklace, which she wanted cleaned and restrung. Time elapsed and Capt. Barrett avoided discussion as to the whereabouts of the necklace, the dispatches quote the secretary as saying, and eventually left London.

His continued silence, the Associated Press message says, determined Mrs. Spreckels to inaugurate proceedings, which resulted in the issuance of the Police Court warrant.

TO BUILD HUGE GLASS FACTORY.

Two Million Investment to be Begun in Sixty Days.

Plant Here Will Rank Next to Largest in Country.

Will Occupy Twenty-Acre Site Near Los Angeles.

Construction on the second largest glass factory in the United States will begin in Los Angeles county within the next sixty days, according to announcement by officials of the Torrance Window Glass Company, yesterday. The operating corporation will be known as the Pacific Libbey-Owens Glass Company.

The plant will cost $2,000,000, cover at least twenty acres, and will employ several hundred men. Its output is expected to be two carloads of window glass every day, which would mean $3,000,000 worth of business a year.

A. Sieroty, of the Torrance Window Glass Company, said yesterday that ground will be broken for the new plant as soon as a location is decided upon by the Libbey-Owens company. The selection of the site will be governed by the available supply of natural gas, silica, and proximity to railroad facilities. Mr. Sieroty indicated that the plant will be erected near Inglewood, Torrance or Hyde Park. "At all events, he said," it will be located as near as possible to the city of Los Angeles."

E.D. Libbey, president of the Libbey-Owens company is a great admirer of Southern California, having a winter home and farm in Ojai Valley. Some time ago he was interested by the management of the Torrance Window Glass Company in establishing a plant here. The latter will duplicate the Libbey-Owens glass factory in Charleston, W. Va., said to be the largest in this country. It is expected that the Los Angeles factory will develop to such proportions as to ultimately surpass it in volume of production.

The Libbey-Owens Company is said to possess a patented process which will revolutionize the glass industry and emancipate it from domination, or control, by organized labor. The patent consists of making pure plate window glass on flat surfaces with unskilled labor. This is made possible by the use of machinery which can be operated twenty-four hours a day for 365 days every year.

NO CYLINDERS USED.

In other plants window glass is blown into cylinders by glass blowers and the cylinders are subsequently cut and flattened. Unevenness in blowing is said to result in the production of great quantities of imperfect or second-class glass. With the use of the company's machinery it is said to be possible to produce nothing but perfect glass, and production is never interrupted by strikes of the fixing of maximum hours of work.

"This factory in Southern California will not only save freight on glass, but will also bring a great deal of money to the Pacific Coast that would otherwise never come here," said Mr. Sieroty. "There is a big demand for this glass from every point on the Pacific Coast and the new plant will be a wonderful factor in the development of Los Angeles Harbor."

Attorney Arthur Wright recently returned to Los Angeles from Toledo, O., where he spent several days completing legal arrangements so that this factory will become a reality. It is understood that the Libbey-Owens Company put up half the money for the establishment of the plant, while the Torrance Window Glass Company and other local interests subscribed the other 50 per cent.

If it develops that the new plant can supply the entire Pacific Coast demand for regular window glass, the Torrance Window Glass Company will begin manufacturing frosted, wire and other special kinds of glass used in buildings.

Mrs. Augusta Ainsworth and Friends.

Electric Bumps Kiddie Car; Wee Driver May Die.

Robert E. Lamb, 2 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lamb of 1629 Crenshaw Boulevard, was probably fatally injured yesterday when he rode a tiny kiddie car in front of a Sawtelle Pacific Electric car at Victoria Drive and West Sixteenth street. The child was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a fracture of the skull and other injuries and then removed to the Clara Barton Hospital.

According to the police who made an investigation of the accident, the child, riding the kiddie car, shot out onto the street-car tracks almost in front of the street car. Motorman Neighbors, in charge of the car, was unable to bring the street car to a stop in time to avoid striking the child.

RITES TODAY FOR WIFE OF SPECIALIST.

Mrs. E. W. Fleming, Member of Prominent Family, Dies After Long Illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the family home, 968 South Hoover street, at 3:30 p.m. today for Mrs. Ernest William Fleming, 51 years of age, wife of Dr. E. W. Fleming, one of the prominent specialists of this city. Burial at Rosedale will be private.

Mrs. Fleming died suddenly at San Diego last Wednesday, after a long and trying illness.

Both her family and that of Dr. Fleming have resided in California since the early days, when they chose Los Angeles as the ideal western home. Mrs. Fleming was born at Springfield, O., where her father, Dr. Aaron Longstreet, stood at the head of his profession. While still young in the early '80's, she accompanied her parents to the West, and spent her girlhood days in Los Angeles, where in later years she became prominent both socially and in financial and business circles. Her death has brought sorrow to an unusually large circle of friends.

She was widely known for her kindly personality and charitable activities. Many unknown beneficiaries will miss the generous, unostentatious manifestations of her thoughtfulness and her Christian spirit.

Besides the widower she leaves two daughters, Miss Alice Fleming and Mrs. Arthur Adkisson, who have many friends and are prominent socially and in charitable and other public entertainments. Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Nelson of Upland, stepfather and mother of Mrs. Fleming, are among the largest citrus growers of the San Bernardino Valley. She leaves also three sisters, known in the early days here as the Longstreet girls: Mrs. Harriet Gay of Upland, Mrs. James W. Barnett of Chicago and Mrs. Jesse W. Olney of Adelanto. All three have large citrus holdings in the neighborhood of Upland, where Dr. Fleming is also a leading orchardist.

BOUDOIR SCENE FEATURES CASE.

Woman Detective Tells of Night Visit and Find.

Wife Counters Strenuously to Home Builder's Suit.

Husband Changes Breakfast Hour; Then She Suspects.

Mrs. Maud M. Jansen, defending the divorce suit of Charles E. Jansen, former manager of the Commonwealth Home Builders, and who, in a cross-complaint named Mrs. Augusta Ainsworth, a former schoolteacher as the other woman, played detective and told her experiences in Judge Jackson's court yesterday. Once during her recital, she broke down and wept.

She testified that she became suspicious when her husband changed his breakfast hour from 8:30 to 8 a.m., so determined to follow him some morning and find out where he went. The trail led to the home of Mrs. Ainsworth on Sunbury street, she said, where Mrs. Ainsworth was sitting on the front porch in a swing.

"My husband sat beside her and put his arm around her," she testified. "They put up a newspaper, unfolded, and put their heads down. Finally Mr. Jansen got up and she leaned against him. When he left, she threw a kiss at him and waved good-by."

On other occasions she testified she followed him when he drove Mrs. Ainsworth to the Utah-street school. Once she said she asked him if she could use the automobile to go to the cemetery to place flowers on her mother's grave, to which he replied: "'No; you can go on a street car.'"

A dramatic story was told by Mrs. M. E. Firmin, who was engaged by Mrs. Jansen to trap Mr. Jansen. She testified she followed Mr. Jansen and Mrs. Ainsworth to the latter's house. Mrs Jansen and several operatives were in her party. The house was dark when Mr. Jansen and Mrs. Ainsworth entered, she testified. The lower floor lights were switched on. Then the lights in an upper room were turned on and the lower lights extinguished. Some time later a man whom Mrs. Firmin did not sufficiently identify, entered the house, turned on the first floor lights and sat down to read.

Mrs. Jansen then went to the door and asked to see Mrs. Ainsworth. She was told she had retired.

"Mrs. Jansen replied she knew Mrs. Ainsworth was in bed, but she wanted to see her," Mrs. Firmin testified. "The man blocked her entrance until Mrs. Jansen said she also wanted to see Mr. Jansen. 'Who are you?' the man asked. 'I am Mrs. Jansen,' was the reply.

"The man exclaimed, 'My G—,' and went upstairs." Mrs. Firmin said. "Presently Mr. Jansen and Mrs. Ainsworth came downstairs. Mr. Jansen was in his shirt sleeves. Mrs. Ainsworth was in a pink kimono; her hair was disarranged and her face was red."

Both Mr. Jansen and Mrs. Ainsworth deny the charges.

HUNT WOMAN IN CONTEMPT CASE.

Judge Charges Unlawful Interference With Court.

Bailiff Can't Locate Accused at Address She Gave.

Phone Conversation is Basis for Arrest Citation.

Judge J. P. Wood yesterday issued a citation for the arrest of a woman calling herself Mrs. R. G. Colwell for "unlawfully interfering with the process and proceedings of this court in the trial of the case of J. L. Spillman against John S. Steely."

Bailiff Cowan was detailed to find Mrs. Colwell and reported that he could not locate her at the address given, 2224 Twenty-second street.

Judge Wood wants very much to find Mrs. Colwell. In the citation he issued he describes how a woman, styling herself Mrs. R. G. Colwell, called him up on the telephone while the Spillman case was on trial and said to him, among other things:

"That she was Mrs. Colwell, a member of the movement for better judges; that she desired to know if it was proper for John Steely, just before his case came on for trial, to hold a private conference with the judge in his chambers; that said John Steely is being watched; that he boasts of having Masonic influence with the court; that if John Steely's case is decided in his favor there will be a motion for a new trial, and there will be sufficient grounds for it; that Steely came out of the chambers with a leer on his face; that if the court knew all about Steely he would not be so up in arms at being called up."

Judge Wood holds that by such telephoning, statements and conduct, Mrs. Colwell unlawfully interfered with the court in the course of a trial "and was guilty of contemptuous conduct and behavior towards said court and in respect of said proceedings."

The bailiff was commanded to bring her into court to show cause why she should not be punished for her conduct and the reputed contempt.

"I want to find this woman," said Judge Wood, "and would be glad of any information leading to her identity. Mr. Steely saw me in chambers on purely legal matters. The conference was not private and related to information he desired about costs."

PLAN TO PAIR RATES WITH PUGET SOUND.

Announcement was made from the local offices of the Southern Pacific yesterday that the road will establish the same import and export rates to San Pedro as apply or will later apply to Puget Sound points. The rates are now approximately the same but the northern roads are contemplating a revision.

Wants Mother Arrested for Abuse of Son.

The arrest of Mrs. Hazel Farley of Long Beach was sought in a warrant sworn to before Justice of the Peace R. B. Thompson of Pasadena last evening charging Mrs. Farley with cruelty to her little son, Spencer Farley, aged 10 years.

The warrant was sworn to by Mrs. Anna Luckie, who said the Farley boy had been found beaten and bruised on the roadway near Fullerton early yesterday morning and was taken to Pasadena by motorists. The boy was left at the police station and was later taken to the home of Mrs. Luckie, who is a friend of the Farley family. Mrs. Luckie said the boy had told her that his mother had beaten him and driven him from home.

Last night Mrs. Luckie took the boy to the home of his grandfather, James Farley, 5112 Oakland avenue, Bairdstown.

MANUAL HIGH PUPILS TOLD OF SINGLE TAX.

Ex-Senator Rosebury, vice-president of the Security National Bank, spoke against the proposed single tax amendment before the seventh section of the History Club at the Manual Arts High School yesterday.

It is the plan of Mrs. Winterburn, head of the history department at Manual, to have speakers take up both sides of the important issues to come before the voters in November. JuJdge Hubbard has been invited to speak before the same section in favor of the single tax.

FOR GRAVE OFFENSE.

Man is Indicted on Charges Involving Two Young Boys.

The grand jury, through Foreman James Irving, yesterday afternoon returned an indictment against Carl Plumeyer, charging him with serious offenses against Edward Fleming and Raymond Kelly, 12-year-old boys. These offenses were committed, according to the indictment, Oct. 1, and Oct. 15; 1919.

Judge Jackson, who received the indictment, issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Plumeyer and the case was assigned to Department Eighteen for trial.

RAINFALL YESTERDAY MORNING ONLY LOCAL.

RIVERSIDE AND OTHER NEAR POINTS DID NOT GET ANY OF EARLY SHOWERS.

A light fall of rain was recorded in Los Angeles and near-by towns early yesterday morning. The shower came with considerable force the first few minutes. It cleared in a short time, however, and but .06 of an inch was registered.

The storm was practically a local one as near-by cities of Riverside, San Pedro, Santa Ana, towns in the San Fernando Valley, and at the beaches, with the exception of Venice and Santa Monica, were not included in the rain zone.

The precipitation was:

Los Angeles	.06

PASTOR LEAVES PULPIT.

Dr. A. O. Henricks Abandons Pastorship for University Work.

Dr. A. O. Henricks, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene for the past two years, announced yesterday that he will, after tomorrow, devote all his time to university work as president of the Pasadena University. Since taking charge of the First Church of the Nazarene two years ago, Dr. Henricks acted as president of the university, but declared yesterday that he could not fill both positions successfully. He will preach his farewell sermon tomorrow morning.

During the two years of Dr. Henricks's pastorate church reports showed that more than $25,000 had been raised for the various interests of the church, the church debt liquidated, the church building repaired, and a substantial increase in membership accomplished.

Dr. Henricks announced that one of his chief efforts as president of the Pasadena University is the raising of an endowment fund for the erection of buildings to replace the four university structures which were destroyed by fire last July.

RALLY DAY.
TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Three Rally Day services will be held at the Temple Baptist Church tomorrow. At 9:30 the Bible School will gather all its forces for special exercises. At 11 a.m. a rally of all of the members and friends of the church will be held in the main auditorium. Dr. James Whitcomb Brougher will continue his series of sermons on "Power," preaching on "Pep and Power; Can Everybody Have Them?" Nell Lockwood Josephs, contralto, the trio and choir will take part in the musical program. At 7:30 p.m. a biblical film, entitled "As We Forgive," will be shown. Dr. Brougher will preach a sermon appropriate to the film on "Choking a Man for Seventeen Dollars." The California Male Quartet, Clifford Biehl, tenor; Emery Foster, baritone, and Dr. Hastings at the organ, will render musical selections.

ON PUBLIC SCHOOL.
BLANCHARD HALL.

"The Friends and Enemies of the American Public School" will be the subject of an address by Reynold E. Blight before the Church of the People at Blanchard Hall tomorrow morning. In a prelude he will touch upon the proposed Chiropractic amendment. A musical program will be given by Mrs. Paula Dohrmann, soprano; Miss Bessie Chapin, violinist, and Miss Ruth Snow, pianist. Miss Ethel Patterson will address the Lyceum at 9:30 a.m. on "The Mystic Christ."

Beginning Monday Dr. E. C. Getzinger, formerly of the University of California, will conduct a series of lecture classes on the "Divine Ruling Power," "The Word Written in the Heavens" and "Celestial Mechanics."

PILGRIM'S ANNIVERSARY.
IMMANUEL PRESBYTERIAN.

An illustrated address on the "Landing of the Pilgrims Three Hundred Years Ago," involving "The Evolution of Religious Freedom," will be given by Rev. Louis Agassiz Gould at Immanuel Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening. Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor, will preach on the second of a series of sermons on "The Little Foxes" at the morning service.

WHO'S NEAR-SIGHTED?
FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

Are Los Angeles folks near-sighted? Do they suffer from moral astigmatism? Do they realise the greatness of the near? These questions are involved in an address by Dr. Herbert Booth Smith at the First Methodist Church tomorrow evening on "The Near-Sightedness of Los Angeles and Nazareth." In the morning Dr. S. T. Westhafer will preach on "Everyday Religion."

"MY OWN UNITED STATES."
PLYMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL.

"My own United States," a cinema picture taken from "The Man Without a Country," will be shown at the Plymouth Congregational Church tomorrow evening. Dr. George A. Andrews, pastor, will preach on "Repudiation." At the morning service Dr. Andrews will speak on "Yesterday, Today and Forever."

REV. L. J. MILLIKEN.
TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. L. J. Milliken, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of San Bernardino, will preach at both the morning and evening service at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow. In the morning his sermon topic will be "Reaching the Sublime Objective," and in the evening, "Heirs of the Kingdom." Miss May A. Trude, Mrs. Alma K. Moss and Miss Carolin K. Carpenter will sing.

SATURDAY THE SABBATH?
WESTLAKE PRESBYTERIAN.

Will all those who worship on Sunday be eternally lost? Are they even now branded with a mark of the beast? Seventh Day Adventists say that they will be lost and are so branded, said Dr. G. A. Briegleb, speaking of his sermon on "Keeping Saturday as the Sabbath," at the Westlake Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening. At the morning service Dr. Briegleb will preach on "A Great Task and a Short Time."

MONTH'S SERVICE ENDS.
BIBLE INSTITUTE.

Dr. French E. Oliver, who has been speaking before the Church of the Open Door at the Bible Institute, will close his month's service tomorrow with addresses at the morning, afternoon and evening services. In the morning he will speak on "The Heart of God." Topics chosen for the afternoon and evening services are "Political Signs of the Times" and "Is There a Literal Hell?" and will concern present political conditions. The church choir will render special music.

ON CURRENT QUESTIONS.
CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH.

In a prelude to his sermon on "God Manifest in the Flesh," Dr. C. F. Winbigler will answer the question, "What kind of a man ought the President of the United States be?" "Is Christian Science growing or decreasing in numbers?" and "Is prohibition in danger?" at the Central Baptist Church tomorrow morning.

"A WOMAN'S DECISION."
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

"A Woman's Decision" will be the subject of an address by Dr. James A. Francis at the First Baptist Church tomorrow evening. At the morning service he will speak on "Victory as a Habit." Robert E. Clarke will conduct the musical program.

EUROPEAN INCIDENTS.
ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL.

Dr. George Davidson will speak of impressions gained while traveling in the various countries of Europe at St. John's Episcopal Church tomorrow morning. At the evening service he will continue his remarks, making special reference to the Lambeth appeal concerning Christianity and international relationship.

SERMON SERIES.
WILSHIRE PRESBYTERIAN.

Dr. John Albert Eby, pastor of the Wilshire Presbyterian Church, will deliver the second sermon in his series on "The Psalms of Psalms" tomorrow morning at the Windsor Theater. The subject will be "Peace and Prosperity."

ARMENIAN TO SPEAK.
ARMENIAN CONGREGATIONAL.

D. Donchina, an Armenian Christian of New York, who has contributed $40,000 to Armenian sufferers and evangelical work, will speak tomorrow morning at the Armenian Gethsemane Congregational Church. Rev. A. S. Yeretzian will introduce the layman.

DR. C. F. CHEVERTON.

Memorial Bond Issue Off Ballot; Perhaps Others.

City Attorney Burnell announced that the special Chamber of Commerce committee which had in charge the campaign for a Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Auditorium at Normal Hill to cost $4,100,000, had decided at a conference yesterday to take no steps to place the proposed bond issue for the building on the ballot at the November election.

Unless the Council takes action before next Friday none of the other proposed city bond issues will appear on the November ballot. Those suggested include $3,000,000 for extensions to the city water system, $7,000,000 for a new City Hall, $5,000,000 for a Public Library, and 2,000,000 for new fire houses and a fire-alarm system.

FOR OIL PUMPING.

The Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, will have a hearing next Monday afternoon on the matter of a proposed amendment to existing city ordinances which will permit owners of oil wells in the city to maintain pumping engines of over five horsepower.

THE Evening School of the Bible Institute, corner Sixth and Hope streets, opens its Fall Term Monday, September 27, 8 p.m. Write for circular.

Shortridge and Johnson Speak Here Tonight.

Senator Hiram Johnson and Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, will speak tonight at a public meeting at Trinity Auditorium. The doors of the auditorium will be open at 7:30 p.m. Speaking will begin at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be under the joint auspices of the County Central and State Central committees. Chairman Alfred Bartlett will preside.

Senator Johnson arrived in Los Angeles yesterday and is at the Alexandria, where his local political supporters arranged a reception in his honor. He was accompanied here by Al McCabe of San Francisco, who is looking after his political fences in the South. Mr. Shortridge is due to arrive this morning.

Both speakers at tonight's meeting will talk in the interest of the Harding and Coolidge campaign. It is also expected that they will discuss the League of Nations, both opposing it.

TWO SONS JOIN WITH FATHER IN LAW FIRM

E. E. Shepard and his son Chester E. Shepard announced yesterday the formation of a law firm of Shepard & Shepard here. Arthur C. Shepard, youngest member of the firm, recently admitted to the State after being graduated from the University of California last spring, is in the Marine Corps reserves, honorably wounded in the Meuse campaign, and frequently cited for bravery in Guerre for bravery.

Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate is never sold in bulk but in cans only. In this way Ghirardelli's retains its flavor and strength—the two most important elements of good chocolate.

No need to add sugar to your cup of Ghirardelli's! Its own chocolate-sweetness takes care of that. You'll find Ghirardelli's just right—as it is!

An ideal dairy country

Evergreen pastures, pure mountain water, temperate climate make Tillamook ideal for dairying.

The summers—when most of the cheese is produced—are pleasantly cool, of a temperature about the same as the old spring house on the farm where grandmother kept her butter and milk.

Tillamook dairymen are constantly improving their herds. They asked to have a special law enacted for Tillamook County, which makes necessary the regular, rigid testing of every cow for health.

When you see Tillamook on the rind, it means that the quality goes back to the very source of supply.

Are you using Tillamook Cheese to reduce the high cost of living?

ARCADE DEPOT PLANNER TALKS.

Mythical Millions Juggled on Shadow of Title.

Titcomb Explains, Refrains and Hits Plaza Site.

Admits Defective Espee Title as He Schemes to Spend.

Declaring in one breath that the railroads will be called upon to raise the money for the Sachse Plaza union terminal and will want to spend it to the best advantage, and in the next asserting that he didn't think the people will approve of nor pay for any such extravagant feature as the proposed Main-street subway for interurbans, H. B. Titcomb, vice-president of the Pacific Electric Railway, yesterday explained the various features of his substitute plan to the City Council.

As the Council adjourned at 3 p.m. to attend the funeral of Lorin A. Handley, President Workman announced that the hearing will be finished next Friday afternoon, when representatives of the Central Development Association and the City and County Viaduct Association will be heard. Herbert J. Goudge, representing the so-called Business Men's Association, also will speak on the Titcomb plan at that time.

Mr. Titcomb yesterday declared that the railroads are opposed to a union freight terminal because it will result in confusion, as mules and horses hitched to vehicles calling for freight and baggage would get all tangled up with auto trucks and other transfer equipment. He also asserted that there would be serious mix-ups in handling the shipments from three or four roads in the same house.

RELATIVES CONGEST.

The Pacific Electric vice-president did not attempt to point out that such a terminal will centralize business and make possible the elimination of transfer companies, which now exact many thousands of dollars per year from the public for moving freight from one depot to another, as well as for transferring baggage. Mr. Titcomb declared a union passenger terminal is unnecessary because less than 3 per cent of the incoming passengers go to another depot, but he seemed to be of the impression that the freight and baggage to be transferred from one depot to another is so plentiful that its centralization would confuse the handlers and mix up the horses and mules with the automobiles.

Mr. Titcomb explained Chief Engineer Sachse's statement that 5 per cent of the incoming passengers transfer to another depot by stating that only about 3 per cent really transfer, the other 2 per cent consisting of relatives, who, after meeting them, accompany them to another depot.

NO SUBSTITUTE.

"There is no economy in a union depot, and the railroads do not want it!" said Mr. Titcomb, with emphasis.

In tearing the Sachse Plaza plan to pieces, Mr. Titcomb saved several million dollars by discarding the Main-street subway, which, he says, is not necessary. He also discarded the $400,000 Macy-street viaduct as something the Pacific Electric can get along without. He saved another half-million on the Main and Redondo proposition. Then he slashed off a few more Plaza items and declared he had saved the people many millions of dollars. But he neglected to explain, it was pointed out, that in doing so he had sidestepped all the big features of the Sachse report to relieve intolerable traffic conditions.

Regarding the Arcade depot and the proposed abandonment of it, he said that if it were to be abandoned and sold somebody had better find out whether it could be sold.

"The cloud on our title from the Wolfskills doesn't make it eagerly sought," was his conclusion.

Nothing was said about this title cloud making the Arcade a poor place to sink about $10,000,000 more to provide a substitute for a union terminal, as usage would be by the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric with the Salt Lake let in as an accommodation, and the Santa Fe left out in the cold.

SUDDEN DEATH TAKES PROMINENT ATTORNEY.

C. D. HOUGHTON, LONG IN CITY SERVICE, IS VICTIM OF HEART FAILURE.

Charles D. Houghton, for eight years deputy city attorney, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home, 132 South Serrano street, from heart failure. While he had complained, Wednesday evening of feeling slightly ill, he did not regard it as serious, but ten minutes after he awoke at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning he expired.

He was born fifty-two years ago at San Jose, and was the son of Sherman Otis Houghton and Eliza P. Donner Houghton. His father was the first Congressman elected from Southern California and secured the first Congressional appropriation for Los Angeles Harbor. His grandfather, George Houghton, was leader of the Donner Lake party, which was lost in the Sierra Nevada Mountains in the '40's.

Mr. Houghton was educated at the University of California and practiced law on his removal to this city. From 1909 to 1917 he was a deputy in the City Attorney's office and at the time of his death was a member of the law firm of Houghton & Robertson, his partner being Howard Robertson, president of the Board of Public Service Commissioners.

Besides his widow, who was Meta Houghton, the attorney leaves his mother, two brothers, S. O., Jr., and Stanley Houghton, and two sisters, Clara and Elizabeth P. Houghton, all of this city.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mr. Houghton was a close friend of the late Charles D. Pillsbury, who was for years a deputy city attorney and who died recently.

The City Council yesterday directed that resolutions of condolence be prepared in memory of Mr. Houghton.

How Will Labor Vote?

Labor is torn by conflicting feelings as it prepares to vote in the approaching Presidential election, if we may judge by the papers that claim to speak for it. It is told by Mr. Gompers that Cox is labor's true friend; it is told by Republican leaders that Harding's election will mean prosperity and the "full dinner-pail," and is assured by more radical advisers that Debs or Christensen is the only true apostle of freedom. Any one who can poll all or even a large part of the labor vote would, of course, win hands down, but how the worker will vote after all this contrary advice nobody seems to know. No one, at least, is predicting the election of Christensen or Debs, so the choice narrows down to the two journalists from Ohio. An interesting omission is the absence of any appeal to the workers to vote for this or that candidate to restore the workman's beer.

Telegrams sent by THE LITERARY DIGEST to the Labor press, for light on the probable complexion of labor's vote this year, bring replies that give an impression of cross currents and confusion. However, at this stage of the campaign, it is undoubtedly the only line that the public can get upon the probable attitude of organized labor in the coming election.

The leading article in THE DIGEST this week, September 25th, presents the subject in an interesting and comprehensive form. It will be read with interest by hundreds of thousands of men and women.

Puritan Hams and Bacon

Leadership

Leadership in quality, rather than quantity has been our ambition in producing PURITAN Hams and Bacon.

We know we cannot sell all the hams and bacon that are sold, so we just sell the best of them.

We would not deviate ever so slightly from the PURITAN standard of quality even though such a course would enable us to care for a much larger trade.

This is why PURITAN Hams are always good, all ways.

THE TOWN PAINTERS.

If all the artists go to France because of American prohibition Paris will be the greatest distributing point for red paint in the world.

DAILY TRAGEDIES.

It is a dull week, indeed, when Los Angeles does not have its crime mystery. And it always runs true to form in having a woman in the case—sometimes half a dozen.

ALL ONE WAY.

They are betting 6 to 1 on Harding in New York and that city is the home of Tammany, the sponsor for Gov. Cox. If straws show which way the wind blows here are the signs of a hurricane.

MAY BE WELCOME.

If Gen. Price Cutting starts an invasion of this country the housewives will be in favor of taking down the barriers and letting him in. There was a time when he might have been considered an enemy of the country, but the people are now disposed to give him a chance.

THE MEDDLERS.

Senator Harding refuses to play the demagogue. He says that the Irish question is not one with which the American government can properly concern itself. Under the League of Nations it would be classed as an internal or domestic question and in no wise can American interference be justified. As the distinguished Senator says: "We have already meddled abroad excessively."

BONE DRY POLITICS.

The Prohibition candidate for President promises to withdraw if Cox and Harding will pledge themselves to stand rigidly by the Volstead Enforcement Act and set their faces against any amendment which would weaken it. Neither the Democrats nor Republicans think the offer is much of an inducement, however, and so the bone-dry leader may safely go ahead with his campaign. Gov. Cox at least will not give him an answer.

THE CIVIC NEED.

It would be fine if we had money enough for everything, but it is tough to have to be taxed for it. Los Angeles is about the only pretentious city in America that has no public library building in harmony with its rank and standing. Again, it is proposed to have a bond issue of $5,000,000 to overcome this glaring municipal weakness. An adequate library building has become a positive necessity—not alone for the future, but for the immediate present. The city must have a public library but—

DECORATING THE DOME.

According to the arbiters of men's fashions those fuzzy fedoras are still to cover the shells in which men carry their brains. The same velours that came in ten years ago are the peak of perfection and the attempt then made to introduce the little feathered cockade is being revived. This might be utilized in politics. The tip of a Barred Rock rooster feather would indicate that the wearer was for Cox, while a supporter of Harding might have a quill from an eagle in his helmet. In a couple of years the only way to tell the men and women apart will be that the ladies will wear flowers and the men feathers in their bonnets.

IN MEMORIAM.

Over in Europe the wise men are contending that the creation of our memorials should not be undertaken for another ten years. By that time public sentiment and common sense can be hitched together as a matched team and the memorial can take some impressive form in which beauty, sensibility and service can be combined. Thus far many of the memorial suggestions might be denominated as of a freak character. They would be classed as exhibitions or curiosities. There was the movement, for instance, to rear a mammoth model of the world in London and to sculpture the war story on the Hudson Palisades. A few more years of waiting will suffice to pass such projects into the discard, but it isn't fair to postpone the planning of our memorials until those who shared in their purpose have also passed away.

WAR OF WORDS.

Some harsh things were said at the convention for international prohibition. Bird S. Coler declared that there were Senators and Representatives who were regularly violating the prohibition law and he said that the Anti-Saloon League was too busy fighting the Catholic and Jewish churches to do any good. They hadn't even been able to get a definite statement on the prohibition amendment from either of the Presidential candidates of the major parties. He definitely charged that W. H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was sacrificing prohibition to a crusade of religious bigotry and should be banished from every civilized nation. He said that saloons were still running in New York and that Anderson was covering his own incapacity by using the league to war against the Catholics and the Jews. When the prohibition workers get to warring among themselves the flaws in their armor will stand revealed.

THE ANTI-JAPANESE LAND LAW INITIATIVE.

Judging by the press dispatches, the Federal government in Washington is deluged by Japanese protests against the anti-Japanese land laws which will be submitted to the electors of California in November in the form of initiatory amendment to the State Constitution. The Japanese of California and of Tokio cannot understand that the question is one that California alone is privileged to decide, that their protests to the Federal government are fruitless, that the Federal Constitution reserves to the sovereign States the right to legislate on questions relating to the tenure of land.

It is true that the President might advise the voters of California to defeat the initiative; but he has not the authority to direct. Neither has Congress the authority to set such laws aside. The Times is well aware that it will benefit the State nothing to get into a controversy with the Federal government over the question of Japanese exclusion. Congress might decide to retaliate by withdrawing all restrictions against Japanese immigration. That is a question which comes within Federal jurisdiction and over which the sovereign States have no control.

Both Senator Harding and Gov. Cox have expressed the opinion that Congress should come to the relief of the State of California and help repel the Japanese peaceful invasion; and a Federal statute would be more desirable than a State law. If the question were to be submitted to the State Legislature an agreement between the State and Federal authorities could probably be reached. But when direct legislation steps in all compromise is impossible. Seldom has the vicious nature of direct legislation been more clearly exposed. Gov. Stephens has been in conference with Secretary of State Colby over the question of land law legislation; but there was nothing that the Governor could propose. Faced by an initiatory amendment the Governor possesses no more authority than a private citizen.

The land initiatory amendment must go on the ballot. It cannot be modified or amended; and, if it is passed, the Legislature is powerless to repeal or amend it. The Federal government has itself partly to blame. Repeated protests from the people of California against the Japanese industrial invasion have gone unheeded. The Times sought six months ago to awaken Congress to the gravity of the situation. But all Congress did was to appoint a commission to investigate during the Congress recess and to report when that body again convenes. And before Congress reconvenes the question will have been passed upon by the State electorate.

Secretary Colby is known to have asked Gov. Stephens whether there was not some way in which action in California could be withheld until Congress had an opportunity to act. The only response the Governor could make was to refer him to the direct legislation article in the State Constitution.

The situation is not to the liking of Californians, who are not so blinded by fanaticism as to be unable to see the injury that is likely to result to the State. They know that hasty action is to be deplored. But the opposition of the white residents of the State to the industrial encroachments of the Japanese is so embittered that the proposed amendment is likely to carry. If it does so our interests at Washington may be prejudiced. A State does not set itself up against the nation with impunity.

For ten years The Times has been warning against the menace of direct legislation. Proposed as a reform measure it has cost California millions of dollars and has accomplished nothing that could not have been done better by the State Legislature. The complicated Japanese controversy is but the last of many ills. Like most radical reforms, direct legislation only makes worse conditions which its proponents claimed that it would improve. Other States that are urged to add a direct legislation article to their constitutions will do well to profit by California's experience and let it severely alone. It is a sorry substitute for the representative government established by the Federal Constitution.

HAYWOOD RECANTS.

"Big Bill" Haywood, notorious leader of the I.W.W., expresses himself as deeply grieved that Federal agents should be making inquiries about his whereabouts at the time the Wall street bomb outrage occurred. He said on Sunday in Chicago: "It is beyond my comprehension how anyone could associate me or the organization of which I am a member with the vicious outrage."

It is not to be presumed that the secret service agents suspect that Haywood himself placed the bomb. He is the king of the I.W.W. and, like the members of the former reigning houses of Hohenzollern and Hapsburg, he keeps scrupulously away from the firing line. But it is not surprising that one who has preached direct action so broadly and so openly should be suspected of knowing something as to the identity of those who put that preaching into practice.

Haywood's pious horror at the outrages committed by the bomb planters, however, is in ill keeping with the policy of the organization which he represents. If he is going to denounce direct action his organization will not long continue to receive subsidies from the Third Internationale. Lenine's recent manifesto warned the Communists of all lands that they must steel their hearts against pity for those who are slain by weapons of the proletariat in their war against capital; and direct action is the weapon that Lenine recommends.

If Haywood's followers were to take him seriously and discontinue bombing and sabotage he might find himself confronted by the still greater horror of being compelled to go to work. A leader who advocates bomb throwing, but voices a sanctimonious protest when the bombs are thrown, is not likely to awaken much enthusiasm among the members of his clan. He is getting into the parlor Bolshevist class, and they are without honor, even among the wobblies.

THE BARRIER.

The sports say that the people who have made this country dull and distressing to live in now want to make it impossible to get away from. Now the prohibitionists want the government to cease giving passports to those who want to go to Cuba or Mexico or other near-by lands where booze is sold. Here, indeed, is a chance for riot and revolution. Metaphorically, this would be the last straw. If the government is urged to build a wall around the country to keep the wets close to their home brew there is the making of another civil war—and not so blamed civil, at that.

HOSPITALS, HUMANITY, SOLDIERS.

The hospital program of the community should be expanded in accord with the needs of the hour and the demand of growing numbers.

As the tenth city of America in population and eleventh in industry there is a great moral obligation to furnish kindly care to those within our gates.

The hospital is not exactly a pleasure resort. People do not flock to hospitals for the fun of the thing. The hospital cannot compete with the movies on the tango teas. Nevertheless the hospital is a great essential of civic life. In its development it has kept abreast of the time, but it still falls far short of its possibilities. The hospital of a generation ago was a bleak, cheerless and forbidding thing whose creaking floors competed with the groans of the sufferers within. The modern hospital is cheerful and wholesome by comparison.

But at its brightest and best the hospital is not a desirable loafing place. Few go there for joy. And yet the hospital is so necessary. The modern apartment has no sickroom. In fact, it hasn't room for much of anything but the family and the laundry bag. When Friend Husband gets chilled up with a mess of pleurisy or sprains his ankle while kicking at the administration the first impulse is to bear him off to a hospital ward. If the wife is suffering from tonsilitis or indiscretion the doctor will have her in the hospital at the first cry. Twelve-thirteenths of the infants in the stratum known as society are born in the hospital.

Modern life is dependent upon the hospital for its first and last aids and most of the aids between. The biggest and best hospitals in the world might well be in Southern California. The hospital here can almost be half out of doors the year around. The air and sunshine are better than medicine, and the view from the window is an inspiration. If there is such a thing as finding ease and contentment in a hospital they should be attainable in the institutions in and about Los Angeles. Here in full perfection should be found the conveniences and conditions to rebuild and restore those who were injured or disabled in the service of their country. Here also should be the kindliest ministrations for the venerable survivors of the Civil War period.

Yet it doesn't take much of an inquiry to disclose the fact that there is a lack of hospital accommodation for those whose care should be the especial charge of the nation. Likewise many of those now in the hospital are experiencing neglect and discomfort. Emergency cases and major operations are cared for, of course, but in the long and tedious processes of restoration the patient is oft forgotten. There are few comforts and conveniences for invalid soldiers. They are left pretty much to themselves. Books and flowers and the attentions of the nurse are the rarities of their hospital routine.

The government must and shall provide competent and sufficient hospital accommodations for its sick or wounded soldiers. Men who served overseas and who have no homes of their own must be provided with the best of care and treatment when illness falls upon them.

If the cities, the churches, the medical bodies or the fraternal organizations can co-operate with the government in the work of physical rehabilitation so much the better. But it must be done, and in a more thorough, competent and gracious manner. The Los Angeles hospital program must broaden and grow more ambitious. The hospitals we have are excellent and admirably conducted as far as they go, but are almost pitifully inadequate to the demands which sickness and suffering place upon the community.

There must be a speeding up for humanity's sake.

THE DYING ONE.

"Europe is dying," moans in somber disenchantment Anatole France, dean of the French school of skepticism, the literary cult that had such a vogue in Western Europe in the decade before the war. To the writers of this school nothing was worth while. Life itself was only tolerable on condition that one did not examine it too closely. Virtue was a pose; morality a convention; religion a superstition that science had dispelled.

In them romanticism and materialism were curiously blended. They wore their cap and bells in the most solemn places. They mocked all serious effort and in their works sensuality was always on parade. To a beautiful woman all things were permitted, except virtue. Purity was not a problem of morals, but one of sanitation. They were seekers after the sensational. Honesty and thrift were tiresome because they were commonplace. Patriotism was only a platitude. They went often to the Moulin Rouge, never to Notre Dame. They reveled in abstract ideas and delighted in building little paper Utopias in which muscle triumphed over brain. When credulous people took them seriously they shrieked with laughter, like children who had frightened others by playing ghost.

To their high priest Europe after the war is not a civilization reborn, rising from the ruins of crumbling despotisms, but a decrepit old man tottering blindly towards an open grave. Only the past was worth while, and that past is as dead as the Pharaohs sleeping in their colossal tombs. These builders of Utopias, these scoffers at all serious things, find themselves suddenly standing amid the wreck of all that once made life to them worth living. They are as dead leaves driven by the chill wind of autumn, and they cry out in their disenchantment that Europe itself is dying.

It is the sorrowful wail of one who sees his illusions falling, petal by petal, like the leaves of a dead rose; who views the abyss at the end of the trail to which skepticism and unbelief invariably lead. The human frailties, mocked in the years when muscle and brain were alert, are now taking their revenge. Failing eyes cannot envision the new dawn that is following the night of desolation of the World War. The dissolution he faces becomes to him the sepulcher of the world.

There is an ineffable sadness in this lament of the author of "Thais," "Penguin Island" and "The Revolt of the Angels." It is a confession of failure that is always depressing to hear, the lament of one who finally awakens to learn that there are things in life which really are worth while, which cannot be continuously scoffed at with impunity. Faith is the only staff that will sustain declining years; faith in humanity, faith in country, faith in the future, faith in the Infinite. The pilgrim who journeys through the winter of life without this support is certain to limp badly.

"Europe is dying." Nay, the reckless, frivolous, sensuous Europe, of which Paris was the shrine and Anatole France the idol, is dead. But a new Paris, a new France and a new Europe have been born, with a spirit that faces resolutely the serious things of life, that is no longer satisfied merely to be amused. France, the writer, sees only the ruins left by the war; but France, the nation, sees the wheat and the flowers growing in the spaces between the stones. Courage is born of suffering. He who has never smelled powder may be boastful, but he is not yet brave.

The Europe which Anatole France laments perished at the Marne; but that was in reality a fictitious Europe, a civilization based on the most striking inequalities, on despotism in Russia, militarism in Germany, Socialism in Belgium and Italy, a kind of democratic monarchy in Great Britain and republicanism in France. What was virtue in one country was crime in another. The capital of each nation was infested by secret service agents of every other. Secret diplomacy made a mockery of pretended national honesty. The balance of power was suspended over a gulf wherein chaos resided. Big nations fought over little ones like dogs fighting over a bone.

That Europe passed when the spirit of self-determination was born on the battlefields of France. Its legitimacy was established by the Treaty of Versailles and the new order is making slow but substantial headway. It is not Europe that is dying, but Anatole France.

TELLTALE LAUGHTER.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

When a gentleman with M.D., D.P.H., M.R.C.S. after his name writes a solemn treatise on "The Biological Aspects of Laughter," as has Dr. Cecil Reynolds, brain specialist, in the Southern California Practitioner, which is reprinted and discussed by medical associations in various parts of the world, we must appreciate that laughter is a very serious subject.

It is certainly a disconcerting give-away—by our laugh they shall know us, and not always to our advantage. Dr. Reynolds treats the giddy subject scientifically, biologically, technically, in weighty phraseology that leaves precious little room for that crackling sense of triumph from which he declares most laughter accrues.

"Laughter," he says, "is one outward and visible sign of deep biological significance by which the soul of a man can often be read."

This modern weakness for baring our souls via psychology, psychoanalysis and biological treatise hardly seems decent—it makes us feel so naked. We shall have it introduced into those "good salesmanship" courses soon and I rather suspect the life insurance fellows have already acquired it.

"Laughter is always an expression of a sense of triumph in the celebrate individual just as blushing indicates a sense of shame, conscious or subconscious. This sense of triumph may be justifiable or unjustifiable, real or fictitious," says the doctor, and proceeds to lay bare the motive behind every kind of laughter, from the tidy snicker to the uproarious haw-haw, the gentle smile to wild hysteria.

Now, in order to laugh, it appears we must feel a pleasant sense of superiority somehow, somewhere. The reason we laugh at slap-stick comedy, for instance, is because we feel so superior to the silly ass that can't dodge a pie or the waggly end of a ladder.

Most of us, the common herd, can laugh at that sort of thing. But when the jokes are more subtle fewer of us can rise to the distinction of feeling superior—hence the "highbrow" becomes a bore to so many of us.

However, the doctor doesn't mention those numerous souls who don't appear to have any sense of humor at all—yet heaven knows they often obviously feel superior to any of us. And when we try some of our pet jollities upon them and they fail to smile, preserving that utterly blistering, vague expression, our own triumphant laughter certainly sounds hollow. O Laughter, where is thy victory?

All the same, when we can laugh at ourselves it is a victorious sign. For then we are conquering our own weaknesses. Some of us, it appears, have an affected little laugh for use in current conversation. This the doctor explains is usually found in people once timid and shy who have overcome the misery.

"Average normal laughter today expresses triumph over primitive, instinctive and deleterious conditions, and summons other individuals to an appreciation of the current standard of morality, sanity and what is held by the majority to be the truth, whether it really be so or not."

"Whether it really be so or not." There, you see, is the pitfall. It is so dreadfully easy for us to expose our ignorance. Laughing in the wrong place in the wrong company about the wrong thing is utterly fatal and our "triumph" in that case is dismally short-lived.

"The unkind or scornful laugh of the self-satisfied being is directly intended to express triumph over another individual usually of the same species and hence is not co-operative and is really a perversion." So says the doctor, who shows that paranoiacs rather specialize in this particular laugh. Oh, but we must beware of the scornful laugh—especially when Alfred Kremborg is reading his vers libre poems at the club. That chap must have created paranoia germs by the thousand.

And here is another awful warning.

"The hypocritical laugh expresses a sense of triumph not felt in order to mislead the companion or herd into a belief that the laughter is in agreement with them, and the penalty he pays, if discovered, is analogous to that which the carnivorous animal would suffer if he rpared in triumph when he had slain no prey."

So when you laugh uproariously at the bosses' jokes or the club president's jokes or the celebrity's jokes or the society leader's bon mots you are rather up against it. If you laugh your triumph is spurious and recklessly dangerous, and if you don't laugh—but few of us have ever risked that. That, doctor, is surely one of the occasions when one would establish one's superiority more successfully without laughter—but at awful cost.

Personally, I shall cultivate what the doctor calls the "demrecatory laugh" which indicates that one feels "a little ashamed to express triumph over such a comparatively simple situation, but feels it due to confess that one is glad evolution has progressed so far and will indicate the same to you by a cross between a smile and a chuckle; any greater expression would be unworthy and would indicate self-satisfied abandon where there are so many other conquests of self to be made." It is quite the most respectable of all the forms of laughter. Just a dash of highbrow, you understand, tempered with becoming modesty.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

FATHER NOAH.

Father Noah built his ark, just behind the village pound; and he heard some fool remark from each guy who snooped around. All the alecks, all the wits, joshed him as he sewed his planks; all the sports were throwing fits, laughter sounded from their ranks. Why should Noah build an ark when there was no water near? It was folly, rank and stark, his absurdity was clear. Father Noah toiled along, heedless of the jeering mob, nailing shingles with a song—he was Johnnie on the job. When the ark was fit to sail, all the sky grew dark and dour, there were gusts of wind and hail, then it rained three feet an hour. Had he cared for what men said, when he built his Shamrock Five, all the beasts would now be dead which are very much alive. All the elephants and fleas would be resting in their graves; all the cows and bumble bees would have perished in the waves. If we know we're doing right, that our goal is safe and sane, we should heed no comments light from the frivolous and vain. Every man who bravely works at a useful task or trade finds some cheap, derisive smirks on the loafers' mugs displayed. But he chorties and he sings as he plies his gleaming tools, for there are no grievous stings in the empty words of fools.

TO BURY HERO OF PASADENA.

Remains of Soldier Come from France.

City Demands Action of Street Railway Company.

Los Angeles Engineer to Talk at Crown City.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Sept. 24.—Honors of a military burial will be accorded by the local post of the American Legion tomorrow to Private Warren F. Brigham, A.E.F., who is the first local boy who died overseas to be brought back home to a Pasadena grave.

The body of Private Brigham, who was the son of Mrs. George F. Brigham, 377 Maple street, arrived here this afternoon, coming by way of San Francisco.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the chapel of Ives & Warren, and will be conducted by Maj. Leslie L. Groves, chaplain of the Pasadena Post, American Legion. An escort of the Legion will escort the body to Mountain View Cemetery, where it will be buried with military honors.

Private Brigham died in France in 1918.

MAY ARREST P. E. OFFICIALS.

The city of Pasadena may cause the arrest of officials of the Pacific Electric Railway if the company does not comply with ordinance No. 1827, requiring them to complete the so-called girder rail system on East Colorado street.

The City Commission today amended the ordinance, making it a separate violation for every day after October 8, on which the work remains uncompleted.

City Attorney J. H. Howard stated that under the ordinance it would be possible to hale the Pacific Electric officials into Police Court, fine them $500 or imprison them for not more than six months, for each offense of violation.

ENGINEER COMING.

William Mulholland, engineer of the Los Angeles water system, will come to Pasadena next Friday evening and discuss the cost of the proposed municipal railway to Los Angeles with Pasadena engineers. The meeting was announced today by E. H. Lockwood at a gathering of citizens discussing the project.

SPRINTER PADDOCK DUE.

Charles W. Paddock, the Pasadena runner who won fresh laurels at the Olympic Games in Belgium, will arrive home from Europe Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, according to a message received here today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Paddock. The parents have also received word that the sprinter was ill with influenza in London for two weeks, following the Olympic Games.

COMMISSIONER'S SON SHOT.

William H. Reeves, Jr., 12-year-old son of City Commissioner William H. Reeves, accidentally shot himself in the hand today while examining a rifle. He was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where the wound was dressed. It was not serious and later the lad was able to return to his home, 251 Galena avenue.

FIRST FOOTBALL ACCIDENT.

The first football accident of the season occurred here today, when Fred Fuller, 272 Elm avenue, a student at the John Muir intermediate school, suffered a dislocated shoulder in a scrimmage. He was removed to his home.

BABY VICTIM OF ACCIDENT.

Collision Kills Child; Mother Escapes Injury.

Automobile Ground to Bits by Traction Car.

Gasoline Tank Catches Fire Under Wreckage.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 24.—Ground to pieces under the front trucks of a local Pacific Electric street car on the East Third street and Redondo line at Redondo avenue and Colorado stret, Jack Bealey, 6 years old, son of Mrs. Margaret Bealey, was killed, and his mother miraculously escaped fatal injury, this afternoon, when the automobile driven by Mrs. Bealey and the street car collided.

Mrs. Bealey, who resides at 431 East Third street, is the daughter of Maurice Kuhn, widely-known Southern California theatrical man. She was driving a large touring car across the tracks when the impact occurred. The front trucks of the street car were torn from place and carried to the rear, the larger vehicle dragging and grinding the motor car to bits over a distance of fifty feet before a stop was made.

Both occupants of the machine were imprisoned beneath the wreckage. The child, it is believed, was killed instantly. The mother escaped with but slight bruises, it was learned at the Seaside Hospital.

Mrs. Bealey was taken from the wreckage in a fainting condition. She was removed by tearing a side door from the touring car, a mass of twisted metal and wood. The gasoline tank of the automobile caught fire as the street car was brought to a halt, enveloping the machine in flames. The fire department arrived in time to put out the fire before it had a chance to reach Mrs. Bealey or the boy.

It required more than three-quarters of an hour to lift the street car from the automobile and remove the body of the child, which had suffered a fractured spine and fractured skull, physicians discovered. An inquest will be held at the Grote and Comer undertaking parlors Monday afternoon to fix the blame for the tragedy.

WAS VETERAN BUILDER.

Aged Business Man of Santa Ana Passes Away.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA Ana, Sept. 24.—Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for H. H. Roper, pioneer builder and contractor of this city, who died last night after a three weeks' illness at the age of 84.

He was a native of Wetheringsett, Eng., and came to Santa Ana in the 70's. He leaves a son, Norman B. Roper of Cascapalco, Peru; a daughter, Mrs. L. A. Viersen of Los Angeles; two brothers, J. J. Roper of Santa Ana, and Spencer J. Roper of Santa Clara, and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Porter and Mrs. Rosa Beckington, both of Belvidere, Ill. The Odd Fellows' lodge has charge of the funeral services.

Redlands Banker Says Homes Were Scarce Thirty Years Ago.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 24.—M. M. Phinney, vice-president of the Redlands National Bank, yesterday celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of his coming to Redlands. That was two years after the founding of the city, and then there were but few houses here and only a small acreage planted to oranges.

Mr. and Mrs. Phinney and their four children came from Lawiston, Me. They went to the Sloan House, the hotel that stood where the First National Bank stands today, Miss Lucy Foote, another pioneer of the city, being clerk of the hotel.

Mr. Phinney says conditions were as bad as today, for there were but two houses here for rent and one of them the landlord refused to rent to him because he had children. Mr. Phinney soon bought ten acres on Palm avenue and planted it to oranges. He could not get men to build a house, but managed to get a barn built and lived in it for a year until his house was finished.

There were then about 1300 people in Redlands and Mr. Phinney says that not more than a hundred of them are here now. So heavy were building operations that freight trains were being run in over the Santa Fe, the only railroad into the city, in double sections.

INSPECTOR VISITS HOME.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Sept. 24.—Col. R. C. Humber, U.S.A., of Washington, inspector-general of the War Department, arrived at the Home yesterday on an annual inspection of conditions at this branch. He is accompanied by L. S. Friedman, special accountant of that department, who is already delving into accounts in the treasury department. Inspection of men in barracks will take place this morning at 9 o'clock.

REDLANDS TO PAY HIGH GAS RATE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 24.—A complete schedule for the new rates of the Citrus Belt Gas Company has just been received from the Railroad Commission and shows the rates to be higher than was first reported.

The new rate gives Redlands 400 cubic feet of gas for $1, the next 2400 for $2, the next 7000 for $1.75 and the next 10,000 for $1.50. This makes the average consumer's rate almost $3.10 a thousand.

The minimum charge is high and Redlands is expected to provide large revenue in this manner. The company, it is believed, can operate and make money even though paying $2.50 a barrel for oil instead of the 72 cents of years ago.

Citizens are hoping that the new rate will mean service, there was no gas all yesterday morning.

TALKS PRISON REFORMS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 24.—Charles Brandon Booth, well-known prison reform worker and leader of the Volunteers of America, made an address to the members of the Rotary Club today in which he urged that the Rotary clubs of the State get behind the movement for prison reform.

Mr. Booth touched on the conditions in the homes of many of the prisoners with the large families left destitute and no way to get along. He says that most of the work of the Volunteers of America is along this line.

PENSION DAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Sept. 23.—Pension money totaling $374,136.87 was paid yesterday to inmates of the Home, which included, besides members present, several hundred pensioners who are absent with leave to whom checks were and are being forwarded.

ANNUAL MEETING OF RIVERSIDE CHURCH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 24.—Nearly a thousand members and friends of the First Methodist Church attended the annual meeting and dinner held last night. The report of the pastor, Dr. Benjamin S. Haywood, disclosed a membership in excess of 1100 and a financial record unprecedented in the history of the church. The benevolent offerings alone reached the total of nearly $17,000, while the total raised for all purposes exceeded $37,500.

Supervisors to Attend Meeting of Coachella Citizens.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 24.—Fulfilling a promise made when a petition for the incorporation of Coachella as a city of the sixth class was presented, the members of the Board of Supervisors will journey to the desert town next Wednesday to hear the matter discussed at a mass meeting. When the petition was filed, the board dismissed the request without prejudice, owing to the showing made by the opponents of the movement at that time.

REPUBLICAN CLUB.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 24. — Steps were taken last night at a meeting of the Harding-Coolidge Club to form a Young Republicans' Marching Club. A drum committee was selected and a committee appointed to formulate plans for the organization of the marching club. R. J. Welch, Jr., is chairman, and will act with County Auditor C. O. Reid and A. N. Tefft. Present plans contemplate the completion of the organization on Monday and a visit to Beaumont the following Wednesday to assist in the organization of a Harding-Coolidge branch club.

SANTA ANA LICENSES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Sept. 24.—Marriage licenses here: Horace E. Gibson, 21, and Jessie Poland, 19, both of Los Angeles; Franklyn Wright Thomas, 21, Venice, and Anna Siegel, 18, Los Angeles; Clarence Vernallen, 21, and Dorothy Kerr, 19, both of Long Beach; Forest David Duncan, 23, and Marietta Ann Brissette, 20, both of Los Angeles; Frank Baza, 30, and Mary Rosales, 18, both of Los Angeles; Leo Cadio Lopez, 26, and Maria Padilla, 25, both of La Habra; Tom Estrada, 23, and Lareana Cardenas, 20, both of La Habra.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 24.—Destroying $10,000 worth of hay, beans, canning implements and the barn in which they were stored, a fire raged at Yale and Colorado streets early this morning, beyond the control of the fire department. The cause of the blaze is still unknown.

The property was owned by Henry T. Maley, farmer and well contractor. Though the hay was partly covered by insurance, nothing save of harness and some of the farming implements are a total loss.

San Diego Army and Navy Academy

TO YOUNG MEN INTERESTED IN ENTERING THE U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY, ANNAPOLIS:

The Navy Department has just recently made radical changes in the method of admission to the Naval Academy.

The San Diego Army and Navy Academy meets every requirement of the new Admission Plan to Annapolis.

Inasmuch as it is in first rank of scholastic standing—a "Division A" school under the University of California's rating and in the "A" classification of the War Department, one of only two schools in Southern California so distinguished. It became of only two military schools in Southern California which have earned full accrediting at West Point.

Do you want to enter Annapolis without the usual mental examination?

APPEAL ON WEST HIXTON ORDER.

An appeal was made yesterday to Rear-Admiral Benson, chairman of the United States Shipping Board at Washington, D. C., to overrule an order made by District Director Ebey of San Francisco, instructing the Los Angeles Pacific Navigation Company not to load the freighter West Hixton, but to turn over to a San Francisco company the cargo for Honolulu and the Orient. The ostensible reason for Director Eby's action, which favors a competing vessel and port, is that he considers the cargo here insufficient to warrant dispatching the West Hixton, which is one of the four vessels the Shipping Board assigned to the Los Angeles Pacific Navigation Company for operation and management.

General Manager A. J. Frey of the local company, in a telegram to Admiral Benson, calls Mr. Ebey's action an attempt to put Los Angeles Harbor out of business as a trans-Pacific port. He reminds the chairman of the Shipping Board that fifty leading Los Angeles firms organized the company and are maintaining in the Orient eleven agencies as well as agencies in this country at an expense over twice the amount the company can receive from the board under its agreement. He says the company already has expended for agency expense and freight solicitation some $60,000 in excess of what its revenue has been from the board. He produces other facts to show that the company is not a mushroom organization, but is in business to stay, and says it certainly is discouraging that the board should desire to take away the West Hixton. He states that other vessels of the line recently arrived have had substantial homeward cargoes and advices from the Orient indicates the West Hixton will also have a satisfactory one.

"I understand," General Manager Frey states, "that it is the desire of the Shipping Board to establish permanent trade routes, but certainly this cannot be accomplished if managing agents are to be ordered, after cargo has been booked, that the vessel is not to be dispatched simply because the outward cargo movement generally is light. If the West Hixton is taken away from us at this stage it means the efforts we have made and the expense incurred to establish the line out of Los Angeles will be defeated."

SILK MAKER FIGHTS FOR HIS CHILD.

Small Girl Plays in Court, Oblivious to Struggle of Her Divorced Parents.

Eleanor A. Gootenberg, 7 years old, played in Judge Reeve's court yesterday, oblivious of the fact that her parents, David and Adelaide Gootenberg, were battling for her possession. Eleanor frequently kissed and hugged her mother. Her father smiled at her.

Mr. Gootenberg is a silk manufacturer of Paterson, N. J. He obtained a divorce in the East some time ago. Mrs. Gootenberg and the child were in Los Angeles. He came into the Juvenile Court here to be awarded the custody of his daughter. Mrs. Gootenberg opposed his demand.

In court yesterday they told their respective stories. Mrs. Gootenberg said Mr. Gootenberg had not contributed to the support of Eleanor since the divorce. He said he offered to send money, but his wife would not accept it. Because of the legal issue raised, Judge Reeve took the case under submission.

Mrs. Gootenberg is secretary to Miss Martha Collins Weaver, who conducts a school for girls.

DENIES FLAG CHARGE.

Not Used in Advertising, Defendant Says; Demands Jury Trial.

Pleading not guilty to the charge of misusing the American flag in advertising matter brought by E. R. Sullivan, a member of the American Legion, J. M. Flowers, manager of the United Automobile Club of America, Inc., yesterday asked for a jury trial in Police Judge Chessbro's court. The case was transferred to Judge Fredericksen's court and set to be tried the latter part of next month.

Mr. Flowers, who was brought into court on a warrant issued by Judge Chessbro after having had the case repeatedly continued, appeared on crutches and in the company of his wife and Attorney Thompson. Bail was set for $200, and Flowers said that he did not have the money with him. When told he would then have to go to jail, he replied that he was too sick. After a little time Mrs. Flowers succeeded in getting the bail money and Flowers was released.

PHELAN STOPS HERE.

Senator Sees Friends and Then Goes on to Oceanside.

After three days in the San Joaquin Valley, where he says he found the Japanese question and the government's suit against the raisin growers' company the paramount issues, U. S. Senator Phelan arrived here at 7:30 p.m. yesterday and was tendered an informal reception at the Alexandria by friends and admirers.

A delegation of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, headed by Orville O. Jonas, president of the organization, called on him, as did Dr. A. D. Houghton of the Hospitalization Committee of Los Angeles Post No. 4 of the American Legion.

The Senator spent most of yesterday in Ventura county and at 10 p.m. left here for Oceanside, where he will speak this morning. His next stop will be at San Diego, where he will talk at a business men's lunch at noon and at a meeting in the evening.

From there he will go to the Imperial Valley, where he will be joined by C. M. Brown, campaign manager at the local Cox headquarters. Together, they will return here by way of Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

UNCOVER DYNAMITE CACHE.

Discovery of a large quantity of 25 per cent dynamite in an old stable near the Vernon refining plant of the Vernon Oil and Refining Company, Twenty-sixth street and Santa Fe avenue, yesterday caused considerable excitement at the plant.

Workmen who happened to go into the old stable found thirty-six sticks of the explosive and reported the find to the Sheriff's office. It was at first thought the explosive had been put there with the intention of blowing up some of the plants in the neighborhood. The refinery handles high-grade gasoline.

Deputy Sheriff Fox, who investigated, found forty-seven more sticks in a manger in the stable. He reported that the dynamite had apparently been placed there by yeggmen, who planned to boil the nitroglycerine out of it.

The explosive was found in three different mangers and was covered with grass that had dried. It was thought it had been there about a week. The dynamite was manufactured on February 20, last. No caps or other means of exploding it were found.

NAB MAID AT Y ROOM.

Detectives Charge Grand Larceny to Former Worker at Ranch.

Arrested in her room in the Y.W.C.A. with what the police assert to be stolen property in her possession, Miss Jacques Rogers, 25 years of age, a maid, was locked in the City Jail late yesterday afternoon by Police Detectives England and Vernand. She is charged with grand larceny.

According to the police Miss Rogers was employed as a maid by E. R. Burroughs of the Tarzana ranch. Several days following her discharge a short time ago a quantity of clothing and a revolver were missed and the police were notified. The missing goods were discovered in the woman's room, according to the officers.

Eruptions of the Skin Cause Torturous Itching

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disorder, you are well acquainted with the flaming, burning itching that these diseases produce.

So many people continue to suffer from eczema, tetter and other forms of skin disease because they do not seek the source of their suffering, and no disease can be successfully combatted unless attacked at its source.

Skin diseases are caused by an impurity or disorder in the blood, and there is no real and genuine relief within your reach until such impurities are removed.

TO TEST STATE VEHICLE LAW.

City Will Hold Fines and so Force Court Action.

Amended Motor Act Supersedes Municipal Rules.

Widney Calls It Penalizing Us; Urges Quick Fight.

Plans were made yesterday at a conference between City Prosecutor Widney and the Police Court judges to test the constitutionality of the California Motor Vehicle Act by holding all fines collected for violations of the law in the Los Angeles city treasury, thus compelling the State to bring suit for the money. This action came as a result of the recent sweeping decision of the State Supreme Court, holding that the State Motor Vehicle Act superseded all municipal regulations.

The City Prosecutor yesterday instructed the police department to hereafter enforce the State law instead of the city traffic ordinances, but the Police Court judges agreed to turn over to the City Treasurer all fines collected. City ordinances regulating no parking, etc., and other traffic regulations not covered in the State law, are to be enforced by the city as usual.

"City Attorney Burnell," said Mr. Widney, yesterday, "plans to learn from the Attorney-General whether or not the State will fight for these fines. Of course, if the State will disregard the matter, Los Angeles can spend the money and will be about as well off, financially, as when traffic violators were punished under our city ordinances. If the State intends to fight for the money then we shall dispute the constitutionality of Section 25 of the Motor Vehicle Act, which apparently states that Los Angeles shall not receive one penny of fines collected by its officers for violations of the State Vehicle Act, and in effect penalizes us for trying to regulate the traffic in our streets."

The California Motor Vehicle Act, as amended in 1919, which, by the court decision in the Daniels case, became the supreme uniform motor vehicle law of the State, declares that persons must operate motor and other vehicles "in a careful and prudent manner, and at a rate of speed not greater than is reasonable or proper."

The act declares that it shall be unlawful to operate any vehicle at any time or place in excess of thirty-five miles an hour; that the speed in closely built up territory shall not exceed twenty miles an hour; not faster than fifteen miles an hour in the business district of any city, and at the same rate of speed when approaching or passing over grade crossings or turning curves, and that where the driver's view at a crossing is obstructed the speed shall not exceed ten miles an hour.

MOTHER OF TINY TOTS ENDS LIFE.

Found in Home With Heavy Twine Noosed on Neck; Had Been Despondent.

Climaxing three days' despondent brooding over an incurable malady with which she was reported to have been afflicted, Mrs. Emma Revo, a young Bohemian matron, aged 26, ended her life in her home at 528 Sierra street yesterday evening by strangling herself with a piece of heavy twine, according to the report of Detectives MacKay and Niver of Lincoln Heights Police Station, the investigating officers. The body was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, but police surgeons found that life was already extinct.

Mrs. Revo whose husband had not returned home from work at a late hour last night, is the mother of two children—one aged 2 and the other 4 years old. According to neighbors, she had been suffering from tuberculosis, the police report stated. For the past three days she had been very despondent, neighbors told the police.

Mrs. J. Ordh, a neighbor, called upon Mrs. Revo yesterday evening and discovered her body lying on the floor of her bedroom. A length of twine had been made fast at one end to a bedpost and the other end was noosed around the woman's neck. Then she had apparently toppled over and drawn the noose tight. Her two small children were in an adjoining room at the time.

Mrs. Ordh called the police. After investigation, the detectives declared that Mrs. Revo had apparently committed suicide, although no note was found written by the dead woman and the means by which death was caused were unusual.

To Celebrate Discovery of Healing Plan.

Chiropractors of Southern California will tonight celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the discovery of the science of chiropractic with a banquet at the Alexandria for more than 300 persons. It also will be a farewell courtesy to Dr. B. J. Palmer, president of the Palmer School of Chiropractic at Davenport, Iowa. Dr. Palmer has been here for a week delivering lectures on chiropractic at the Alexandria each night to the public and mornings to practicing chiropractors only. He leaves for San Francisco tomorrow.

Dr. Edwin S. Doutt is in charge of the arrangements. Dr. E. C. Fortin will preside as master of ceremonies and Dr. Palmer will give a short talk. Other speakers are Dr. L. M. Driver, president of the California State Chiropractors' Association; Dr. C. H. Wood and Dr. Charles A. Cale.

Last night Dr. Palmer lectured on "After Tomorrow-What?" in which he dealt with the future of chiropractic.

WOULD SHELTER POOR IN TENTS.

Public Defender Urges That County Provide Housing to Meet Rent Pinch

Because of the increased number of tenant cases coming before him, Public Defender Wood yesterday by letter asked the Supervisors to take steps toward providing the poor with tents for housing purposes.

Mr. Wood stated in his letter that last year he had 254 cases of tenants who had been evicted or threatened with eviction by landlords. This year the cases already number 1000. He suggested that the Supervisors either rent tents from the government or purchase some for the use of those people who are forced out by high rents.

Chairman Dodge said he thinks it is a matter for the city to take up. The letter, however, will be considered by the Supervisors.

DEAD OFFICIAL'S PAPERS STOLEN?

Rev. Campbell Coyle of the Highland Park Church, the family pastor. Rev. Dr. Moore, professor of foreign languages at Occidental College, who was associated with Mr. Handley for a number of years here and at the University of Emporia, Kan., spoke of the life and deeds of the dead man.

THE PALLBEARERS.

The active pallbearers were U. S. District Judge Bledsoe, Collector of Internal Revenue Carter, City Treasurer Powell, Mattison B. Jones, Charles H. Treat and Ray Groves.

The following were the honorary pallbearers: Mayor Snyder, former Mayor Alexander, Councilmen Conaway, Criswell, Farmer Fleming, Langdon, Mallard, Sanborn, Wheeler and Workman, President O'Brien of the Board of Public Works, Hugh J. McGuire, U. S. District Judge Trippet, U. S. Marshal Walton, John P. Elliott, Isidore Dockweiler, E. L. Doheny, Phillip Dodson, William Humphreys, Frank Reese, Jacob Kartz, Reese Llewellyn, Champ Vance, Samuel Haskins, Ralph Groves, Ben Groves, Edward Groves, Alexander Mitchell, Frank Dominguez, Judge Craig, Milton K. Young, K. K. Parot, Horace Ferris, Charles L. Wilde, Olin Wellborn, Dr. Randolph Hill, George Babcock, J. G. Owen, George Denis, Robert J. O'Connor, Charles Brown, Judge Stephens, Tracy Becker, Mark Cohn, W. Fleet Palmer, Harrington Brown and John Kane.

Burial was at Forest Lawn.

With the arrival of Mr. Groves with the body yesterday, all the details of the accident in which Mr. Handley lost his life were learned here for the first time.

Mr. Handley was on his way from San Francisco to Sacramento when his motor car was crowded to the edge of the road and slid into a three-foot ditch. The machine overturned and Mr. Handley's neck was broken.

The chauffeur, who was unhurt, telephoned news of the tragedy to Mr. Groves at Sacramento. The latter accompanied the driver to the scene of the accident and investigated. Contrary to earlier reports, there was no mystery connected with the affair.

Jail Woman on Threat Charge Against Judge.

Mrs. Margaret Lowith, who passed one night in the County Jail because she refused to tell Judge Taft where her son, Francis Lowith, 6 years old, could be found, was taken into custody yesterday when she is said to have made threats against Judge Taft and others, if her son was taken from her. Her attorney, Ralph Graham, corroborated the charge of threats. He swore out an insanity charge against her, and she was taken to the psychopathic ward for observation.

Mrs. Lowith became hysterical a few days ago when she believed that her son was to be taken from her, and tried to throw herself out of a window on the fourth floor of the Courthouse. She was restrained by Bailiff Gates and Attorney Arthur E. T. Chapman.

COURT DIVIDES BIG FAMILIES.

Two Mothers With Two Dozen Children Between Them Granted Divorces.

Two women whose combined families include twenty-four children were granted divorces in Judge Jackson's court yesterday. One of them proved the exception to the rule and objected to any award of alimony.

"If I take any money from him, he will annoy me to death. I can work and care for myself," declared Mrs. Mary J. Brown, who, after forty-one years of married life was divorced from Samuel Brown, the father of her sixteen children. Judge Jackson insisted upon the award and promised Mrs. Brown protection.

Mrs. Emily C. Gregory, the mother of eight children, was given a divorce from Edward L. Gregory and alimony of $60 per month. She charged cruelty and intemperance, but when the judge asked Mr. Gregory if he drinks he said, "I can't get it."

FLASHES.

EDUCATIONAL PROJECT.

ELABORATE RECORD OF READ EVENTS IS PLANNED.

By Grace Kingsley.

Before leaving for New York yesterday, taking with him the film of "The Truant Husband," Ray Rockett, president of the Rockett Film Corporation, made announcement of some of his future plans for the organization. These plans have to do with making historical and scientific film records of this country and its enterprises.

The project includes the producing of one and two-reel educational subjects, in addition to special features. The decision to make these short-reel subjects was arrived at following an extensive canvass of the United States and Canada, from which it was discovered that the country is two to three years behind in short-reel subjects desirable for exhibition not only in theaters, but also in universities, schools and churches.

The Rockett plan is, first, to try out subjects from American history, incidents of a highly dramatic nature and from the lives of outstanding men and women who have done most to build the American nation. No hard and fast rule is to be adopted in regard to the length of the stories, the merit and importance of a subject determining.

The plan is so comprehensive that it contemplates every phase of the growth of the nation, war on land and sea, statesmanship, religion, education, liberal arts, transportation, agriculture, mining, politics, diplomacy, etc.

The subjects are designed to be American classics and are intended to constitute a visual authority on the growth of the American nation in all its moods and phases.

John Davidson to Direct.

John Davidson, well-known New York actor, whose recent playing of Ibsen roles at the Majestic proved one of the theatrical events of the season here, and who is playing a leading role at present in a Thomas H. Ince production, is planning a career as a director of pictures, according to his statement, made in course of an interview yesterday. In fact, his picture acting at present is merely by way of an education in the technical essentials of photodramatic production.

"I am tremendously enthusiastic in regard to pictures," said Mr. Davidson, "and, while it is too soon to talk about my plans, I'm glad to say that I consider that there is no essential phase or branch of drama that cannot be put on the screen."

Just when Mr. Davidson will commence his directorial activities is not yet settled. It is likely that his first experiences will occur under supervision of Mr. Ince.

Relief Note.

At last the awful gulf between stage and screen has been bridged, and those cruel satires on motion pictures which Fanchon and Marco use in their revue at the Mason are going to be toned down, if Carmel Myers has anything to say about it.

In fact, so hurt was the young Universal star last Monday night when she saw the awful things Fanchon and Marco have done to her pet artistic medium, that Miss Myers invited the two artists over to Universal to see for themselves if picture players don't sometimes express great things and all that.

The satirists went, had their pictures taken with Miss Myers, promised, cross their hearts and hope to die, they'd cut some of the venom out of their satires.

If It Excites You to Know It.

Edith Roberts, Universal star, is expected back from her two months' visit in New York Monday.

Six new motion-picture stories will be put into production at the Goldwyn Culver City Studio within as many days.

Mrs. Neil Wright, sister of May Allison, has returned to Tennessee after a two months' visit with her famous sister at her new Beverly Hills home.

Hal Cooley has just completed two pictures with Fox.

Moran's Back-fire.

"My wife fusses me every time I come home," boasted Eddie Lyons to his partner, out on the set at Universal City.

"Affection or investigation?" inquired Lee.

GOES TO NOOSE SAYING PRAYER.

Fullerton Rancher's Slayer Hanged at San Quentin; Slept Soundly.

With his head thrown back, his eyes raised to the sky and repeating a prayer over and over, Moss Gibson, negro slayer of Roy G. Trapp, a rancher at Fullerton, yesterday morning walked to the gallows at San Quentin with a firm step.

Gibson has studied the Bible almost continuously since he was sent to San Quentin after his trial last summer. Thursday night he ate a hearty dinner, and slept soundly, but yesterday morning he scarcely touched his breakfast, said Warden Johnston. Father E. P. Carroll of San Rafael accompanied the murderer to the gallows, and two negro ministers, Rev. H. P. Prowd of Los Angeles and Rev. J. A. Dennis of San Francisco, were among the witnesses to the execution.

Gibson confessed to the Fullerton murder, to the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Erhardt of Phoenix, Ariz., and to four other killings which could not be verified.

ALIBI WINS FREEDOM.

Earl Wyatt Gains Second Exoneration in Ng Case.

Earl Wyatt, charged with grand larceny, was acquitted by a jury in Judge Houser's court last night. Wyatt was indicted by the grand jury with Walter E. Mortimer, Mike O'Gara and others for robbery and grand larceny. The charge of robbery was dismissed in court.

It was charged that Wyatt entered the place of Lew Vong Ng, March 25, last, at which time Ng claims he was robbed of $461.50 in a so-called fake police raid. Wyatt set up an alibi.

"LOVE, HONOR AND BEHAVE" IS READY.

The completion of his second and last five-reel super-comedy for First National release, "Love, Honor and Behave," has been announced by Mack Sennett. The negative will be sent East this week.

This production will exploit the comedy gifts of Charlie Murray, Phyllis Haver, Marie Prevost, Billy Bevan, Kalla Pasha, Eddie Gribbon, George O'Hara and many others prominent in the Sennett organization.

Mr. Sennett has personally supervised the filming of the entire production of "Love, Honor and Behave."

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Taxes and Prosperity; at Last Prices Go Down; an Engineer at Play.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

That taxes are closely related to prosperity there is no doubt, and that our unscientific system of collecting war funds years after the battle flags have been furled, and of placing a premium upon business expansion, has been one of the chief causes of the continued high cost of living is equally certain.

The business public is becoming exceedingly restless under the burden in its present form, and only the assurance of a new administration is holding off the storm which would otherwise even now be breaking. It is rather that one of the first duties of the incoming administration must be to place our tax budget upon a human, workingpractical basis. This done, readjustment will follow rapidly.

Turning from the national war and exc-ss profits taxes we have a home problem of considerable magnitude to meet. It has been estimated that the appropriations of the next Legislature of the State would total $75,000,000, or $37,500,000 a year. In addition to this vast sum we have a city budget for the fiscal year of $12,570,614, to which must be added a county budget around $13,000,000.

We are tax-ridden. The high cost of government must come down along with the high cost of living. With this in mind it is going to be a bad year for proposals which involve the spending of large sums of money, and the marketing of huge bond issues, admirable as the individual projects may be.

PRICES COMING DOWN.

We hear much about the price trend, and whether it is up or down. Mostly it has been up. Now for the first time it is definitely down. This does not mean that overnight we are to find ourselves restored to a prewar price basis. In fact, the average consumer of foodstuff or essential commodity in Los Angeles would have to use a rather fine microscope to find the point where the trend makes the turn.

Beyond seasonal fluctuations in fruits and vegetables, and excepting these items which are nationally affected, such as sugar and silks, there has been little appreciable reduction in food, clothing or shoes in Los Angeles.

Retailers say that they are still stocked with goods purchased at peak prices, and while some liquidation is going on, and there are individual prices on specified articles, the level so far shows no marked decline.

However, the composite forecast is for lower prices. Two slashing slashes have already been made in automobiles, and others will follow. Cotton and woolen goods have been materially reduced by manufacturers, and leather is on the toboggan. It takes time to manifest these changes in retail prices, but they will be felt in shoes, clothing and cotton goods within a few weeks, and should reach a momentum which will affect the general average by early spring.

With production maintained, labor working harmoniously and efficiently, and a tax readjustment in sight there is every reason for an optimistic assurance that the worst is over and that the return trip has commenced.

AN INVENTIVE ENGINEER.

When H. E. Davis, manager and mining engineer for the brokerage house of A. W. Coote, is not busy extolling mines and managing he burns the midnight oil in his personally conducted workshop, for Mr. Davis is by way of being an inventor, in his hours of recreation.

He has just perfected a phonograph reproducer for which a patent has been applied. Phonography and mines are rather far apart, but the invention is said by those who have examined it to hold great potential possibilities of bringing out qualities of tone and sweetness now entirely absent through lost vibration.

"The mechanical principle involved is so simple," says the inventor, "that it seems almost incredible that it has been overlooked so many years by phonograph manufacturers. No effort has been made as yet to commercialize the invention."

LOS ANGELES STOCKS.

The market yesterday was of fair volume, but was rather weak on the price side, several of the issues selling off from the close of the preceding day. This was especially noticeable in some of the leaders. Goodyear in small lots brought $37.50. There was still lively trading in Los Angeles Investment, but the effect of the building sale and announcement of a forthcoming dividend having been discounted, the price weakened off from an opening of 97 cents to sales at 90 cents. Toward the close there was an increased inquiry and the price moved up a couple of points, settling back to a closing bid of 90¼.

In oils, Union of Delaware was a good trader around $28 with a soft close at $28.25 bid. Union of California registered $184; Premier moved up from 42 to 45 cents; Mascot was steady at $2.40, and several hundred shares of Fullerton Oil went over at $2.25.

United Eastern Mining opened at $3, but reacted to $2.97. Telluride was at 26 cents, and the other mines dormant. The bond movement was unimportant.

FOREIGN TRADE.

The Department of Commerce issued a notice yesterday stating that there had been a drop in August exports and imports.

RICE RANCH DIVIDEND.

The Rice Ranch Oil Company, the stock of which is largely held in Southern California, has increased its dividend rate to 20 cents per share; next payment October 1. The company's financial statement is said to shew a surplus of approximately $100,000 in cash and Liberty Bonds, while its production is declared to be steadily becoming more profitable.

OTIS TRAVELS.

E. G. Otis, assistant cashier and manager of the bond department of the Home and Hibernian Bank, will leave Monday on an eastern trip which will include attendance upon the Investment Bankers' Association in Boston, October 3 to 6 and the convention of the American Bankers' Association in Washington beginning the 18th. Mr. Leo S. Chandler, vice-president of the same institution will attend the Washington convention.

BONDS SELL FAST.

The offering of Seattle school bonds brought out on Wednesday by Carstens & Earles is sold out, according to Resident Manager Edward V. Carr, to which statement he appended the opinion that "the rapidity with which this issue of long-time municipals was absorbed is a marked indication of the underlying strength of the conservative investment market."

TRADE BRIEFS.

Oleomargarine production in the United States has increased 163 per cent in the last five years. This industry dates back to the Franco-Prussian War when France offered a price for a wholesome substitute for butter.

California still leads in production of gold and Montana in the output of silver. The State's output for 1919 was 842,638 ounces, worth $17,-398,200.

NEW PRODUCTION.

The bringing in of three oil wells with an initial daily production of 15,000 barrels on a section of land owned by the Standard in the Elk Hills, ten miles northeast of Taft, constitutes one of the most important discoveries in the history of California, according to Standard Oil Topics.

MONEY FOR MINES.

That portion of the American public which enjoys taking a chance is directing its attention more and more towards the mining game, and recent flotations have been meeting with better success than some of the offerings during the war period and immediately thereafter. Some think that a great new mining investment movement is setting in, that will be of broad proportions. Production is the primary consideration of the modern investor, who has learned to think in large figures so that the average promoter goes gunning for game big enough to place his prospect at once on a producing basis. Instead of thousands or hundreds of thousands he now talks of millions—and often he gets away with it.

FOOD STORAGE.

Storage report for the week ending September 22 made public yesterday shows a decrease in egg holdings from 97,834 cases last year to 87,917 cases now. Butter has increased from 337,486 pounds to 1,067 pounds and cheese has declined 257 pounds and cheese has declined from 1,456,396 pounds in 1919 to a present storage of 1,067,958 pounds. Apples show the greatest decrease there being in Los Angeles reserve only 68,453 boxes against 190,739 at the same time last year. Potatoes are running almost even with the demand in nominal storage of 3440 sacks being reported. Onions have been coming in and there are 25,600 sacks on hand as against 42,020 sacks in 1919.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Trading in stocks today was again influenced to an extraordinary extent by the campaign against commodity prices. Shares of various industrial companies which are likely to be affected recorded further severe declines on lack of support.

The reaction was materially accelerated by heavy short selling, that element evidently proceeding on the assumption that lower price schedules necessarily foreshadow further reduction or suspension of dividends.

The financial needs of various industrial companies were again indicated by an offering of some 80,000 shares of new stock by Kelly Springfield tire. That stock declined 6 2-8 points.

Steels, equipments, coppers, tobaccos and leather and paper issues were carried down in the general recession, losing one to almost five points, but rails were very irregular. Total sales were 650,000 shares.

Further strength and activity was shown by the bond market, Liberty issues again leading at gains from ⅛ to 1 1-4 points. Total sales, par values, aggregated $15,850,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

TRUCK OWNERS CONVENE HERE.

Draymen's Association Will Name Officers Today.

Fourteen Thousand Vehicles in State Represented.

Problems of Highway Handled in Committee Reports.

Election of officers this afternoon and a banquet this evening at the Hotel Clark for which 150 places have been reserved will close the two-day annual convention now being held in Los Angeles by the California State Draymen's Association, a subsidiary of the National Association of Commercial Haulers.

One hundred and ten delegates are in attendance from twenty-nine affiliated local associations in the State, covering towns and cities from the Oregon border to San Diego. The twenty-nine local associations represent the ownership of 14,000 motor vehicles in California involving an investment of $6,000,000.

Yesterday's sessions were given over to organization, reports and the appointment of committees. Last evening the committees worked at the formulation of reports, which will be presented today and which will deal with business problems as well as with trucking on the highways, overloading of trucks and its effect upon the roads, and related subjects affecting all motorists. The meetings are being held in a hall at 320 South Broadway.

Present officers of the association are: W. P. Scott of Oakland, president; vice-presidents, C. G. Munson of Los Angeles, W. A. Hicks of Sacramento, W. S. Hamilton of San Francisco, W. S. Worcester of Stockton, and G. H. Galbraith of Bakersfield. Milo W. Bekins of Los Angeles is treasurer and C. R. Collins of San Francisco is secretary and manager and also general manager of the National Association of Commercial Haulers.

PREPARES FOR WORST.

Possible Bus Competition Prompts P. E. to Ask Service Changes.

Because two auto bus companies have applied to the State Railroad Commission for authority to start service between this city and Pasadena, and Pasadena and Alhambra, the Pacific Electric yesterday filed with the commission a request for permission to discontinue the use of commutation tickets between Los Angeles and the two cities in question, and also to discontinue the use of transfers in Pasadena. The application hinges on the contingency of the bus companies getting their desired permits.

The recent rate increase of 20 per cent, granted to the Pacific Electric by the commission is said to have so displeased many commuters that auto stage line promoters regarded this as an opportune time to inaugurate interurban bus service to Pasadena and from there to Alhambra. The Pacific Electric says it would lose so much revenue as a result of bus competition, that it would be obliged to go on a straight fare basis, and abolish transfers in the Crown City.

ON NARCOTIC HOSPITAL.

Council Will Mark Time Until Government Authorities Act.

Dr. Robert William Thomas, who was in charge of the Federal narcotic clinic at San Diego, addressed the Council yesterday in support of his plan to establish an isolation hospital on San Clemente Island, for the treatment of drug addicts. The Council referred the matter to its health and sanitation committee which called a conference to be held Monday, October 4, at 2 p.m., to be attended by Federal and city health officials.

The committee will then report to the Council its findings as to whether or not the plan is workable and of the policy recommended by the government. In view of the fact that the Federal officials closed the municipal narcotic bureau, the Councilmen desire to take no steps in regard to narcotic control or regulation until the Federal officials have been consulted.

FEWER FOREST FIRES.

Arrests and Fines Have Had Helpful Effect, Supervisor Says.

By partial statistics just completed in the office of Supervisor Allen of the Angeles National Forest, the season now closing shows ninety fires of every description in the local reserve. Of this number, about one-third were due to brush fires caused by the carelessness for the most part of ranchers. There has been a sharp reduction in the number of fires caused by the carelessness of campers, due in a large measure to the strict enforcement of the law in that regard. More arrests have been made for leaving fires unextinguished than for many years, and in nearly every instance fines have been imposed and paid.

Less than 300 acres of brush have been burned over and the loss by fire has been comparatively small.

POINTS TO TRAGEDY.

Coat and Note Found at Beach; Police Suspect Suicide.

"Please get my belongings at 915 South Olive street. Am very sorry —Dustave," said at note which the police of Long Beach found last night in the pocket of a coat picked up near the New Tent City there. The note was addressed to Mrs. Fannie De Wolfe in care of the Van Noy Interest Company, Sixth and Main streets. The Long Beach police suspect suicide.

In another pocket of the coat was found a notebook containing notes in French, and a card bearing the name "Dustave Gluekert, artistic photographer, Los Angeles."

Mrs. De Wolfe did not work yesterday, her employers said last night, and they have no record of her residence. At the South Olive-street address, which is a rooming-house, no one was known named Gluekert.
